TWO SIDES
OF EVERY COIN

A Dialectic Formatting of Christian Thought

James A. Fowler
TWO SIDES OF EVERY COIN
A Dialectic Formatting of Christian Thought

© 2014 by James A. Fowler

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means (including photocopying, electronic transmission) without the prior written permission of the author, except for brief quotations embodied in critical articles or review. For information, contact author at C.I.Y. Publishing.

Published by C.I.Y. Publishing
P.O. Box 1822
Fallbrook, California 92088-1822

Printed in the United States of America

DEDICATION

In the early part of the twenty-first century it was my privilege to meet and befriend a fellow Christian teacher and author by the name of Bill Freeman. In our discussions we shared the necessity of seeing both sides of every issue in Christian thought. After one such discussion he sent me a little pamphlet by Robert Govett entitled “The Two-sidedness of Divine Truth.” Though limited in scope, the pamphlet was biblical and beneficial. Brother Bill Freeman has since graduated to glory, but I would certainly have enjoyed sharing the content of this volume with him, and I am confident that he would have enjoyed the ensuing discussion. Thank you Bill for your friendship. May you enjoy the opportunity to see all things as God sees them – for eternity!
TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION ............................................................................................................. 1

- Ideological Contrasts ................................................................................................. 4
- Definitions ................................................................................................................ 7
- An Historical Survey ................................................................................................ 11
- Dialectic Diversity .................................................................................................... 21
- Elucidation of Interactive Dialectics ......................................................................... 28
- Avoiding the Ditches .................................................................................................. 34
- Illustrating the Both/And Dynamic ........................................................................ 36
- Philosophical Dialectic of “Being” and “Doing” ....................................................... 40

INTERACTIVE BOTH/AND DIALECTIC CHARTS

- Dialectics of Being and Doing .................................................................................. 45
- Dialectics of Christian Doctrine ............................................................................... 57
- Dialectics of Christian Praxis ................................................................................... 113
- Dialectics of Social Issues ....................................................................................... 165

CONCLUSION ............................................................................................................. 187
ADDENDA

Addendum A – Dichotomous Polarities......................195
Addendum B – Terminology........................................196
Addendum C – Dialectic Diversity................................197
Addendum D – Hegel’s Synthetic Reductionism.............198
Addendum E – Kierkegaard’s Inverted Dialectic.............199
Addendum F – Interactive Dialectics............................200
Addendum G – Both/and Dialectics...............................201
Addendum H – Avoiding the Ditches.............................202
Addendum I – Philosophical Foundations –
Plato/Aristotle....................................................203
Addendum J – Philosophical Foundations –
Being/Doing......................................................204

BIBLIOGRAPHY ................................................................207
Introduction
INTRODUCTION

The referee in his black and white uniform strides toward the center of the football field, flanked by the captains of the two opposing football teams. In the middle of the field, he reaches into his pocket and pulls out a coin, and shows the team captains which side of the coin will to be designated as “heads” and the other side as “tails.” The captain of the visiting team is told to call “heads” or “tails” prior to the coin being tossed into the air. When the coin lands on the grass, they all lean over to see which side landed facing upward. If the visiting captain is correct in his call, he can make the choice of whether his team will receive the football or defer and kick the football to the other team on the initial kickoff, in anticipation of receiving the kickoff at the beginning of the second half of the game. The choice is made. The players from each team come on the field. Let the game begin!
This scenario is played out thousands of times every week during the Fall football season as youth teams, school teams (elementary, junior high, high school, college), and professional teams prepare to play their games. Each event is an example of the importance of identifying the two sides of the coin.

Not every coin has the image of a head on one side, nor the image of a tail on the other side. However, one side is always designated as the front side and the other as the backside. In the field of numismatics, those involved in the field of collecting and evaluating coins, the front side is referred to as the “obverse,” and the backside as the “reverse.” But whatever you call the two sides, there are two sides to every coin.

This initial illustration of flipping a coin and calling for “heads” or “tails” demonstrates an either/or determination of one side or the other of a coin. In Christian thought there are either/or contrasts of polarities and dichotomies of ideas and thoughts, that like the flipped coin will present themselves as an either/or wherein one side is observable and deemed important, while the other side is obstructed and/or deemed inadmissible. The problem with these either/or dichotomies of Christian thought is that the solution is not as clear-cut as the tossing of a coin and the outcome of an obvious “heads” or “tails.” One Christian may adamantly argue that the side of the coin she has called is the only valid or viable side of the coin, while another may assert that the reverse side of the issue is the only proper and acceptable position. Both may be unwilling to consider that the other side is an acceptable expression of Christian thought.

Such has often been the interactions of Christians concerning different facets of Christian thought, leading to rancorous polemics and fracturing of doctrinal and denominational loyalties. Oh, if it were as simple as tossing a coin and exclaiming “heads” or “tails.” It’s just not that simple when it comes to how Christians think.
IDEOLOGICAL CONTRASTS

Most readers will be familiar with and have used Roget's Thesaurus. Many logophiles (those fond of words) regard Roget's Thesaurus as one of the three most important books ever printed in the English language (the Bible, Webster's Dictionary, and Roget's Thesaurus). Those three books are on my desk at all times.

Dr. Peter Mark Roget (1779-1869) was a physician, scientist, and philologist who developed the Thesaurus early in his life (1805), but did not publish the book until forty-seven years later (1852). His objective was not just to identify synonyms and antonyms, but he sought to build a structure of all the categories of contrasts and opposites within the English language. Modern editions of Roget's Thesaurus have sometimes abandoned Roget's structure to simply put the synonyms and antonyms in dictionary form, but this sacrifices the foremost value of Roget's work. Roget's original structuring of English words into contrasted classification categories is a masterpiece of thought organization and will prove valuable to all who are interested in the broad spectrum of contrasting human concepts.

By the way, the word thesaurus is the Greek word for “treasure,” and is the word used in II Cor. 4:7 – “we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the surpassing greatness of the glory may be of God and not of ourselves.” What is the “treasure”? The treasure (the thesaurus) in our earthen vessels is Jesus Christ, who gives reality and meaning to our being. And I think it is possible to demonstrate that Jesus is the treasure that gives structure and meaning to all the contrasts of life.

Everything that exists is comprised of interactive contrastive elements – all things material and immaterial. The Triune God has the interactive persons of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. The atoms that constitute every material thing have the interactive elements of neutrons, protons, and electrons. Not only is there such triplicity in all things, but there is also a dual element of interactivity in all things. Within God there is the opposing polarity of His transcendence in relation to His immanence; His three-ness in correlation with His oneness; His unknowability contrasted with His knowability. In the material world we observe the dual existence of mass and motion (cf. Einstein’s $E=MC^2$), the positive and negative electrical fields, the pressures of expansion and contraction, attraction and repulsion, emission and absorption. Every action has its counter-action. Roget demonstrated that in the world of human thought every concept has a contrasting opposite (ex. hot and cold, light and dark, up and down, left and right, sweet and bitter, etc.), and this is likewise true in the realm of Christian thought as we contrast God and Satan, good and evil, right and wrong, truth and error, love and selfishness, etc. (cf. Addendum A)

As soon as we open our Bibles to Genesis, to the “beginning,” we begin to read of contrasts: The Uncreated God creates creation, comprised of heavens and earth. Order is formed out of disorder, as God creates light and darkness, night and day. The corporeal substance that comes from incorporeal spirit is both nonliving and living, and the living is divided into male and female, and the contrasted humans are placed into an idyllic garden where they confront two contrasting trees (the tree of life and the tree of the knowledge of the contrast between good and evil). Faced with the choice of obedience or disobedient rebellion, Adam and Eve face the consequences of life or death, and the contrasts of blessings or curses. True to life, even in the first three chapters, the Bible is replete with the counteraction of contrasts, as it is throughout.

DEFINITIONS

Before we proceed in our study of the contrasts of Christian thought, we need to consider some differing definitions. The “law of opposites” has been a phrase used in physics, philosophy, physiology, as well as morality, magic, and computers. Such terms as binary, polarity, paradox and antinomy, as well as the terms dichotomy, dialectic and dualism have been utilized in many of these disciplines of thought. We are going to briefly note some of these terms, as it is important to define and compare them. (cf. Addendum B)

“Binary” is a familiar term popularized in the terminology of digital computing. It means “twofold,” and in digital computing refers to a mathematical “base two” usage of electronic polarity wherein two binary digits or “bits” represent short-duration pulses of low (0) and high (1) direct current voltages. In its generic definition, “binary” just means that there is two of something, and the term is used in mathematics, chemistry, music and astronomy.

“Polarity” refers to divergent “poles” of contrasting objects, actions, or ideas. It is used in electronics, nuclear fusion, philosophy and politics to represent contrasting “poles.” Even psychology refers to a “bipolar disorder,” wherein a person experiences the poles of ecstasy and depression, peace and panic – a manic/depressive condition. “Polarity” means there are two opposite “poles,” and there are some contrasts in Christian thought that are best referred to as “diametric polarities:” ex. good and evil; God and Satan; righteousness and iniquity; etc. (cf. Addendum A)

“Paradox” is a term used early in Greek philosophy in the writings of Zeno of Elea. The word is derived from the Greek language: para=alongside and dokein=to appear. “Paradox” has reference to two ideas or statements that “appear alongside” of one another and appear to be contradictory or incongruous, but may contain a unifying truth when considered together. An oxymoron is a paradox reduced to two contradictory words, such as a “wise fool,” or a “deafening silence.”

“Antinomy” is similar to “paradox,” but has to do with concepts that are “against the law” of reason (anti=against and nomos=law) because they are mutually incompatible or involve an irresolvable contradiction. Antinomies reveal the limitations of human reasoning in logical discontinuities, but do not help us to understand the contrasts.

“Dichotomy” means “to cut in two,” derived from two Greek words, dicho=two and timnein=to cut. The primary meaning is that of dissection or bifurcation, and it is usually employed to refer to two opposing or contradictory subclasses without any explanation of how the two parts relate to one another. Dichotomous contrasts are often popularly identified as dualisms, but a dualism has a more technical definition.

“Dualism,” simply refers to the separation or demarcation of two things from one another. In classical philosophical usage, however, it often has the specific meaning of two mutually exclusive and absolute equal forces that oppose one another and cannot be brought together, remaining in a perpetual stalemate or stand-off. The Taoist dualism of yin/yang is an example of such. But the Christian either/or contrast of God and Satan (cf. Addendum A) is not a “dualism” in this absolute and classic sense because they are not co-equal eternal forces or powers. God is the sovereign and omnipotent Almighty God, and everything and everyone else is lesser than Him and will be overcome by Him.

“Dialectic” comes from a Greek word, dialectos, (dia= through and lecto=to talk), meaning “to speak or converse through.” To talk through contrasting issues was the basis of Socratic dialogue. Plato refined the term in reference to rhetorical and forensic debate; and Aristotle used “dialectic” as the proper rules of syllogistic argumentation in formal logic. Hegel employed “dialectic” to refer to the triadic integration of thesis and antithesis in synthesis. Karl Marx’s “dialectical materialism” dealt with the class struggles that bring about supposed historical progression. Kierkegaard wrote of an “inverted dialectic” that was an internal, subjective and experiential (existential) struggle of progressing towards God’s objective. Karl Barth was known as a “dialectic theologian.” The word “dialectic” has a long history of various meanings and requires careful definition and explanation if it is to be employed as a model for conceptual understanding.

If we wanted to “play it safe” in this present foray into philosophical theology it might be advisable to identify our study of Christian contrasts with a benign entitlement of “Christian contrarieties,” thus avoiding some of the inevitable problems with semantics and evolving definitions. We will, however, go “out on a limb” to identify the contrasts as “a dialectic formatting of Christian thought,” as this book is subtitled. The skepticism that many have of the word “dialectic” is no doubt due to its long and diverse history of interpretation, and thus its many varied explanations.

AN HISTORICAL SURVEY

A brief historical survey of thought contrasts and the use of the word “dialectic” with its many different interpretations of meaning will serve as a foundation for the explanation of the dialectic of complementarity that will be used in this study.

Greek thought, foundational to Western thinking, had an underlying “contrast analysis” evident from the earliest extant writings. In the mystical philosophy of Greek Orphism, the soul, regarded as the divine element in man, was considered incarcerated or entombed in the human body. Thales (623-546 B.C.), regarded as the founder of Greek philosophy, at least the Milesian school, sought to dissuade any thought of godly immanence or intervention, regarding only the tangible and material objects that could be evaluated by empirical observation to be permanent and real.

The pendulum of human thought continued to swing back and forth. Heraclitus of Ephesus (530-470 B.C.) reacted against the Milesian philosophy, positing that change was the ultimate reality, and only in the perpetual flux of constant alteration via strife and opposition could any sense of stability be achieved. His philosophy is sometimes called “fluxism.”
Parmenides (c. 515-440 B.C.) reacted against the relativistic “flux theory” of Heraclitus, arguing that material things exist in themselves as part of a monistic material oneness. He argued that truth could only associated with what could be empirically verified as contrasted with the illusion of trying to conceive or anything that cannot be perceived with the sense.

Back and forth went the argumentations of the early Greek philosophers, illustrating the continuous clash of contrasting human thought, and the constant discussion of human ideas and their priority.

Socrates (c. 470-399 B.C.) focused on the art of discussion and cross-examination of contrasting ideas in order to face moral dilemmas. He believed that through the dialogue of conversational interaction in question and answer, men could derive definitions that were unequivocal in assertions that did not violate the law of non-contradiction. The objective of such interaction was to seek knowledge and do what is right, despite opposition.
Plato (c. 428-348 B.C.) was the first Greek philosopher to suggest a dialectic wherein two contrasting ideas could be unified. His “theory of ideas” was a synthesis of Heraclitus’ constant flux and Parmenides’ constant stasis. Whereas material things are regarded as fixed and stable, our opinions of what exists are always in flux. His contrast was between the chora, the material receptacle, and the “Idea.” He still maintained a metaphysical factor for he regarded the “forms” and “ideas” of the intelligible world to be eternal, separating the upper world of reason and intelligence from the lower world of belief and illusory opinions.

Aristotle (384-322 B.C.), a student of Plato, while essentially an empirical materialist, focused on developing proper rules of dialogical argumentation in order to derive a logical conclusion. He formulated the syllogism of inductive logic – two premises allowing for a conclusion; the three basic rules of logic – (1) the law of identity: “whatever is, is,” (2) the law of non-contradiction: “nothing can both be and not be,” and (3) the law of the excluded middle: “everything must either be or not be;” and the four causes: (1) material cause – elements out of which object is created, (2) efficient cause – means by which it is created, (3) formal cause – expression of what it is, and (4) final cause – end for which it is created (teleology).

Evidences of these previous Greek philosophies can be observed in the Gnosticism that became prevalent in the second and third centuries A.D. The dualism of the pneumatic spirit needing to be set free from the imprisonment of the body certainly has elements of Orphistic thought. In Gnostic thought the soul (or spirit) of man was regarded as divine substance, whereas the body and material world were under the malign forces of the demiurge. Through Gnostic enlightenment a person could allegedly rise above the somatic and cosmic realm into divine knowledge and participation.

Proceeding to some European thinkers, Abelard (A.D. 1079-1142) was regarded as the greatest logician of the Middle Ages. He wrote works on Logic and Dialectics, believing that the Christian faith could be rationally accounted for, but human reason alone could not be the final arbiter of the faith. The extreme rationalists he called pseudo-dialecticians, and the mystics he called anti-dialecticians, recognizing that the dialectic between God and the material world had to be maintained. His work, Sic et Non, literally So and No, was an attempt to reconcile contradictions between scripture and the church fathers.

The German priest, Nicholas of Cusa (A.D. 1401-1464), combined geometry and logic to formulate his thesis of coincidentia oppositorum, “the coincidence of opposites.” Though the angles of a polygon are increased indefinitely, they never become a circle, and likewise man’s finite attempts to explain God and His ways never adequately express the Infinite. Therefore, he concluded, the contrasting opposites in human thought must not be cast in static rigidity, but must be allowed to coincide by occupying the same space from the perspective of God’s Infinity.

Several centuries later, Immanuel Kant (A.D. 1724-1804) sought to show the limitations of human logic altogether. He regarded the logic of the ancient Greek philosophers to be the “logic of illusion,” arguing that formal logic could prove both the thesis and the antithesis, thus creating an antinomy of contradiction. He suggested a “transcendental dialectic” wherein transcendental knowledge, which makes all human thought possible, allows human thought to go beyond formal reason to real moral decisions that pass beyond the limits of human experience. In his Critique of Pure Reason, he developed a moral philosophy that advocated a categorical imperative for human experience.

Also regarding formal logic as lifeless and monotonous, Georg W. F. Hegel (A.D. 1770-1831) explained that there is no absolute truth, but ideas evolve into more complex and truer forms within the historical mobility of human thought. Using the triadic dialectic of thesis, antithesis, and synthesis, Hegel’s reductionism suggested that individual experience along with social concern would eventually lead human thought to a harmonious reconciliation of all things in the consciousness of an “absolute” awareness of the “World-Spirit.” Hegel’s philosophy of “absolute idealism” was the first to use “dialectic” in terms of historical change.
Though Karl Marx (A.D. 1818-1883) criticized the Hegelian dialectic of “absolute idealism,” he used the dialectic of historical change as the basis of his “dialectical materialism.” Using the Hegelian paradigm of thesis, antithesis, and consequent synthesis, Marx formulated the belief that sociological conflicts and class struggles over material goods would progressively liberate the oppressed and produce materialistic egalitarianism and sociological utopianism. Thesis: common ownership + poverty = primitive communalism. Antithesis: private ownership + wealth = slavery, feudalism, capitalism. Synthesis: common ownership + wealth = socialistic communism. Historical supersessionism was the driving force of his theory of “dialectical materialism.”

The relatively obscure Danish philosopher, Soren Kierkegaard (A.D. 1813-1855), reacted to Hegel’s theory of dialectic synthesis leading to absolute truth. He did not believe that God’s absolute Truth and human thought could ever be brought together in rational synthesis, for they formed an “absolute paradox.” Since God is “wholly other” than man, the need of humanity is to face the Unknown experientially and not seek to make it knowable. Because of this absolute transcendence of God from all human categories, God’s revelation must be accepted by an existential or experiential “leap of faith” in the human mind. Kierkegaard is often regarded as the father of existentialist philosophy. In Kierkegaard’s own words, “Christianity entered into the world not to be understood but to be existed in” ... to be lived. This cannot be expressed more strongly than by the fact that Christianity proclaims itself to be a paradox/dialectic.”

Twentieth century Swiss theologian, Karl Barth (A.D. 1886-1968) appreciated Kierkegaard’s thought and seems to incorporate such (at least in his early writings) in his emphasis on the radical otherness and transcendence of God compared to man. The unknowability of God by human reason (apophatic theology) is contrasted with the fact that God can only be known through His Self-revelation of Himself in the Son (cataphatic theology). What is affirmed by God in His Self-revelation (the divine “Yes”) is always countered by that which is contrary to God’s character and will; that which He stands against (the divine “No”).
These contrasts form the basis of the designation of Barth’s thought as “Dialectic Theology.”

French sociologist, Jacques Ellul (A.D. 1912-1994) briefly espoused Marx’s conflict theory of “dialectical materialism,” but rejected such in incorporating the thought of Kierkegaard and Barth. Ellul formulated a dialectic between sociology and theology, wherein the constantly conflicted demonic powers of the fallen world are in opposition to the ultimate divine power of God revealed in the intervention of the incarnation of Jesus Christ. The necessity of technique and death in the world system is contrasted with the living freedom of the individual Christian living “in the world, but not of the world.” In Ellul’s words, “Dialectic, then, is not just a way of reasoning by question and answer. It is an intellectual way of grasping reality, which embraces the positive and the negatives .... It includes contradictory things that do not exclude one another, but co-exist. Hence a system of vigorous thought ought to take account of both premises without ruling out either, without choosing between, since every choice would exclude one part of reality.” (Ellul, What I Believe, pg 31)
This brief historical review of some of the major thinkers (somewhat arbitrarily selected), and how their views of “contrast analysis” or dialectic contrasted one from the other, was necessitated to show the broad range of diversity throughout the history of human thought. It is quite evident that different thinkers analyzed the contrasts of thought in widely divergent categories, and their reactions to prior systems of thought created more contrasts.

DIALECTIC DIVERSITY

Proceeding from the historical review, it will be instructive to compare a couple of the more modern dialectical models with the particular model that will be employed in this study. The two nineteenth century writers that have most influenced modern thought concerning dialectic are probably the German philosopher, G.W.F. Hegel, and the Danish thinker, Soren Kierkegaard. A diagrammatic comparison of their dialectic models with the model we are proposing will serve to show the differences of their approach. (cf. Addendum C)
Georg Hegel’s dialectic of “synthetic reductionism” is constructed by juxtaposing two contrasting concepts, a “thesis” and its “antithesis,” which are then merged or consolidated together into a “synthesis.” (cf. Addendum D) The blended and consolidated “synthesis,” then becomes the next “thesis” which also has an opposing dialectic “antithesis,” the two of which can become joined and united into another “synthesis,” and so on. This process of progressive thought compression as proposed by Hegel was considered to be the “logical science” of objective thought categories, supposed to lead to an ultimate synthesis of objective human thought which could be considered “ultimate reality,” “absolute Being,” or “the Mind of God,” the deification of human thought processes.

There is, however, another way of evaluating Hegel’s “synthetic reductionism.” Instead of reaching a pinnacle of the singular “ultimate ideal,” the progressive thought progression of this dialectic model could represent the “law of diminishing returns” whereby human thought is continuously boiled down to the lowest common denominator leading to the smallest grain of simplicity, able to be understood by the most challenged simpleton.

Soren Kierkegaard travelled to Germany to sit under the teaching of Georg Hegel who was regarded as the foremost thinker of his day. He did not stay long, for he rejected the objective idealism of Hegel’s dialectic, opting instead for a “radical subjectivism” in the form of what he termed an “inverted dialectic.” (cf. Addendum E).

The inversion of Kierkegaard's dialectic involves turning from objective to subjective categories, from mental ideology to personal and existential experience, and from static particulars to dynamic processes. Kierkegaard was convinced that objective mental processes alone were never going to lead human thinking to what was really true. Though his own personal relationships with other persons was as contorted as his own physical body, his philosophy proposed a personalism that countered the idealism that reigned in the popular thought of Hegel.
Arguing that “subjectivity is truth” and “truth is subjectivity,” Kierkegaard maintained that the experiential circumstances of life provide the milieu in which the individual must develop subjective attitudes to deal with the absurdity of the world around him. This existential process provides the subjective dialectic of dynamic movement from sorrow to joy, from weakness to strength, from doubt to hope, from darkness to light, from death to life, from defeat to victory, and from fleshliness to godliness. Divine character coming from above in Christ and operating within an individual can supersede and overcome the meaninglessness and pain of the world we live in.

Though Kierkegaard was a committed follower of Christ, the philosophers who picked up on his existentialist philosophy of the subjective reaction to the absurdity and despair of the world were mostly humanistic and atheistic. Examples include Friedrich Nietzsche, Jean-Paul Sartre, and Albert Camus. It must be noted, however, that Christian thinkers such as Swiss theologian Karl Barth and French sociologist Jacques Ellul also owed much of the background of their dialectic thinking to Kierkegaard.
With these two diverse illustrative models in mind, we must now address the interactive dialectics proposed in this study. To illustrate this model of dialectic thought (cf. Addendum F), we commence with the divine pivot point of God’s Self-revelation whereby all truth is known. This divine reality of divine Being, character, and revelation provides the stationary hinge for all human thinking. Contrary to Hegel’s objective ideal to be sought by human dialectic thinking and designated as the ultimate (god), and contrary to Kierkegaard’s subjective positing of an introspective awareness of God revealed Christologically and experienced existentially, this dialectic model hangs everything on the revelatory hinge of God in Christ and the written record of such in the inspired scriptures.

From the divine pivot point of God’s revelation we discover numerous (perhaps innumerable) both/and themes, topics, tenets, and theses that form dynamic dialectics – what Nicolas of Cusa called coincidentia oppositorum. They may appear to be opposites, but they are not to be viewed as a contradictory paradox, an irrational antinomy, or even as the Hegelian contrast of thesis and antithesis. These two statements or concepts, both consistent with God’s revelation, must be regarded as truths that complement one another, rather than compete with one another seeking to negate the other. Consistent with the etymological meaning of “dialectic,” these two tenets must “talk through” and dialogue with each other in a continual conversation of dynamic reciprocity that maintains a tensioned balance of the two thoughts.

These two ideas, concepts, or truth-statements serve as a counter-balance to each other, similar to the musical counterpoint where voices are dependent from one another while also interdependent upon the other for a complete expression. It will be observed that these contrasting dialectic tenets often juxtapose objective and subjective conceptual categories, and thus serve to balance Hegelian objectivity and Kierkegaardian subjectivity in a balanced perspective of God’s revealed truth.

As the pendulum of thought swings back and forth between these contrasting themes, note that the failure to maintain a tensioned balance of dialectic complementarity of the two concepts simultaneously results in a one-sided interpretation that is an extremist aberration of the fullness of divine perspective. The ...isms of man-made human thought, so evident in religious argumentation, are usually the result of denying, diminishing or neglecting one premise, or placing undue importance and dominance on one tenet over the other. (cf. Addendum G)

The both/and of the complementary dialectic soon becomes an either/or of dichotomous polarity when the extremes of one-sided interpretations collide in conflict with each other. Convinced that their one-sided interpretation is the absolute truth of proper and acceptable thought, they take sides across the chasm of misunderstanding, regarding their interpretation to be “right,” and the other “wrong.” Then, contrary to dialectic, the two sides engage in the antilectic of talking against one another in agitated debate and polemics.

Despite the possibility of the contested and extremist either/or positions, this model of a dialectic of interactive complementarity of contrasted both/and concepts certainly seems preferable over Hegel’s dialectic reductionism and Kierkegaard’s dialectic existentialism. Hanging, as it does, on the pivot point of divine revelation, this dialectic allows for the dynamic interchange and interplay of differing conceptual ideas that should lead to balanced human thinking and harmonious relations between those with differing opinions.

ELUCIDATION OF INTERACTIVE DIALECTICS

The tensioned interactivity of the both/and dialectic runs counter to the western mind-set that is based on an Aristotelian paradigm of linear logic and closed-ended conclusions. Aristotle’s laws of human logic included the “law of non-contradiction,” indicating that if two truths were opposite of one another, then they could not both be true, for truth cannot be contradictory. Coinciding with the “law of non-contradiction was the “law of the excluded middle,” indicating that genuine opposites could not allow for a middle-ground between the two, for they are diametrically opposed to each other with no common ground. (Hegel apparently disregarded the rule of the excluded middle in his proposed synthesis of thesis and antithesis).

So, it must be admitted that the both/and interactive dialectic model being proposed in this study is counterintuitive to the western mind-set and way of thinking. Should that concern a Western Christian thinker? Not necessarily! The prophet, speaking on behalf of God said, “My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways My ways, ... For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts” (Isa. 55:8,9). The apostle Paul exclaimed, “Oh, the depths of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are His judgments and unfathomable are His ways!” (Rom. 11:33). To the Corinthians, Paul wrote, “Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? For since in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom did not come to know God. ... The foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men” (I Cor. 1:21,24). God’s wisdom and God’s ways cannot be enveloped within or confined to finite Western thought patterns.
It is incumbent upon Western Christian thinkers to “think outside of the box” of their culturally accustomed postulates of finite human reasoning, and beyond the particular theological persuasions wherein they have found refuge. The “mystery” of divine revelation cannot be contained in static humanly-crafted thought boxes. The either/or paradigm of Western thought must give way to an expansive and comprehensive both/and consideration of the revealed mystery of Theologic and divine perspective.

One respondent objected to the both/and dialectic model proposed in this study, calling it a “horrid tool of the devil.” Another denied that there could be “opposing truths,” stating, “It is impossible to avoid going around in circles with people that believe in two opposing realities. They literally believe one thing and its opposite, so it is entirely impossible to resolve a matter.” What can one say to persons who are so entrenched in their Western thought patterns? Perhaps one could say, “It is impossible to convince a person that there are two sides of a coin, when the person adamantly insists and persists in looking at only one side. It reveals a one-dimensional perspective!”
We began this study by noting that there are two sides to every coin, and the two sides are popularly referred to as either “heads” or “tails.” Though a human observer cannot see both sides of a coin at the same time that does not mean that both sides of the coin do not exist simultaneously. Our human eyes, positioned as they are by divine creation, both look forward and cannot view both sides of the same coin at the same time. It might be possible, however, to place two mirrors at a ninety-degree angle to each other, placing a coin vertically between the two mirrors, and thus viewing both sides of the coin in the reflection of the mirrors. That would allow us to see two reflections of the same coin simultaneously, but technically not both sides of the same coin directly at the same time.

Such is the difficulty that our finite minds seem to have in viewing two contrasting ideas, concepts, tenets, or positions at the same time, and accepting that they have a “common ground” of veracity requiring that they be viewed, accepted and maintained in a mutual counterbalance. The objective is not to attempt to determine if one is more valid or accurate than the other, or if one supersedes or takes priority over the other, but to see them stereoscopically at the same time, to see each truth together with the other synoptically. Someone might object by asking, “But how can you see double without being double-minded?” Did not James indicate, “a double minded man is unstable in all his ways” (James 1:8)? The synchronous and simultaneous mental observation of two postulates does not make a person double-minded, anymore than viewing an object with two eyes that form a common focal point creates double-vision in human sight.

Many Western Christian thinkers are afraid of the “dialectic reciprocity” of the both/and categories. They are fearful that the dynamic interaction of seemingly contradictory concepts allows for a “wishy-washy,” unstable, hypocritical, or even bipolar form of Christian thinking – perhaps even double-entendre mind-games whereby one is allowed to speak out of both sides of one’s mouth. There is a collective paranoia about the inter-related themes of both/and contrasts.

Some have even charged that a both/and dialectic that maintains two tenets simultaneously is a form of relativism that is unwilling to formulate absolutes. Is it our objective in Christian thought to formulate rigid, air-right propositional absolutes of information? Or are we willing to see that God is the divine and personal Absolute who has revealed His wisdom and His ways in contrasting themes that require counterbalancing interaction that allows each to interpret the other?

How difficult it seems to be for many Western thinkers to accept a synoptic perspective of synchronistic mutuality of contrasting ideas. Wanting everything absolutized in precise systematic explanations of ideological certainty, Western thinkers either try to synthesize the two concepts in Hegelian reductionism, or emphasize one premise to the neglect, diminishment, denial, or exclusion of the other in a one-sided extremism.

Western Christian thinkers tend to eschew the counter-tension of both/and dialectic thinking. They are uncomfortable with the indefinite tension of contrasts, and often attempt to take one premise and elevate it to supremacy over the other. Regarding this idea to be the “whole” of the truth of the matter, they eschew and repudiate the other premise. They seek to dissect the premises of a both/and contrast and push them out into either/or polarities, with absolute definition in the defined “absolutes” of their particular belief-system.

The diagrams that we will be using in this study to illustrate the over-emphasis of one tenet or the other employ columns on each side representing the aberrant extremisms that result from such one-dimensional thinking that fails to maintain the dialectic tension. These might be represented as the thought-ditches that one tends to slide into when one veers off of the dual-lane road of the dialectic being considered.

AVOIDING THE DITCHES

As we consider these various dialectics and the ditches that we can so easily slide into if we fail to maintain balanced thinking, we will all realize that we have slid into a few ditches in our thought processes. As the study progresses, we may find ourselves crawling out of a few ditches along the way, not wanting to get stuck in the muddy muck and mire of misinformed thinking. (cf. Addenda H)

In fact, some of us have had so much difficulty staying on the two-lane road in some of these categories, that we may have been like a drunk, swerving from ditch to ditch – in and out of one and then into another. A balanced sense of sober perspective is difficult to maintain in some of these areas of thought on the Christian journey. Especially since religion seems to advocate that the safest place, in order to maintain a straight course, is to ride in one ditch or the other: “Follow the ditch-course; it’s far less risky that swerving back and forth on the unmarked dialectic highway.”

When I was learning to drive on the rural dirt roads of south-central Kansas in the mid-1960s, our driver’s education instructor informed us that the best way to drive the muddy country roads was to “stay in the double ruts, where you were less likely to slide into the ditches.” It worked most of the time, although I found myself in the ditch on several occasions (one time with a school bus full of children). The advice of the driver’s education instructor has some pertinence for traveling the roads of dialectic thought. “Keep your wheels in the double channels of the dialectic, where you will be less likely to slide into the ditches.”

As we consider some dialectics of Christian thought do not be surprised when you discover that you have been (or perhaps presently are) traveling in a ditch, or maybe just steering and veering very close to a ditch. Do not fret; we have all been stuck a few times in a ditch, and the purpose of this study is to consider how to stay the course of balanced Christian thought.

ILLUSTRATING THE BOTH/AND DYNAMIC

My mind has always sought to find reasonable balance. In my personal office I do not have religious icons or other such “holy hardware.” Instead, I have a row of balance scales, and on another wall a bronze statue of the blind-folded Roman goddess, Lady Justice (Latin Iustitia), aka the Greek goddess Themis or Dike, holding a balance scale. More than one person has entered my office and asked if I was a lawyer. “No,” I respond, “I just seek balance in every category of human thought.

But the balance scale is an inadequate illustration for the dialectic we are considering because it is a static balance. The both/and dialectic being proposed in this study is more like a pendulum that involves a dynamic motion from side to side. Another example of dynamic balance can be seen in the exercise of learning to ride a bicycle. It is very difficult to balance a bicycle when it is static and not moving, but when there is forward motion the rider finds it easier to learn how to turn left and right to maintain dynamic balance.

My wife and I have four daughters who were all competitive gymnasts when they were young. The balance beam is perhaps the most difficult apparatus in women’s gymnastics. On a four-inch wide leather-covered sixteen foot beam, four feet above the ground, the female gymnast performs stunts that require precise dynamic balance. It was the event where we as parents held our breath until the routine was completed.
Jean-Paul Sartre, a secular existentialist dialectician, likened the dynamic action of a dialectic to a woman’s “wiggling bottom.” There is no attempt to be sexist here, but a woman’s anatomy seems to better illustrate the point. It’s just the way God made them! Watching a walking woman from the backside, her posterior portion wiggles back and forth. It is not static, but quite dynamic. And the point being made here is that a both/and dialectic involves a reciprocity that goes from side to side, back and forth.

Perhaps the best illustration is that of a tree swing. We had a large pine tree in the backyard of our home. Placing two lengths of chain over a horizontal tree limb, I constructed a tree swing. This illustration is particularly apt since the pivot point for the swing is at the top, as in the both/and dialectic that we are proposing. The grandchildren were not content with the static equilibrium of just sitting on the seat while the ropes hung from the tree. They wanted the dynamic motion of swinging back and forth ... back and forth ... back and forth ... in a reciprocal action. They did not seem to tire of it. They were constantly hollering, “Push me again Papa ... higher ... harder ... faster ... again ...”
Just as the grandchildren were not content to sit on the seat and hang from the tree in the “dead center” position of the swing, neither should we be concerned or content with seeking a “dead center” synthesis or fusion of the two concepts of a both/and dialectic. We are not even concerned with attempting to develop a “middle” position of consensus or agreement between the two positions, wherein they “meet half way.” We only want to accept the full “posits” of the two positions, and maintain them both in a balanced tension, allowing neither to diminish the other, or to swallow up the other in any way.

An interactive dialectic accepts the dynamic interplay of the two concepts, as they bounce off of each other and provide definition, clarification, and limitation to each other in so doing. To the sounds of a syncopated counterpoint, the two concepts “dance around in the same space” perichoretically. The both/and conceptual contrasts are not meant to compete with each other, but to complete each other in a dynamic complimentarity. In the back-and-forth balanced tension of dialectic reciprocity the two themes provide explication of the fullness of the Divine Mystery.
in a manner that cannot be fully explained in singular postulates of finite reasoning within an either/or paradigm.

PHILOSOPHICAL DIALECTIC OF “BEING” AND “DOING”

To set up the both/and dialectic charts prepared for this study, it will be helpful to go back to early Greek philosophical thought and consider what may be the foundational dialectic of human thinking. We are going to call it the both/and dialectic of “being” and “doing” (a.k.a. “essence” in contrast to “function”). In so doing we attempt to connect the history of human thought through the centuries to the initial dialectic charts that we will be employing.

In the classical Greek philosophers, whose thought underlies Western thought patterns, we can see that Plato and Aristotle seem to have an either/or distinction in their thought and methodology, which need not remain as a dichotomy, but can be formulated as a both/and dialectic. That is one of the epiphenomenal traits of dialectic thought; an either/or dichotomy can become a both/and dialectic when viewed in another context.

One of the supreme objectives of the classical Greek thinkers was to describe and define “Being” (cf. Addendum I). They searched for and sought to articulate the “ideal idea” that was the supreme and real essence of “being” – the “really real,” the ultimate IS, the supreme substance, the universal Mind, the One (Τὸ Ἑν) Reality behind everything.

Plato used the a priori method of deductive logic whereby he posited and projected a singular ultimate “Being” (not necessarily personal) that constituted the essential essence of all that IS. This is not unlike Einstein's search for the “unified field theory” that would explain all the workings of the universe!

But Plato’s pupil, Aristotle, was actually more in line with the methodology of Einstein, utilizing the a posteriori method of inductive logic whereby he sought to work backwards from what was observable evidence, to then explain the essential “Being” intrinsic to all that exists. In Aristotle’s approach the expressed result of the “doing” or outcome of the “being” was regarded as a means to lead human thought back to a more accurate explanation of the “Being.” The observable evidence of the expression should lead to an understanding of the essence! This is the basis of what we call “the scientific method” today.

These classical methodological approaches for the acquisition of human knowledge have long been recognized as complementary parallel processes for a balanced both/and dialectic approach to human understanding. Deductive and inductive logical approaches both have their place in human reasoning.

Throughout the history of human thought it can be demonstrated how the categories of “being” and “doing” seem to be present time and again. Moving from Plato and Aristotle, we can proceed to the history of Christian theology by noting the contrasting approaches of Augustine, a neo-Platonist who approached Christian thought by postulating the “Being” of God in superlative substantialist categories, which can be and contrasted with Thomas Aquinas, who utilized the Aristotelian approach of emphasizing the evidentiary “doing” side of the couplet in order to articulate his “proofs” for the existence of the “Being” of God.

By the time we move to the German philosophers of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, we find Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel advocating objective logical dialectics of “being” in logical categories which can be synthesized (thesis, antithesis, synthesis). This was countered, for example, by the Danish philosopher-thinker, Soren Kierkegaard, who emphasized a subjective inverted dialectic that dealt with the experiential, personal and existential, and advocated that “being” was grounded in active relationality and personalism.

The interactive dialectic of recognizing both “being” and “doing” finds its origin in the contrast between Plato and Aristotle, but the philosophical foundations of these early thinkers must be applied to Christian categories. (cf. Addendum J)

The both/and interactive dialectics in the charts that follow represent the patterning by which I have formatted my thinking for the past twenty years. I have learned much from Kierkegaard and Barth, but my dialectical thinking was most influenced by the writings of the French thinker, Jacques Ellul, who was himself influenced by Kierkegaard and Barth. Since the early 1990s, when I first read Ellul’s writings, I have been jotting down contrastual both/and dialectic charts whenever they come to mind (often in the early hours of the morning when I am awakening). As I began to prepare for this study, I found over five hundred pages of dialectic rough drafts filed under “dialectics.”

These dialectic charts are just the skeletal scaffolding of a comprehensive dialectic theology. They need to be filled in and fleshed out with more comprehensive explanation of each topic. That would create a massive volume of a very different kind of theology than is usually found in the academic theological textbooks. It would comprise a new paradigm of considering theology from a balanced dialectical format.
Interactive

Both/And Dialectics:

Historic Contrast

of Being and Doing
GOD

BEING

Classic Theism
- Platonism

Substantialism
- Attempting to determine God's Being as a composite of substantive concepts, ideas, or attributes.

Augustinianism
- Neoplatonic reversion to substantialist categories of determining and explaining God’s Being.

DOING

God IS who He IS, autonomously and independent of any other.

God's BEING is not established by His DOING

God's Being is understood in a Christian perspective only by the dynamic relationality of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

God's BEING is fixed in absoluteness and eternity - immutable.

His BEING who He IS, ie. LOVE, necessitates His DOING for others.

Energy, activity - DO
Self-generating action
ek autos - out of Himself
God does what He DOES because He IS who He IS.
- never contingent on any one or anything else to function as He functions.

God’s Self-revelation in the Son, Jesus Christ, informs our understanding of the relationality of God’s Being.

God's active DOING is always permeated and empowered by the presence of His BEING.
- God does not act at a distance by virtual reality.

Pelagianism
Arminianism?
Humanism - posits that God's action is contingent on human action.
Charismatics - sometimes indicate that God’s action requires a supernatural display.

Defining God’s BEING on basis of His DOING; ie. God is loving, thus God is Love, then God IS but a logical product of His own action.

Dialectic – Both/And

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>God</th>
<th>Ontological</th>
<th>Essentialistic</th>
<th>Dynamical</th>
<th>Operational</th>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Dialectic – Both/And</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Being</td>
<td>Divine Being of God</td>
<td>What God is only God is.</td>
<td>God does what He does, because He is Who He is.</td>
<td>I Pet. 1:16 - “I am holy”</td>
<td>I Jn. 4:8,16 - “God is love” – “Ontological”</td>
<td>Extremism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Doing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Dynamic – GRACE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ontologism</td>
<td>Isa. 46:9 - “No one like Me”</td>
<td>Ps. 97:9 - “exalted far above all gods”</td>
<td>Heb. 12:23 - “Judge of all”</td>
<td>Ps. 90:2 - “from everlasting to everlasting You are God”</td>
<td>Ps. 90:2 - “from everlasting to everlasting You are God”</td>
<td>Dynamics</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Essentialism</td>
<td>Deut. 6:4 - “Lord is one”</td>
<td>Ps. 90:2 - “from everlasting to everlasting You are God”</td>
<td>Ps. 115:3 - “He does what He pleases” (always in accord with His character)</td>
<td>Jn. 10:30 - “I and the Father are one”</td>
<td>Jn. 10:30 - “I and the Father are one”</td>
<td>Operationalism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ps. 115:3 - “He does what He pleases” (always in accord with His character)</td>
<td>Exod. 3:14 - “I AM...I AM”</td>
<td></td>
<td>I Tim. 1:17 - “King eternal, immortal, invisible...”</td>
<td>I Tim. 1:17 - “King eternal, immortal, invisible...”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ps. 90:2 - “from everlasting to everlasting You are God”</td>
<td>Jn. 10:30 - “I and the Father are one”</td>
<td></td>
<td>I Cor. 1:9 - “God is faithful”</td>
<td>I Cor. 1:9 - “God is faithful”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Isa. 43:7 - “everything created for My glory”</td>
<td>Gen. 17:1 - “God Almighty”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>I Pet. 1:16 - “I am holy”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Rom. 5:5 - “love of God poured out by Holy Spirit”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>James 1:17 - “every good &amp; perfect gift from above”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>I Jn. 4:8,16 - “God is love”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>II Tim. 1:9 - “grace granted to us in Christ Jesus”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Dynamic – GRACE</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Greek perspective:
- Logically reasoned and conjectured attributes of a speculative supreme superlative.

Hebrew perspective:
- Elevated supercessory Almighty Being who expected faithful nation of ethnic people.

Reformed perspective:
- Deterministic personal Being whose immutable and consistent ways can be systematized.

Grace perspective:
- God of constant, unending love has reached out to mankind in the incarnation of His Son, to redemptively restore men.

Doing:

Greek perspective:
- Superlative so far removed from matter, there is no “doing” that relates to the world.

Hebrew perspective:
- God imposed legal covenant arrangements, yet remained contained in ark, tabernacle, temple.

Reformed perspective:
- God acts sovereignly to implement His predetermined, proceduralized Plan and ways.

Grace perspective:
- God’s grace action is always via the Son by the Spirit to freely express His relational love uniquely to receptive individuals.

---

Extremism

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Substantialism</th>
<th>Rationalism</th>
<th>Deism</th>
<th>Favoritism</th>
<th>Nationalism</th>
<th>Determinism</th>
<th>Rationalism</th>
<th>Unjustifiable mercy</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Dialectic – Both/And

- Dualism
- Gnosticism
- Legalism
- Behaviorism
- “God in the box”
- Particularism
- Arbitrary imposition
- Universalism
- Personalism
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Being</th>
<th>Doing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Extrinsic and derivative being of the Evil One. - began as derivative creature, spirit-being, with freedom of choice to rebel and refuse intended purpose as Lucifer (light-bearer).</td>
<td>Derivative activity - A derivative creature cannot self-generate character: - not godly character - not character contrary to the character of God.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The derivative Being of the Evil One, with character contrary to the character of God is the conundrum of theodicy.

- Evil - Jn. 17:15; II Th. 3:3
- Sinful - I Jn. 3:8
- Liar - Jn. 8:44; Acts 5:3
- Murderer - I Jn. 3:12
- Deceiver - Rev. 12:9; 20:2
- Self-exalting - Isa. 14:14

- How then does the Evil One tempt individuals to express evil character, and thus to sin against the character of God? - enslaves - II Tim 2:26
- blinds minds - II Cor 4:4
- death-dealer - Heb. 2:14
- sin-source - I Jn. 3:8,10;12
- tempts - I Th. 3:5; I Cor 7:5
- accuses - Rev. 12:10
- hinders - I Th. 2:18

God and Satan are not in a dualistic stalemate of power or ability whereby one cannot overcome the other. Satan's power has been overcome by the person and work of Jesus Christ, and Christians need not cower in fear of the devil.

Must avoid positing a dualism wherein the being of God and Satan are equal and neither is supreme over the other.

Neither do we discount or deny the “being” of Satan as an imaginative myth or metaphorical personification.
Humanity

Being

Human being is extrinsic being. We did not create ourselves. Our being is derived from another – from the Creator God.

Spiritual condition of “being” is derived from indwelling presence and function of spirit-person.

Spiritual nature of individual is the nature of the spiritual personage (God or Satan) who indwells him/her.

Fall of man, with spiritual usurpation of Satan over/in mankind, necessitated divine restoration of man.

Doing

Humans are not little gods who are self-generative of their own character or activity. They are dependent and derivative.

This necessitates recognition that human beings are choosing creatures having freedom of choice to make determinative decisions of receptivity.

- Faith is our receptivity of God’s activity.

II Cor. 3:5 - “not adequate to consider anything as coming from ourselves”

Jn. 15:5 - “Apart from Me you can do nothing”

Humanism
- implies that human initiative and potential are intrinsic ability of mankind.

Pelagianism
- (religious humanism)
- indicates that human choice creates a necessary contingency that forces God to act.

Monism
- humans are essentially one with spirit-forces.

Panentheism
- humans are essentially one with spirit-forces.
The hypostatic union of Jesus establishes His being as fully God and fully man. It is not unthinkable that the Messianic Savior could be God and be man at the same time.

Intrinsic Being (God) and extrinsic being (man) could be conjoined in the unique being of a divine-human God-man.

“The Word was made flesh” (Jn. 14:10).
“being made in the likeness of man, ...in appearance as a man” (Phil. 2:7,8).

The function of God and man, i.e. Self-generative vs. derived, are incapable of simultaneity. Jesus could not behave as God and behave as man at the same time.

The Son of God emptied Himself (Phil. 2:7) of the prerogative of divine function in order to function as derivative man.

“I do nothing of My own initiative; the Father abiding in Me does His works” (cf. Jn. 5:30; 8:28:42; 12:49; 14:10)

Evangelicalism - employs apologetic arguments attempting to prove the deity of Jesus by the functionality of His “doing.” - ex. miracles are alleged to prove deity of Christ

Misinterpreted kenoticism

Passivism

Evangelicalism - attempts to extend the hypostatic union to encompass the entirety of humanity, utilizing the theological novelty of the “vicarious humanity” of Jesus Christ to indicate the replacement of all sinful humanness in the person and work of Jesus.
Holy Spirit

_Dialectic – Both/And_

Being

Relational Person within the Divine Being of the Triune Godhead.

- Spirit of God
  - Rom. 8:9 - “Spirit of God dwells in you”
- Spirit of Christ
  - Rom. 8:9 - “If any man does not have Spirit of Christ, he is none of His”
- Holy Spirit
  - Rom. 5:5 - “Holy Spirit has been given to us”

Doing

Acts only by the Divine dynamic of the grace of the Triune God.

- Life-giving Spirit
  - I Cor. 15:45 - “Last Adam became life-giving Spirit”
- Pours out Love of God
  - Rom. 5:5 - “love of God poured into our hearts by Holy Spirit”
- Glorifies Christ
  - Jn. 16:14 - “glorify Me”

Fruit of the Spirit

divine character is:
“love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control” (Gal. 5:22,23)

Gifts of the Spirit

-ministry within the Body of Christ, the Church, is accomplished by the activity of the Holy Spirit via the spiritual giftedness of Christian peoples.

Academic understanding of the Holy Spirit as “third person of the Godhead.”

Misunderstanding that “fruit” is produced by human effort of evangelism or behavior performance.

Elevation of admiration for the action of the Holy Spirit, even above the divine Father and Son.

Pentecostalism

Charismaticism

Supernaturalism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
As all human “being” is extrinsic being and derived being, the Christian has spiritually exchanged the derivation of spiritual “being” (exousia) from Satan to God (Acts 26:18) in spiritual regeneration.

The contrast of this spiritual condition of “being:”
- death ... life
- darkness ... light
- natural ... spiritual
- child of devil ... child of God
- wrath nature ... divine nature
- iniquity ... righteousness
- sinner ... saint

As all functional expression of character and behavior in what humans do is derived from spiritual source, the activity of Christian behavior is expressive of the character of God or Satan.

The contrast of this behavior is explained by the conflict of the impetus of the “flesh” or the “Spirit” in Christian’s behavior.
- deeds of the flesh (Gal. 5:19-21)
- fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22,23)

- Human activity is regarded to be self-generative, so every person is encouraged to perform to the best of their ability, “for your success and destiny is entirely up to you.”

Humanism - A human’s being is intrinsic to him/her self.
- For this reason every person is encouraged to “be all you can be!” “You can be anything you set your mind to be.”

Religious Humanism - most religion is humanistic God-talk.
Church

Being

Nature of the Church

The “being” of the Church is the Person of the living Lord Jesus dwelling in Christians collectively.

The “being” of the Church is defined in the designation of “the Body of Christ.” (cf. Rom. 12:2; I Cor. 12:27; Eph. 3:6; 4:12)

This Body is likened to a living organism of which every Christian is to be a functional member. (cf. Rom. 12:4,5; I Cor. 12:12-27; Eph. 5:30)

Doing

Mission of the Church

The Church is called to “do”/express the ministry of Christ via giftedness of the Spirit.

“Apart from Me you can do nothing” (Jn. 15:5)

“it is God who is at work in you, both to will and to do for His good pleasure” (Phil. 2:13)

“May God ... equip you in every good thing to do His will, working in us that which is pleasing in His sight” (Heb. 13:21)

Ecclesiasticism

Institutionalism

Perceptions of the Church as a building
- or as a denominational entity
- or as public services of invigoration, education, or entertainment.

Church conceived as “membership” in organization
- “joining the church”

Programs

Techniquism

Evangelical

Humanism

Performance
- advocacy
- commitment
- dedication
- consecration

“Works”
- “do this, do that”
- “working for Jesus”
- must serve Jesus (cf. Acts 17:25)
Interactive Both/And Dialectics within Christian Doctrinal Thought
Trinitarian Monotheism

One Being
- Unity, simplicity, singular
- One supreme God:
  - Deut. 6:4; Mk. 12:29; I Cor. 8:6; Eph. 4:6; I Tim. 2:5.
- Monotheism - one essence, nature and being.
- Council of Nicea (A.D. 325)
  - Plurality of persons are essentially & consubstantially the same Being - homoousion.
- Gregory of Nazianzus
  - perichoresis - coinherence and interpenetration of the distinct triune persons.
  - Jn. 14:10,11 - "I am in the Father, and the Father is in Me."

Three Persons
- Multiple, plural, complex, distinction
- Father, Son, Holy Spirit
  - co-equal, co-essential, co-eternal.
  - Jn. 10:30 - "I and the Father are one."
  - Jewish leaders considered this to be blasphemy.
  - Christian obliged to explain Trinity.
- Tertullian - used Latin trinitas - triunity.
  - Council of Nicea (AD 325)
  - Greek - hypostases
  - 3 particulars, persons
  - Latin - personae
  - 3 persons

Extremism
- Mathematical oneness - single integer of one.
  - Monadic monotheism:
    - Jehovah (Jewish)
    - Allah (Islam)
  - Monistic monotheism - singular god extended into all things.
  - Unitarianism

- Tritheism
  - 3 gods polytheism

Misunderstanding of threeness:
- Subordinationism - Son & Spirit subordinated to Father like 2nd-class citizens.
- Arianism - Son and Spirit inferior demi-gods.
  - anomoousion - not same being.
  - heteroousion - different beings
  - homoiousion - like, similar being
- Modalism
GOD

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Supremely Intentional</th>
<th>Self-limited</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Free-will of God</td>
<td>Can anyone limit God?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- free to determine action</td>
<td>God can Self-limit Himself</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in accord w/ character.</td>
<td>God determined to Self-limit His action toward mankind, to allow human freedom of choice to enter into loving personal relationship by receptivity of faith.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- power to implement the action He determines.</td>
<td>- He desires faith/love relationship with human creatures.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Predestination - God pre-horizoned that His action with mankind would be via His Son, Jesus Christ. (cf. I Cor. 2:7; Eph. 1:5)</td>
<td>- He does not impose His will, purpose, desires, love, grace, upon humans</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Jesus - &quot;sum of all spiritual things&quot; (Eph. 1)</td>
<td>God is always FOR us; not against us!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Election - Jesus is the Elect One; those in Christ are the &quot;elect of God&quot;</td>
<td>Mankind has freedom of choice to receive God’s intentions in Jesus Christ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purposes of God -</td>
<td>Irrelevancy of God’s intentions.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eph. 3:11-&quot;eternal purpose carried out in Jesus&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Almighty God, superior above all is all-powerful to implement His intentions.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Extremism

Augustinianism
Calvinism
Reformed theology
Divine determinism
Absolutism
Fatalism
Arbitrary imposition of God’s intentions.
Misuse of term “sovereignty” in reference to God.
Irrelevancy of human choices.

Pelagianism
Arminianism
Humanism
Individualism
Human potential.
“Man makes it happen.”
God’s actions are contingent on human actions.
The “elect” are those who select.
Irrelevancy of God’s intentions.

Dialectic – Both/And

©2014 by James A. Fowler
GOD

Creator

Almighty, omnipotent God has brought all other things into being.
- without necessity
- ek Theos; ex Deo

Gen. 1:1 - “God created the heavens and the earth”
Job 33:4 - “the Spirit of God has made me”
Isa. 45:7 - “One forming light ... creating darkness”
Jn. 1:3 - “apart from Him nothing came into being”
Col. 1:16 - “by Him all things were created... through Him & for Him”
Heb. 11:3 - “worlds were prepared by word of God”

Sustainer

God wills and provides for continued existence and function of created order.
- providential preserves
- continued relationship

Ps. 119:116 - “Sustain me according to Your word”
Heb. 1:3 - “He upholds all things by the word of His power.”
Col. 1:17 - “in Him all things hold together”

Pantheism
- Created order sustained by the intrinsic presence of the divine comprising the essence of the material order.

Monism
- Humanity sustains creation
- ex. counters “global warming”

Deism
- the non-interference and non-intervention of God in the world He has created.
- the world runs solely by “the laws of nature.”

“God wound up the world like a clock, and sits back at a distance to observe how it runs.”

Anthropic Cosmological Principle.
- Humanity sustains creation
- ex. counters “global warming”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
God’s Presence

Dialectic – Both/And

Transcendent

- God above and beyond His creation, beyond space & time.
- In a class by Himself:
  - Independent, autonomous
  - Self-sufficient, Sovereign
- Infinite qualitative difference - God and man.

- I Chron. 29:11 - “Yours is the dominion, O God”
- Ps. 113:5 - “our God enthroned on high”
- Isa. 57:15 - “high and exalted One”
- Jere. 23:23 - “a God who is near...and a God far off”
- God is worthy subject of awe, reverence, worship.

Immanent

- God involved in & present in space/time creation.
- Nearness, closeness of God

- • In creation - omnipresent
  - Col. 1:17 - “In Him all things consist”
  - Ps. 139:7 - “where can I flee from Your presence”
- • In new creation
  - Jn. 1:14 - “Word became flesh” - incarnation
  - Col. 1:27 - “Christ in you”
  - I Cor. 6:17 - “one spirit with Him” - union
  - I Jn. 4:12,15,16 - “God abides in us”
  - Gal. 4:6 - “Spirit of His Son in our hearts”

---

Extremism

- Deism
  - distant, removed, separated.
  - God regarded as “wholly other” - “out there, up there”
  - God not in control of universe He created.
  - Gnosticism
    - God cannot come into contact with that which is lesser than His spiritual reality.

- Transcendent
- Immanent

- Pantheism
- Monism
- Immanence
- Mysticism

- God is indistinguishable from the created order.
- - evil impossible

- Humanization of God.
- Man becomes god or a God

- Over-familiarization with God.
- - “God is my buddy”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>GOD</th>
<th>UNCHANGEABLE</th>
<th>CHANGEABLE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fixed invariability</td>
<td>Immutable - unchanging, fixed.</td>
<td>Mutable - able to change, flexible</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>God is predictable</td>
<td>Essential Being</td>
<td>Divine Activity - Doing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Determinism</td>
<td>Sacrosanct constancy</td>
<td>Divine freedom to choose</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Augustinian-Calvinism, Reformed</td>
<td>- consistent faithfulness</td>
<td>course of action</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Open Theism</td>
<td>God is “the same yesterday, today, and forever” - Heb. 13:8</td>
<td>God can repent, relent, &amp;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>God is Becoming</td>
<td>“I, the Lord, do not change” - Malachi 3:6</td>
<td>accommodate Himself</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evolving God</td>
<td>“The Lord will not change His mind” - Ps. 110:4</td>
<td>II Kings 20:5; Ps. 106:45;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divine relativism</td>
<td>“Father of lights ... no variation or shifting shadow” James 1:17</td>
<td>Jere. 26:3; 42:10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Process Theology</td>
<td></td>
<td>Response to prayer - Exod. 32:9-14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divine activity</td>
<td></td>
<td>Incarnation - New covenant (Jere. 31:31; Heb. 8:8,13)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>God is fickle</td>
<td></td>
<td>God is novel in every Christian's life.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>God is unpredictable and variable</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conditionalism</td>
<td></td>
<td>Does this impinge on faithfulness of God?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Denial that God could Self-limit Himself without ceasing to be God.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Deism
- detach, inaccessibility of God

Since God is an unthinkable and incomprehensible mystery to the finite understanding of the human mind:
- the best a person can do is muddle through life to the best of one's ability
- stand in awe at the mysterious projection of an abstract deity-figure.

Apophatic / Anaphatic
apo = apart from
phemi = to speak
The incommunicable, hidden God.
God is infinite
- Finite mind of man can't comprehend. Inexplicable
God is eternal.
- Temporal time/space perspective of man.
Job 11:7 - “can you discover the depths of God?”
Rom. 11:33 - “the depths of the knowledge of God”
I Cor. 2:9 - “the thoughts of God no one knows”
Mystery of God - ineffable
God cannot be known “in Himself,” essential Being.

Kataphatic Theology
kata = according to phemi = to speak
The revealed God.
God can only be known as He reveals Himself.
God revealed Himself in the Son, Jesus Christ.
- not truth propositions of scripture.
Jn. 14:7 - “If you’ve known Me, you’ve known Father”
Jn. 17:3 - “eternal life, that they know You...”
If Jesus is God, then God is knowable!
Experiential, relational knowing of God in Christ.
- illuminating of Holy Spirit
EOC - experience energies of God

Empiricism
- to know about God: attributes, characteristics is to know God.

Ontologism - universal intuitive knowledge of God.

Mysticism - ethereal, esoteric, Gnostic knowing of God.

Union/oneness knowledge of God
Diminishment of awe, reverence, worship.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
God’s Self-revelation

Historical

Historical disclosure of Himself.

Jn. 3:16 - “God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son…”
Jn. 1:1,14 - “Word was made flesh” - incarnation
I Tim. 2:5 - “one mediator between God and man.”
I Tim. 4:10 - “Savior of all men”
Jn. 19:30 - “It is finished!”
II Tim. 1:10 - “Jesus abolished death and brought life and immortality…”

Historical revelation of God in Christ is singular and complete.

Relational

Relational personal disclosure of Himself.

Gal. 1:12 - “I received it by revelation of Jesus Christ”
Eph. 1:13 - “revelation in the knowledge of Him”
Phil. 3:15 - “God will reveal it to you.”

Personal revelation of God to individuals.

“Revelation is caught, not taught”

Divine relativity in His variable modus operandi of revealing Himself uniquely & novelly to the hearts of His people.

Historicism

Objectivism

Fundamentalism

“God in a box”
“God in a book”
“God in strait-jacket”

Proceduralism

Unchangeableness of God can be used to construct fixed system of God’s pre-determined and pre-scribed action.

- God’s ways
- ordo salutis

Subjectivism

Existentialism

Personalism

Mysticism

Experientialism

Progressivism

Relativism

“Everything subject to change – no absolutes.”

Process theology

God changes to correspond to each personal relationship.

Accommodationism
God’s Grace Action

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>YES</th>
<th>NO</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Positive action/ via positiva
II Cor. 1:19,20
..to invite mankind into participation/fellowship with Himself.
..to grace towards mankind
..to love the world via Jesus Christ (Jn. 3:16)
..to the cross to effect death in order to grant life
..to raise Jesus from dead
..to give Jesus’ resurrection life to receptive persons
..to salvation in Christ (Acts 4:12; Rom. 1:16)
..to reconciliation of God with mankind.
..to restoration of humanity
..to sufficiency of His grace for all Christian life.
JESUS is the YES of God. | Negative action/ via negativa
..to victory and supremacy of Satan.
..to the power of sin over mankind
..to humanities being lost in the Fall
..to disordered, dysfunctional, abused, misguided humanity
..to divine punishment or judgment after Fall.
..to natural law & religion
..to making the Law and human performance the way to God.
..to death consequences of sin as last word.
JESUS took the NO on behalf of all humanity. |

Arrogant Religion

.. pride of having correct knowledge and interpretation of God’s YES action in Jesus Christ.

.. pride of perfectionism and triumphalism, by denyig grace of God’s NO.

---

The YES will be continually perverted if the NO is not held simultaneously.

Extremism

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>YES</th>
<th>NO</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Positive action/ via positiva
II Cor. 1:19,20
..to invite mankind into participation/fellowship with Himself.
..to grace towards mankind
..to love the world via Jesus Christ (Jn. 3:16)
..to the cross to effect death in order to grant life
..to raise Jesus from dead
..to give Jesus’ resurrection life to receptive persons
..to salvation in Christ (Acts 4:12; Rom. 1:16)
..to reconciliation of God with mankind.
..to restoration of humanity
..to sufficiency of His grace for all Christian life.
JESUS is the YES of God. | Negative action/ via negativa
..to victory and supremacy of Satan.
..to the power of sin over mankind
..to humanities being lost in the Fall
..to disordered, dysfunctional, abused, misguided humanity
..to divine punishment or judgment after Fall.
..to natural law & religion
..to making the Law and human performance the way to God.
..to death consequences of sin as last word.
JESUS took the NO on behalf of all humanity. |

Arrogant Religion

.. focusing on the demonic as having power over mankind.

.. focusing on sin-consciousness & alleged alienation from God.

.. focusing on morality and human performance for relationship with God.

---

The NO is for the sake of the YES, not its own sake.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
God manifests His character fairly and reasonably.

God acts fairly to make right what mankind cannot make right by himself, and make receptive persons righteous with His righteousness.

Faithful to His character of Love (cf. I Jn. 4:8,16), He delivers us by Son, Jesus.

God's mercy is actively expressed in His grace - non-transactional - not performance-based

Heb. 4:16 - “receive mercy & find grace in need”

Ps. 89:14,28 - “lovingkindness forever”

Ps. 145:9 - “His mercies are all over His works”

Isa. 30:18 - “‘Lord longs to be gracious to you’”

God is merciful to deliver us from slavery to sin.

God's mercy is actively expressed in His grace - non-transactional - not performance-based

Heb. 4:16 - “receive mercy & find grace in need”

Ps. 89:14,28 - “lovingkindness forever”

Ps. 145:9 - “His mercies are all over His works”

Isa. 30:18 - “Lord longs to be gracious to you”

God’s loving mercy cancels the just consequences of sin.

God's benevolent grace overlooks man's disobedience.

Universalism - automatic, wholesale eternal salvation for all mankind.

Legalism

Viewing God from law paradigm.

God projected as punitive - severe & rigid.

Forensic justice of God.
- Will objectively declare a person “righteous” without making said person righteous.

Sentimentalism

God's loving mercy cancels the just consequences of sin.

God's benevolent grace overlooks man's disobedience.

Universalism - automatic, wholesale eternal salvation for all mankind.
God’s Grace

Ontological

Being of God
Provision
  - Personal Presence
“Grace is a Person”
  - God’s grace always involves His personal presence of “Being”
Triune Being of God in the relationality of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit
Divine Being is always manifested in Triune divine action.
God in His Trinitarian fullness is fully invested in His every action.

Dynamic

... in Action (doing)
Function
  - God at Work
Phil. 2:13 - “God is at work in you to will and to work for His good pleasure.”
Christological realization of God’s action
  - Jn. 1:17 - “grace and truth realized in Jesus Christ”
Dynamic of divine action cannot be separated from divine Being.
God Does what He Does because He IS who He IS

Extremism

Deistic transcendence separates and detaches God from the happenings of the created world - separated concept of God in much religious thought.
- God becomes an idealistic abstraction; a “no show” in the events of human lives.

Dialectic – Both/And

Alleged “benefits” of God apart from the Being of God.
“Virtual Reality” of divine action
“Means of Grace”
- Eucharist
- “disciplines”

Specified actions indicative of God

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Satan

Derivative Creature

Lucifer, the Light-bearer, was designed to derive from the “God who is light, and in Whom there is no darkness at all” (I Jn. 1:5).

As a choosing derivative creature he inexplicably chose to defy God with the dark character of selfishness. - Isa. 14:14 - “I will make myself like the Most High”

Despite Satan’s selfish choice to make himself the Evil One and the source of all selfishness, contrary to God’s love, he is still derivative creature.

Originator of Evil

Lucifer, by his choice to oppose God as adversary, became Satan, the devil. Still deriving from God, not an “independent self,” Satan distorts and reverses the good character of God, thus originating and becoming the source of the character of evil.

Acts 13:10 (to Elymas) “you son of the devil, ... you make crooked the straight ways of God”

II Cor. 4:4 - “god of this world”

I Jn. 2:13,14; 3:12; 5:18 - “the Evil One”

Eph. 5:8; 6:12; Col. 1:13; I Pt. 2:9 - “darkness”

Dualism views Satan as Evil One equal in power to the goodness of God.

- regarded as a stalemate wherein neither can overcome the other.

Some emphases on spiritual warfare and deliverance elevate Satan’s power of evil, failing to understand the victory of Jesus.

Reasoning from the supreme “sovereignty” of God and the derivativeness of Satan, some conclude:

- God is the source of evil character. cf. Isa. 45:7 (KJB); James 1:13

“Satan is just the backside of God”

“Satan is just God’s errand boy”

“Satan is just the left hand of God”

©2014 by James A. Fowler

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

Extremism
Satan is the necessary negative to God’s Positive.

For human beings to have genuine freedom of choice it was necessary that a genuine spiritual alternative be available.

This must not be construed to imply that God in His absolute goodness and righteousness is the author or source of evil or sin.

Lucifer, the light-bearer, was a derivative angelic creature with freedom of choice.

Lucifer freely chose to defy and challenge God. Isa. 14:14 - “I will be like the Most High God”

In so doing, Lucifer became Satan, the adversary, the Evil opposite of God, the “ruler of this world” (Jn. 12:31; 16:11), the “god of this age” (II Cor. 4:4), and the source of all self-oriented character and sinfulness.

Logical negativism must not be allowed to lead to the conclusion of a dualistic stand-off or stalemate between two equal forces or powers.

Neither is Satan to be regarded as merely the absence or privation of God and His character.

Theodicy – the attempt to explain how evil entered God’s righteous world.

Ultimate incongruity of how derivative creature could choose a character other than God when there was no known spiritual source for such.
Satan (spirit-being) does not have the same limitations that mankind (human-beings) have. - humans are contextualized by space and time: - localized in space - temporalized in time

As spirit-being, Satan is not temporalized in time. - tempted Adam, Job, Jesus, us, across centuries. Satan not localized in space - tempts persons around the world simultaneously

“prince of the power of the air” (Eph. 2:2)
Humanity

Derivative Being

Extrinsic being - derived outside of oneself.
Derived origin & function - do not exist a se, in themselves - do not function ek autos out of themselves.

Human function is dependent upon a spirit-source, either God or Satan (ek Theos or ek diabolos). From spirit-source humans derive character, identity, image and destiny by the receptivity of faith.

No human individual is an “independent self.”

Determinative Being

God’s Self-limitation of Himself avoids absolute determinism, and provides for freely-chosen faith-love personal relationship between God and humans.

With “freedom of choice” humans are free to choose the derivational source of their spiritual, psychological and physiological function.

Humans have responsibility by which to respond to God’s action to redeem/restore humanity in the Person/work of Jesus:
- Personal rejection
- Person reception

Human Autonomy

Humanistic premise of persons as independent, autonomous beings, capable of self-generating their own character and activity.
- Independent selves.

Premise of human sovereignty.

Theological form called Pelagianism or Arminianism.
Humanity

Created in God’s Image

- Gen. 1:27 - “God created man in His own image, in the image of God He created him”
- does not imply there is something about man that is like God
- indicates that man created for visible expression of character of God.

In the Fall of man into sin, man lost image of God.

Restored to God’s image by the presence and function of the divine Christ in the spirit of an individual.

Col. 3:10 - “put on the new self who is being renewed to a true knowledge according to the image of the One who created him”

Solidarity with Sin

- Rom. 5:19 - “through the one man’s (Adam’s) disobedience the many were made sinners”
- Rom. 3:23 - “all have sinned and come short of the glory of God”

Solidarity with sin does not imply man has essential, inherent character of sin.

Man is not a devil!

- does imply an association, identity with the Satanic source of sin.
- being “made sinners” indicates a spiritual identity whereby the “prince of the power of the air becomes the spirit that works in the sons of disobedience” (Eph. 2:2,3)

Dialectic – Both/And

- Humanism
  - undue elevation of humanity

  God created “little gods” capable of independent and self-generative function.
  - by free-will man determines his own character.
  - by good choices man resembles, represents or reflects divine image/character.

- Augustinianism
  - undue devaluation of humanity

- Total depravity.
  - totality of human being and function is degraded
  - incapable of functioning as a human creature who can respond to God.
  - vile, deficient, debased humanity
  - “just an animal”

- Total depravity.
  - totality of human being and function is degraded
  - incapable of functioning as a human creature who can respond to God.
  - vile, deficient, debased humanity
  - “just an animal”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Human Personhood

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Individualism</th>
<th>Individuality</th>
<th>Relationality</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Autonomy</td>
<td>Greek ego - word for “I’ Freud used differently.</td>
<td>Human relationality based on Trinitarian relationality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Independent Self</td>
<td>Individual choosing – creatures with freedom of choice (not “free-will”). Mind, emotion, will</td>
<td>Personhood is relational “I-Thou” relationships - not psychological “personhood”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Every man for himself.”</td>
<td>Dependent, derivative creatures response-able to derive from spirit-source.</td>
<td>Social creatures “no man is an island” “in this together” Regard for what is greater than ourselves</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Go it alone”</td>
<td>The human collective is only as good as the character of the individuals within the collective.</td>
<td>Greek koinonia - fellowship, commonality, participation Church - ecclesia “called out” to function together. Interactive Body of Christ.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Do your own thing”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Be all you can be”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Narcissism</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Self-made man</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Self-centered</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Self-serving</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greek idiotes - those who refused when “called out” for town meeting (ecclesia)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Socialism

Associationism - identity, meaning purpose only in the whole.

Communism

Ecclesiasticism

Hierarchialism

Institutionalism

“Group-think” party-mentality peer pressure herd-behavior political-correctness.

“Don’t settle for a collective that will not allow you to be yourself.”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Belief</th>
<th>Faith</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Assent, consent to facts</td>
<td>Receptivity, availability,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acts 16:30 - “believe on the</td>
<td>abandonment to God</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lord Jesus Christ.”</td>
<td>Jn. 1:12-“as many received”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief - creedal statements</td>
<td>Gal. 3:1 - “received by hearing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- coherence, consensus of</td>
<td>with faith.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>thought - figured out</td>
<td>Gal. 2:6 - “as received (by</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- accomplishes certitude</td>
<td>faith), so walk in Him”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief is foundational!</td>
<td>Faith is functional!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief is static!</td>
<td>Faith is dynamic!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- rigid, inflexible, dead</td>
<td>- in motion, alive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief seeks answers</td>
<td>Faith questions everything</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- wallows in words</td>
<td>- listens to God</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- seeks definitive content</td>
<td>- seeks personal revelation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief is informational</td>
<td>Faith is incarnational</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief cannot tolerate</td>
<td>Faith finds its springboard</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>doubt and uncertainty.</td>
<td>in questioning and doubt.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief provides the building-</td>
<td>Faith is the dead-end for all</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ing-blocks for religion.</td>
<td>religion.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief responds to doctrine</td>
<td>Faith responds to the grace</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and reasoned teaching</td>
<td>activity of the Triune God</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Belief is obstacle to faith.</td>
<td>Faith seeks relationality.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Passivism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Epistemological belief systems</td>
<td>Challenge to all belief-systems</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- willing to fight and die for what is considered a correct order of beliefs. - self-justification</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Religionism</td>
<td>Individualism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Religion is built on rigidity and inflexibility of beliefs.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Importance of apologetics</td>
<td>Separatism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- non-conformity</td>
<td>Anti-authority</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- anarchism</td>
<td>Repudiation of apologetics and systematic theology.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Human Relational Function

Spiritual Relationality
- Spirit-based relationality that allows spirit-character to pervade human relational interactions.
- Personhood based on interpersonal relations
- Cannot be a person in a vacuum without relationality.
- Human beings designed by Triune God to participate in Trinitarian relationality of perfect love, community, fellowship...
- Adamic Fall of mankind into sin, allowed for diabolic relationality.
- selfish and destructive sociological conflict.

Psychological Relationality
- Relationality based on human personality and individuality
- Personhood based on psychological function
- function of mind, emotion and will of individual is basis of personality
- temperament patterns display differently.
  (Hippocrates - choleric, sanquine, phlegmatic, melancholy)
- Patterned desires of “Flesh”
  - Individuated patterns of selfishness and sinfulness in human desires, such as prejudices, biases, etc.

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

Spiritual Determinism
- Divine determinism.
- Diabolic determinism

Denial of human capability to participate in relational function.
- Augustinian premise of “total depravity”
- Perfectionistic premise of “entire sanctification”

Spiritualism

Psychologism

Behavioralism

Humanism
- Humanistic Behavioral Determinism
- Humanism denies spiritual relationality.
  - posits that man is “independent self” capable of self-generating own character.
  - personhood is intrinsic to one’s own being.

Psychologism

Humanistic Behavioral Determinism

Psychologism

Behavioralism
Jesus Christ

GOD

Deity, divinity, Son of God
Jn. 1:1 - “and the Word was God”
Jn. 5:18 - “making Himself equal with God”
Phil. 2:6 - “He existed in the form of God”
Col. 2:9 - “In Him the fullness of deity dwells”
Titus 2:13 - “God and Savior Christ Jesus”

MAN

Humanity, Son of Man, Individual human being
Acts 2:22 - “a man attested to you by God”
Rom. 5:15 - “the One Man, Jesus Christ”
I Cor. 15:21 - “by a man came resurrection”
Phil. 2:8 - “found in appearance as a man”
I Tim. 2:5 - “the man, Christ Jesus”

Hypostatic Union

The council of Chalcedon in AD 451 explained that the “two natures” (divine and human) were united into one personal individual, the God-man, Jesus Christ.
Jn. 1:14 - “the Word was made flesh”
Heb. 2:14 - “He Himself partook of flesh and blood”
This has been orthodox Christian teaching ever since.

Docetism
Greek dokein “to appear.” Jesus only appeared to be human, a “phantom.”

Apollinarianism
Divine logos replaced human spirit and soul, so Jesus only had human body as container-vessel.

Absorptionism
Jesus’ humanity was absorbed or subsumed into His divine Being.

Ebionites
Jesus just a man elected to be and act as Son of God.

Adoptionism
Jesus a man adopted by God and given Christ-cloak or Messiah-mantle

Arianism
Denied deity of Jesus, accepting form of Adoptionism.

Radical kenoticism. Jesus “emptied Himself of divinity.”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Humiliation

- Lowliness, debasement
  - Isa. 53 - “despised, forsaken, acquainted with grief”
  - Birth
    - Phil 2:7 - “emptied Himself, likeness of man”
    - Gal. 4:4 - “born of woman (in stable) under the Law”
  - Temptation
    - Heb. 4:15 - “tempted in all points as we are”
  - Washing disciples’ feet
    - Cf.
  - Suffering, pathos
    - I Pet. 4:1 - “Christ suffered in the flesh”
  - Crucifixion
    - Phil 2:8 - “humbled Himself .. to point of death”
  - Burial - bowels of earth
    - I Cor. 15:4 - “…buried”

Exaltation

- Lifted up, elevated
  - Heb. 7:26 - “exalted above the heavens.”
  - Resurrection
    - Acts 10:40 - “God raised Him up on third day.”
    - Rom. 1:4 - “declared Son of God with power by the resurrection from death”
  - Ascension
    - Acts 2:34 - “ascended”
  - Glorification
    - Jn. 13:31 - “Now is the Son of Man glorified.”
  - Coronation
    - Heb. 12:2 - “sat down at right hand of throne of God.”
  - Intercession
    - Heb. 7:25 - “He always lives to make intercession”

---

Negativism

- Inordinate emphasis on humiliation of Jesus can lead to macabre expressions.
  - The Passion

Evangelicalism has often emphasized death on cross over resurrection.

Failure to see Christus Victor motif.

Undue emphasis on wretchedness, sin-consciousness.

---

Positivism

- Triumphalism

Ecstaticism

Failure to recognize that exaltation comes via humiliation.

- the same is true still as Christ works in the life of the Christian.
Jesus Christ

Prototype
Model of the Christ-life.
Exemplary

I Cor. 11:1 - “be imitators, as I am of Christ.”
Heb. 12:2 - “keep your eyes on Jesus, pioneer and per-sector of faith”

I Pet. 2:21 - “Christ left you an example for you to follow in His steps.”
Jesus lived out the Christ-life perfectly for every moment in time for 33 years.

Jn. 13:15 - “I gave you an example that you should do as I did”
Phil. 4:5 - “have this attitude which was in Christ Jesus”

Passivism
Acquiescence
Quietism

“It’s not what we do, but what Christ does.”
The greatest sin of Christians today is to try to live
the Christian life.”
“Just go with the flow of the Jesus-life.”
“Let go, and let God”

Jn. 14:6 - “I am the way.”
Jn. 15:5 - “Apart from Me,
you can do nothing.”
Gal. 2:20 - “It is no longer I who lives, but Christ lives in me.”
Phil. 4: I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.”
I Thess. 5:24 - “He will bring it to pass.”

Provision
Modality of Christian life.

Christ lives “as” us - we are the only epistles of Christ that some will ever see. Jesus wants to live that same life in you/me; to re-present Himself to the world in which we live.

Imitationism
Mimicry
Performance

“Imitation of Christ
Thomas A Kempis

In His Steps
Charles Sheldon

WWJD - “What Would Jesus Do?”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Easy-believism
Revivalism - get people “down the aisle to get saved”
Mental assent to Jesus as deliverer
- “off the hook”
- “spiritual fire insurance policy”
- salvation as “pass into heaven”
Emphasize “faith alone” without “works”
Views “Jesus is Lord” as assent to deity ...

Lordship
Salvation
Ethical behavior-
ism
Pietism that tends to demand expression of character-fruit in order to qualify as “Christian.”
- become “fruit inspectors”
Tendency to demand performance assurance of “total committment” & obedience

Savior
To make another “safe”
Matt. 1:21 - “call His name Jesus, for He will save His People from their sins”
Matt. 18:4 - “Son of Man has come to save what is lost”
Jn. 4:42 - “this One is indeed the Savior of the world”
Rom. 1:16 - “gospel is the power of God for salvation”
I Tim. 2:4 - “desires all men to be saved”
Titus 1:4 - “Christ Jesus our Savior”
I Jn. 4:14 - “The Father has sent the Son to be the Savior of the world”

Authority over another
Matt. 28:18 - “All authority is given to Me in heaven and on earth”
Rom. 10:9 - “If you confess with you mouth Jesus as Lord, you will be saved”
Acts 2:36 - “God has made Him both Lord and Christ
Phil. 2:11 - “every tongue will confess that Jesus Christ is Lord”
II Pet. 3:18 - “grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ”
Proper response to Jesus includes repentance.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Jesus Christ</th>
<th>Physical Christ</th>
<th>Pneumatic Christ</th>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Extremism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jesus viewed only or primarily as physical personage of history almost two millennia ago.</td>
<td>Historical Jesus</td>
<td>Spiritual Jesus</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Historical society for the remembrance of Jesus.</td>
<td>Incarnated Jesus</td>
<td>Experiential Jesus</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where is Jesus? - “dead and gone!”</td>
<td>Jn. 1:14 - “the Word became flesh”</td>
<td>I Cor. 15:45 - “the Last Adam became the life-giving Spirit.”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Is He the eternal God-man?</td>
<td>Rom. 8:3 - “God sent His Son in the likeness of sinful flesh...”</td>
<td>Rom. 1:4 - “Spirit of holiness, Jesus our Lord”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I Tim. 3:16 - “He was revealed in the flesh, and vindicated in the Spirit”</td>
<td>II Cor. 3:17 - “Lord is the Spirit”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Heb. 2:14 - “He Himself partook of flesh and blood”</td>
<td>I Cor. 6:17 - “joined to the Lord, one spirit with Him”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I John 1:1 - “we have seen with our eyes, touched with our hands, the Word of life.”</td>
<td>Rom. 8:9 - “if do not have the Spirit of Christ, none of His”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Rom. 8:11 - “His Spirit dwells in you”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Gal. 4:6 - “God sent His Spirit of His Son into our hearts.”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Phil. 1:19 - “the provision of the Spirit of Christ.”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Human actions

Common tendency among religious persons to identify “sin” by particular human acts and behaviors.

Human actions are only sinful when pervaded and energized by the character of the Evil One.

No external action of a human individual is to be regarded as intrinsically sin or sinful.

Jn. 3:19; 7:7 - “deeds are evil”
Gal. 5:19 - “deeds of the flesh”
Jude 15 - “ungodly deeds”
I Tim. 5:24 - “sins quite evident”

Spiritual character

Broadly and generally defined, sin is any/all character contrary to the character of God’s perfection and righteousness.

Such antithetical character is energized by the Evil One, Satan, the originator of all evil character.

Human beings are incapable of self-generating evil character in sinful actions.

- I Jn. 3:8 - “one who practices sin is of the devil”

When a human individual derives evil character in their behavioral actions they commit “sins.”

Religion has keyed in on the externalities of various behavioral actions, admonishing people to:

- “Do this; Don’t do that!”
- “Thou shalt; Thou shalt not!”

This moralizing focus on human behavioralism inevitably leads to legalistic attempts to regulate behavior.

Some will reason:

- “If an individual derives all character and is not the generative source of sin or righteousness, then our responsibility is simply to “let go and let God” be and do what He wants to be and do in our lives.”

Passivism
Acquiescence
Diabolic Determinism - failure to take into account human responsibility of choice has led some to determinism.

Flip Wilson comedy routine: “The Devil made me do it!”

Contemporary culture has advocated removing the onus of any fault or responsibility of sin.

Satan is the prima causa peccati, primary source of evil and sinful character in the world and in human behavior.

I Jn. 3:8 - “one doing sin is of (ek - derives “out of”) the devil”
Matt.16:23 - “Get thee behind Me, Satan”
John 8:34 - “everyone who commits sin is slave of sin
Rom. 5:21 - “sin reigned in death”
Rom. 6:17 - “you were slaves of sin”

Sin is not equivalent to Satan, but is the character Satan originates.

Human freedom of choice makes us responsible for the choice of being receptive to sinful character that is contrary to and misrepresentative of the character of Christ.

Human choice to allow for sinful expression is the causa secunda (secondary cause) of sin in human behavior. It is the means by which we connect with the Satanic source of evil and sinful character.

Rom. 6:14 - “sin shall not be master over you”
Rom. 14:23 - “whatever is not of faith is sin”

Humanism - failure to recognize the Satanic source of sin, necessarily leads to the conclusion that a human being is an “independent self” who is capable of self-generating the character of selfishness.

Evangelicalism has promulgated this humanistic idea of sin.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Sin

Transgression

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>When sin is viewed only or primarily as transgression, trespass or lawlessness, it is being considered as an objective act outside of one-self.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Transgression/sin increased</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dead in our transgressions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dead in your trespasses and sins</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>forgiveness of our trespasses</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>you who practice lawlessness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>one who practices sin practices lawlessness</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Independence

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Man is not an “independent self,” capable of manufacturing or producing any form of character - godly or sinful.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>的时候被恶魔欺骗的人类个体可以错误地相信他/她的所谓“独立性”。</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“independence.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>the serpent offered such sinful independence - “you, too, can be like God” (Gen. 3:5),</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>independent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>autonomous</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>self-generative</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Extremism

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Humanism is the fallacious lie of human independence and self-potential.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Evangelical humanism is rampant in American religion, advocating that the human being is the source of his/her own sinfulness.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Atonement

Analogic

Christian redemptive thought has often been based on analogies of the atoning action of Jesus Christ:

- Liberation concept
- Legal/Penal concept
- Purification concept
- Necrological concept
- Sacrificial concept
- Covenantal concept
- Economic concept
- Transactional concept
- Triumphal concept
- Vital concept
- Spiritual concept
- Functional concept
- Relational concept
- Ontological concept

Christocentric

The work of God in Christ is best explained by the Person of Jesus Christ, rather than by using illustrative analogies.

- Analogies tend to direct attention to the “benefits” of Christ’s work, whereas Christocentric explanation focuses on the beneficence of the Being of Jesus Christ.
- All of His benefit is in His Being!
- All that He did and does is indicative and expressive of His Being. His every act is invested and energized by His very Being.

Throughout the history of Christian thought various redemption and atonement theories have served as the springboards for theological systems that emphasize a particular facet of biblical truth, but fail to explain the fullness of Christ’s Person and work.

Evangelical Calvinism
- emphasizes the Being of Christ as deity and humanity were united in the hypostatic union of the Person of Jesus.
- Vicarious humanity of Jesus
- Incarnational Atonement

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Salvation

Universalism

Objective Universal -
“Finished work” of Jesus makes salvation available to ALL mankind.

- ALL loved - Jn. 3:16
- ALL redeemed - Eph. 1:7
- ALL forgiven - Jn. 1:29
- All made righteous - Rom. 5:18,19
- ALL reconciled - Rom. 5:10,11
- ALL given life - Rom. 5:18
- ALL saved - Titus 2:11
- ALL blessed - Eph. 1:3
- ALL drawn to Christ - Jn. 12:32

Determinist

ALL humanity deterministically subsumed into incarnational life and ministry of Jesus. His vicarious humanity incorporates all human beings into Him for eternity.

Subjective Particular

Subjective Particular -
Not ALL receive living Lord Jesus. Some reject God’s Grace.

- Human beings are choosing creatures with “freedom of choice.” This choice has no merit!
- Faith is not a “work” nor a “gift of God,” but is our receptivity of God’s activity.
- Either-or particularization: Some receive; some reject
- Reception of divine indwelling presence of Triune God.

Particularism

Objective

ALL qualified to mean “all of God’s predestined ‘elect.’” Salvation denied to “non-elect.”

Subjective

ALL qualified to apply only to those who respond in faith according to particular religious procedures.
Evangelical Calvinism emphasizes the fait accompli of objective salvation in the incarnation and crucifixion of the historical Jesus, while essentially denying that an individual can or should respond in faith to the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Objective

The Person and work of Jesus Christ is objectively efficacious for the salvation of all mankind. Everything necessary for the salvation of mankind was accomplished. All of humanity is “made safe” and delivered from the consequences of sin by the death of Jesus.

I Tim. 4:10 - “living God is Savior of all men, especially believers”

Titus 2:11 - “the grace of God has appeared bringing salvation to all men”

Jn. 3:17 - “God sent His Son into the world, that the world might be saved through Him.”

Subjective acceptance and receptivity of Christ particularizes an individual’s experience of salvation. Individual is “made safe” from death to live by the indwelling Jesus.

Acts 16:30,31 - “Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved.”

Eph. 2:8,9 - “For by grace you have been saved through faith.”

Rom. 10:8-10 - “confess with mouth, believe in heart, you will be saved.”

I Cor. 1:21 - “God was well-pleased to save those who believe”

Rom. 5:10 - “saved by His life”

Evangelicals often view salvation as a static personal event of conversion wherein an individual “gets saved” by the personal choice to receive Jesus.

In so doing they ever so subtly imply that the individual contributes to their own salvation by their faith-action.
Salvation

Grace
- Divine initiative
  - Eph. 2:5,8 - “for by grace you have been saved...”
  - Grace is the divine dynamic of God’s action via the Son Jesus Christ (cf. Jn 1:17), and by the Spirit.
  - Acts 15:11 - “saved through the grace of Lord Jesus”
  - Titus 2:11 - “the grace of God has appeared bringing salvation to all men.”
  - II Tim. 1:9 - “saved in grace according to His own purpose and grace.”
  - I Pet. 1:10 - “this salvation, the prophets prophesied of the grace to come{...

Faith
- Human response
  - Eph. 2:8 - “...saved through faith”
  - Faith is the human choice of receptivity of the activity of the Triune God, both initially and continually in the Christian life.
  - Acts 16:31 - “believe in the Lord Jesus... be saved”
  - II Tim. 3:15 - “salvation through faith in Christ”
  - II Thess. 2:13 - “chosen for salvation...through faith in the truth”
  - I Pt. 1:9 - “outcome of your faith, the salvation of your souls”

---

Augustinianism
- ontological reductionism of fallen humanity, whereby humans are deemed defective and incapable of responding to God’s divine initiative of grace.
- grace is misconstrued as divine determinism whereby God sovereignly elects some for salvation and others to perdition.

Calvinism
- ontological reductionism of fallen humanity, whereby humans are deemed defective and incapable of responding to God’s divine initiative of grace.

Pelagianism
- a human being’s volitional choice determines and effects his/her participation in salvation.

Arminianism
- not as radically humanistic, but does emphasize human faith-choice for human obedience and performance.

Evangelicalism
- tends to focus on human action and performance.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Faith</th>
<th>Works</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Human faith, receptivity of Christ’s redemptive activity, cannot be supplemented by human activity or “works.”</td>
<td>Human “works” and performance have no meritorious benefit towards personal salvation.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rom. 3:28 - “justified by faith apart from works of the law.”</td>
<td>Eph. 2:8,9 - “by grace you have been saved through faith, ...not of works lest anyone should boast.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christian faith, receptivity of Christ’s activity in the Christian life, is rendered meaningless and void if active outworking is not evident.</td>
<td>Claim of Christian faith without the outworking of Christ’s character and ministry is invalid.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James 2:17 - “faith, if it has no works, is dead, being by itself.”</td>
<td>James 2:20 - “faith without works is useless”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James 2:20 - “faith without works is vacuous”</td>
<td>James 2:24 - “man is justified by works, and not by faith alone.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James 2:26 - “faith without works is dead”</td>
<td>James 2:26 - “faith without works is dead”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fideism

Protestant repudiation of “good works” for justification spilled over to minimizing “good works” in Christian behavior.

“faith without works is dead, non-existent, impotent, vacuous, and does not qualify as faith.

Roman Catholic theology has tended toward humanistic potentialism and human contribution to God’s favor.

“show me your works, and I’ll show you that it could only be derived from the character of God.
Salvation

Security

Latin word securus, “without care of anxiety”
Heb. 5:9 - “to all that obey Him, the source of eternal salvation”
I John 5:13 - “you may know that you have eternal life”
I Cor. 1:8 - “Jesus Christ shall confirm you to the end”
Phil. 1:6 - “He will perfect it until the day of Jesus Christ.”
Heb. 12:2 - “Jesus, the pioneer and perfecter of our faith”
I Pet. 1:5 - “protected by the power of God.”

Apostasy

Greek word apostasia - “to stand away from Jesus by renouncing Him”
I Tim. 4:1 - “some will fall away from the faith”
Heb. 3:12 - “falling away from the living God”
Heb. 6:4-6 - “tasted of heavenly gift and then fallen away”
John 15:6 - “If anyone does not abide in Me, he is thrown away.”
I Cor. 9:27 - “lest I should be disqualified”
Gal. 5:4 - “you have been severed from Christ... fallen from grace”

“Apostasy is a doctrine emphasized more by Arminians who place more emphasis on human choice.

“Once apostasized always apostasized” (Heb. 6:6)

Calvinists deny that such persons were ever identified with Jesus and participating in salvation.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Regeneration

Conversion

The conversion of regeneration involves the radical exchange from a condition of spiritual death to spiritual life.

Matt. 18:3 - “unless converted, you will not enter kingdom of heaven”
Jn. 3:3,7 - “must be born again...to see kingdom...”
I Pt. 1:3 - “born again to a living hope...”
Acts 26:18 - “to turn/con- vert them from darkness to light, from dominion of Satan to God...receive forgiveness of sins”
Titus 3:5 - “saved us by the washing of regeneration”

Union

Eastern Orthodox concept of Theosis, requires indwelling presence of living Christ and energizing function of living Lord Jesus. Christians do not become the “essence” of Jesus, but do participate in the “energies” (functional empowering) of the living Christ.

II Pt. 1:4 - “partakers of the divine nature”
I Cor. 6:17 - “he who is joined to the Lord is one spirit with Him.”
Heb. 3:14 - “partakers of Christ”
Heb. 6:4 - “partakers of the Holy Spirit”

Overly objectified concepts of “union with Christ” view union as an historical event or juridical declaration/transaction

Some subjective emphases on “union life” have veered into:
- pantheism
- panentheism
- monistic merging/mingling of Christian and Christ.

Mysticism

There is an “easy-believism rampant in the Western churches that reduces becoming a Christian to merely:
- assent to facts
- raising hands
- walking an aisle
- confessing one’s mistakes
- changing one’s mind-set
- repeating a creed
- getting baptized
- joining a church
- promising to keep the rules
Adoption

God the Father, through the divine-human Son, has eliminated all estrangement with fallen humanity and accomplished everything necessary to adopt the entire human race as sons and daughters into one big family of God.

Gal. 4:4-7 - “God sent forth His Son...that we might receive adoption as sons...no longer a slave, but a son.”

Eph. 1:4-8 - “predestined to adoption as sons through Jesus Christ”

The relational experience of functioning as an adopted child of God in fellowship with the Triune God is predicated on a personal response of faith receptivity to divine presence and activity.

Gal. 4:6 - “you are sons, God has sent forth the Spirit of His Son into our hearts”

Rom. 8:15 - “you have received a spirit of adoption as sons”

Gal. 3:7,26 - “sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus”

Individualism - some maintain that the human act of faith contributes to or effects an individual’s salvation.

Pelagianism
Arminianism
Evangelicalism

Universalism - all humanity is adopted by God into the eternal and heavenly family of Christ

Denial of humanity’s capability or response-ability to make personal response to God’s action in Jesus Christ.

Evangelical Calvinism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Sanctification

Dialectic – Both/And

Initial
- Accomplished, complete, entire sanctification
- Objectively made available by Christ; subjectively realized in regeneration.

  - Eph. 5:26 - “He gave Himself to sanctify her”
  - Heb. 10:10 - “sanctified through the offering of Jesus Christ once for all”
  - I Cor. 1:2 - “those who are sanctified, saints…”
  - I Cor. 1:30 - “Jesus became to us sanctification”
  - I Cor. 6:11 - “you were sanctified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ”
  - Heb. 2:11 - “those sanctified are all of one Father”

Continual
- Progressively expressed holy character
- Greek hagiasmos - the process by which the Holy character of the Triune God is allowed to be expressed in Christian behavior.

  - II Cor. 7:1 - “perfecting holiness in fear of God”
  - I Thess. 4:3 - “will of God, your sanctification”
  - I Thess. 5:23 - “may God of peace sanctify you entirely in spirit, soul, body”
  - Heb. 12:10 - “that we may share His holiness”
  - Heb. 12:14 - “pursue holiness ... to see the Lord”

---

Perfectionism

Holiness movement: (Wesley) - emphasized “entire sanctification” in a “second blessing” that imputes Christian with sinless perfection and holiness.

Christians have spiritual identity of being “saints” - holy ones, but are not essentially holy as God is.

---

Extremism

- Legalism
- Pietism
- Moralism
- Experientialism
- Behavioralism
- Suppressionism
- Crucifixionism

Subjective personal holiness has often been pursued by religious self-effort. It can only be experienced by the the dynamic grace of God in Jesus Christ.

---

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Righteousness

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Objective</th>
<th>Subjective</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jesus Christ is the “Righteous One” (Acts 3:14; 7:52; 22:14; I Jn. 2:1)</td>
<td>Righteousness is divine, and when applied to human beings it is always derived from God.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesus’ voluntary and vicarious death on the cross was the “righteous act” whereby the “Righteous One endured death on our behalf, and made righteousness of life available to humanity.</td>
<td>The “Righteous One,” Jesus Christ indwells the Christian, and desires to live out His Righteous character in Christian lives.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rom. 5:18 - “through one transgression there resulted condemnation to all men, even so through one act of righteousness there resulted justification (righteousness) of life to all men.”</td>
<td>I Cor. 1:30 - “Jesus became to us righteousness”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Rom. 8:10 - “the spirit is alive because of righteousness”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Rom. 5:19 - “many will be made righteous.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>II Cor. 5:19 - “we might become the righteousness of God in Him.”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

 Much of Protestantism has over-objectified the “righteous act” of Jesus Christ by emphasizing that “justification” is only the divine declaration and legal imputation of righteousness to the predetermined “elect.”

Humanistic religion seeks to credit an individual for performance actions (faith? good works?) alleged to be righteous or to merit a righteousness from/before God.

Mystical religion moves from derived righteousness to essential righteousness of the believer.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Bible

Divine Action

- Divine revelation
  - God revealed Himself naturally & supernaturally by the Son.
  - The Bible is the record of God's revelation; not the revelation itself.
- Divine inspiration - God breathed - I Tim. 3:16
- Divine providential preservation of textual record.
- Divine interpretation of Bible text by Holy Spirit.
  - illumination, enlightenment, personal revelation (cf. Eph. 1:17; Phil. 3:15)

Human Action

- Human historical context of Biblical documents.
  - sitz em leben (setting in life).
- Human authors - varying vocabulary, grammar, cultural, personal perspectives
- Human literary constructs: historical, epistolary, apocalyptic literary styles
- Human collection and canonization of texts.
- Human interpretation:
  - hermeneutics
- Biblical criticism - critical thinking about meaning of the text
- Textual criticism of manuscript evidences & variance. No original mss.

Bible is the “Word of God.”
...answer for every question of man.
...all God wants man to know.
Christianity is the Book-religion.
Bible equated with Jesus.
  - infallibility
  - deification
  - bibliolatry
Verbal plenary inspiration.
  - dictation theory
Authority of God vested in Bible.
Literal interpretation of every word in the Bible

Bible needs to be scrutinized and sanitized by de-mythologization.
  - Form criticism
  - Source criticism
  - Redaction crit.
  ex. Jesus Seminar

Bible is just man-made book.
Bible full of error and superstition
Bible inspired in same sense as Shakespeare.

Canonization was human process.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Kingdom

Ecclesiasticism - some equate the visible church with the kingdom of God

Millennialism - some eschatological interpretations defer the kingdom to the future millennial period & location

Denominationalism - there are denominations who have claimed to be “the kingdom of God on earth”

When the kingdom of God is regarded as having static tangibility in a people-collective, an institution, a jurisdiction, or geographical location, it is regarded as a realm.

Tangibility of Place
Lk. 4:5 - “kingdoms of the world”
Mk. 13:8 - “kingdom against kingdom”
Lk. 11:18 - “Satan ... how will his kingdom stand?”

Relationality of Person
Jn. 18:36 - “My kingdom is not of this world.”
I Cor. 15:50 - “flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom”
Rom. 14:17 - “the kingdom of God is righteousness, peace and joy”
Lk. 17:21 - “the kingdom of God is in your midst”
Col. 1:13 - “transferred us to the kingdom of His beloved Son”

The kingdom of God is the dynamic reign of the Personal Lord and King, Jesus Christ in Christians’ lives both individually and collectively wherever they might be.

Abstractionism
Dynamism
Etherealism
Personalism

When some Christians recognize that they are participating in the kingdom reign of the risen Lord Jesus, they sometimes become “so heavenly minded as to be of no earthly good.”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
The church is a divine institution; divinely instituted by God.
Matt. 16:18 - “Upon this rock I will build My church”
A divine institution does not preclude the need for human organizational structure to implement practical functionality.
- ex. national government
Organizational polity may have diverse forms:
- hierarchical, papal
- plurality of elders, presbyterian, episcopal
- congregational democracy, popular vote

The church is unique from all other social institutions.
Identified as the “Body of Christ,” the church is a living expression and conveyance of the presence, life and function of the risen and living Lord Jesus Christ.
Col. 1:18 - “Christ, the head of the Body the Church”
I Cor. 12:12 - “members of the one Body”
The physical incarnate Jesus died and rose again, and by Pentecostal outpouring indwells the collective Church as the “life-giving Spirit” (I Cor. 15:45)
Incorporeal - every individual in every time and place wherever Jesus Christ has and does live comprises the invisible Church.
The individual believers who comprise the Church are “called out” of the world and “called out” to be Christ-ones, Christians in the world.
Together they are the “holy catholic church,” joined in common-unity by the presence and function of the living Lord Jesus, the “life-giving Spirit.”
They are holy people “preserved” and “built up...” in Christ. (Eph. 4:12)

Idealism
Etherealism
Ambiguous identification
- “No need to know who is, and who is not.”
Universal determination
- no need for seeking to preserve unity.
Relativism
- no basis for common core beliefs.

Incorporeal
“Body of Christ” - the visible expression of the invisible reality of the living Lord Jesus.
All that is visible and called “church” may not be the Church of Jesus Christ.
The visible church takes form in congregations of functional “members” affirming common beliefs, relating to one another in love, structurally organized for missional purposes.
These congregations may, or may not have a building to assemble in, and may or may not hold public services.

Institutionalism
Ecclesiasticism
Incorporations: “big business”
Legal organizations
Organizational “membership”
Creedalism
Mixed membership:
Indistinguishable identification of “sheep and wolves” (Matt 7:15), “wheat and tares” (Matt. 13:29,30)
Social networking

Corporeal
Visible

Dialectic – Both/And Extremism Extremism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Church

Collective
- Numerous individual parts collectively comprising a whole social unit.
- The whole unit is only as effective as the sum of its individual parts.
- The ecclesial collective transcends time and space - the saints from past, present, and future.
- The collective of all Christ-ones ... - redeemed blood-bought children of God - regenerated by the life of Spirit of Christ.

Coinherence
- A unity of those in union with the living Lord Jesus Christ.
- A divinely established and enacted oneness of the one Body, the Church.
- We are in this together ... placed and put in HIM by the Grace of God.
- Interrelational function derives from the relationality of the Triune God causing perichoretic function “as one” in same space.
- Functional members of Body-organism; ear, eye, hand; singular function.

---

Collectivism
- Church viewed as aggregation - like collection of marbles in a bag.
- Church viewed as conglomerate - as if glommed together with a spiritual adhesive.
- Church viewed as congregation - just separate persons coming together in same location.

Communalism
- Socialism
- Interfusionism
- Co-mingling
- Coalescence

Important to recognize that the church involves persons in relationality.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Unity is illegitimately achieved by hierarchical authority that seeks to enforce commonality, and eject, dis-enfranchise or excommunicate those who do not conform in thought and practice.

Ecumenicalism
Unity is not uniformity.
“In essentials unity; in non-essentials liberty, in all things love.”

Diversity
Christian individuals have differing personalities, talents, and opinions.

They tend to assemble with believers of like-minded theological opinions, worship styles, and church polity in denominationally diverse Christian groups.

Diversity must not be allowed to degenerate in an epidemic of tolerance, wherein essential creedal unity of Christian belief is sacrificed.

Diversity must not be allowed to degenerate into divisiveness over differing thought and practice.

“Christians must agree to disagree”
Artistic Expression in the Church

Showcase the Artist

- Talented individuals: Musicians, dancers, painters, sculptors, theatrical actors, orators, etc.
- Much time, effort, practice to develop quality of the art.

Those occupying the stage or producing the artistic expression will inevitably receive recognition, appreciation and accolades.
- must learn to exercise their talent in humility that recognizes divine source of their talent.

II Cor. 3:5 - “Not to consider anything as coming from ourselves”

Glorify God

- Willingness and desire to take the focus and attention off of oneself in order to glorify God.

Genuine Christian ministry requires personal talent to be exercised within spiritual giftedness that allows spiritual empowerment that focuses on serving others both in and outside of the Church.

Requires the Christian artist to have intimate and mature relationship with the living Christ to allow the overflow of the life of Jesus unto others.

Extremism

Temptation for egoism, pride, arrogance, narcissism, egotrips, vanity, vain-glory
- to be the center of attention, to want focus to be on them, to receive adulation, to seek fame.

Many Christian artists have become celebrities, superstars.
Often view themselves as working for Jesus or the church.

Some think they are called and gifted to minister via artistic expression, but lack artistic talent or adequate preparation.
- dedication and zeal for glorifying God, but without talent.

Some attempt to orchestrate a contrived form of worship.
- “planned spontaneity”
Christian fellowship is the koinonia of the interactive relationality of the truth/reality of the Triune God.

There are truth-tenets that are foundational to the Christian community:
- Eph. 1:13 - “the message of truth, the gospel…”
- Col. 1:5 - “word of truth, the gospel”

The Truth-person essential to Christianity is Jesus:
- Jn. 1:14,17 - “grace and truth realized in Christ”
- Jn. 8:32,36 - “the truth/the Son shall set you free”
- Jn 14:6 - “I am the way, the truth, and the life”

Christian fellowship is the koinonia of the interactive loving relationality of Father, Son, & Holy Spirit

I Pet. 1:22 - “Since you have in obedience to the truth purified your souls for a sincere love of the brethren, fervently love one another from the heart.”

God’s character of love is the relational lubrication of Christian fellowship.
- I Jn. 4:8,16 - ”God is love”
- I Jn. 15:10 - “abide in My love”
- Eph. 4:15 - “speaking the truth in love”

Fundamentalism - when Christian fellowship is centered around truth that is merely content of information and doctrine.

Accurate data storage and consensus without Christ’s relational love soon leads to divisive truth interpretations.

II Jn. 1:3 - “truth and love”

Sentimental expressions of love:
- feel-good love
- “ain’t it nice to be nice to nice people?”

Liberal activities alleged to be loving concern for others, often just to appease their own conscience and implement their own social agendas.

053
Biblical Covenants

Continuity
- Promise – Fulfillment
  - Cov. promises Abraham
    - Seed - Gen. 12:7; 13:5
    - Nation - Gen. 12:2; 17:4,5
    - Land - Gen. 12:7; 13:14
    - Blessing - Gen. 12:2,3
  - Fulfillment to Israel
    - All promises fulfilled - Josh. 21:45; 23:14
  - Fulfillment in Jesus
    - All promises sp. fulfilled - Rom. 15:8; II Cor. 3:14
    - Jesus is “hope of Israel”
      - Acts 26:6; 28:20
    - Christians receive Abr. promises Gal. 3:18,29
    - Spiritual Israel - Rom. 9:6; Gal.6:16

Discontinuity
- Old/New; Law/Grace
  - Old cov. - Mosaic Law
    - First cov. II Cor. 3:14
    - Israel only Ex. 34:27
    - Preliminary - Heb. 8:5
    - Shadow -Heb. 9:9; 10:1
  - No life - Gal. 3:21
  - No righteousness - Rom 3:20; Gal. 2:16,21
  - Abrogated - Heb. 8:13
  - New Cov. Grace/Jesus
    - Second cov. Heb. 8:7;10:9
    - Better cov. Heb. 7:22; 8:6
    - Eternal cov. Heb. 9:15;
    - Cov. of life - II Cor. 3:6
    - Righteous. - II Cor. 3:19
    - End of law - Rom. 10:4
    - Law in hearts - Heb. 8:10
    - Christians not under law - Rom. 6:14,15; Gal. 3:25

---

Dispensationalist Theology
- Continuity put on “hold” - resumed in future at 2nd coming for Israel
- Church age never promised by God - “Plan B”

Fear of Continuity
- Impinges on the promises to Israel and faithfulness of God.
- Fails to see radical newness of new cov. of grace.

Dispensationalist Theology
- Fear continuity impinges on the immutability of God.
- Continued efficacy of Law - legalism, theonomy.
- Fails to see complete fulfillment in Jesus Christ.

---

Old/New; Law/Grace
- Cov. promises Abraham
  - Seed - Gen. 12:7; 13:5
  - Nation - Gen. 12:2; 17:4,5
  - Land - Gen. 12:7; 13:14
  - Blessing - Gen. 12:2,3

- Fulfillment to Israel
  - All promises fulfilled - Josh. 21:45; 23:14

- Fulfillment in Jesus
  - All promises sp. fulfilled - Rom. 15:8; II Cor. 3:14
  - Jesus is “hope of Israel”
    - Acts 26:6; 28:20
  - Christians receive Abr. promises Gal. 3:18,29
  - Spiritual Israel - Rom. 9:6; Gal.6:16

Dispensationalist Theology
- Continuity put on “hold” - resumed in future at 2nd coming for Israel
- Church age never promised by God - “Plan B”

Fear of Continuity
- Impinges on the immutability of God.
- Continued efficacy of Law - legalism, theonomy.
- Fails to see radical newness of new cov. of grace.
Eschatology – Last Things

Aligned – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Already</th>
<th>Not Yet</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Inaugurated eschatology - realized &amp; experienced</td>
<td>Anticipated, awaited, longed for; not yet realized.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesus Christ is the “Eschatos Man” - God’s Last Word</td>
<td>Jesus Christ is the beginning and the end of God’s work. Second coming of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Cor. 15:45</td>
<td>Christ is the consummation and completion of His redemptive work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Finished work” of Christ; Christus Victor. Jn. 17:4; 19:30</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Extremism

- Preterism - praeter
- Historicism - God’s action past history
- Contemporism - the “new age” is the “now age”
- Activism - God’s theocracy today
- Postmillennialism
- Triumphalism - “As good as it can get”
- No expectation of Christ coming.
- - Hope is deemphasized
- Hope has become realization.
- Heaven is here and now.

Utopianism

- Apocalypticism
- Millennialism
- Dispensationalism
- “parenthesis theory” - Plan B

Pessimism

- “why polish brass on a sinking ship.”
- Projectionism - “pie in the sky bye and bye”
- First coming of Jesus is diminished in anticipation of second.
- Preoccupied with “when” & “where” of future coming.
- Immortality in future.

Dialectic

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th></th>
<th>Extremism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Utopianism</td>
<td>Apocalypticism</td>
<td>Millennialism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dispensationalism</td>
<td>“parenthesis theory”</td>
<td>Plan B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pessimism</td>
<td>“why polish brass on a sinking ship.”</td>
<td>Projectionism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“pie in the sky bye and bye”</td>
<td>First coming of Jesus is diminished in anticipation of second.</td>
<td>Preoccupied with “when” &amp; “where” of future coming.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Immortality in future.</td>
<td></td>
<td>Extremism</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Already

- II Peter 1:6
- Titus 2:11; 3:4
- I Tim. 3:16
- Gal. 1:16
- Col. 1:13
- Jn. 3:36
- Eph. 2:5,8
- II Tim. 1:10

Not Yet

- Parousia
- Epiphany
- Manifestation
- Revealing
- Kingdom
- Eternal life
- Salvation
- Immortality

References

- II Thess. 2:9; 5:21
- I Th. 2:8; Tit. 2:13
- I Jn. 2:28; 32
- I Pet. 1:5,7
- I Cor. 15:24,50
- Jn. 6:40; Gal. 6:8
- Rom. 13:11
- I Cor. 15:53,54

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Destiny

Intentioned Universality

Divine intentions for mankind are always Christo-centric - “in Christ.”

Jesus is the “Elect One,” identified universally with humanity in incarnation (Phil. 2:6-8), in redemptive death (cf. Heb. 2:9), & fulfillment of all God’s promises (II Cor. 1:20).

II Pt. 3:9 - “God not willing that any should perish”

I Tim. 2:4 - “God desires all men to be saved.”

Universal availability of heavenly destiny in Christ (Acts 10:34) and universal drawing of God’s grace.

God’s determinative judgment is love “in Christ.”

Conditioned Distinction

Volitional condition of reception or rejection, belief or unbelief.

Response-ability via freedom of choice to be receptive to availability of God’s salvation in Christ.

Faith-receptivity of union with living Christ allows one to be “elect” in the “Elect One,” Jesus Christ.

Distinct alternatives of spiritual identification and union with Christ or Satan, the perpetuity and continuity of which are heaven or hell.

Necessary Dichotomy

- Divine determinism - double-predestination of individuals to heaven or hell by capricious divine Judge.

- Humanism - deems human beings to be independent selves with inherent power to make ultimate determinations.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Religion often develops false criteria for the quality of the eternal. The quality of the eternal is not determined by the performance efforts of humans.

The quality of eternality is always derivative, and nothing should be called “eternal” except that it is invested with the very presence of God.

Many have been taught that the meaning of “eternal” is “no beginning, and no end.” - such an open-ended extension of time is not intrinsic to the Greek new covenant word for “eternal” (aionios), which means “unto the ages”)

The eternality of God’s absolute character of love, justice, mercy, etc. is indicative of His unchanging Being.

Eternal life - God’s life
- Eternal quality of the character of love and holiness
Rom. 1:20 - “eternal power”
Eph. 3:11 - eternal purpose”
II Cor. 4:17 - “eternal weight of glory”
II Cor. 5:1 - “a house (body) eternal in heavens”
II Thess. 2:16 - “eternal comfort and hope”
Heb. 9:12 - “eternal redemption”
Rev. 14:6 - “eternal gospel”

The eternality of God’s Being and existence are everlasting.
Ps. 90:2 - “from everlasting to everlasting You are God
Eternal life - Extension, continuity, perpetuity of divine life.
Jn. 3:16,36 - “he who believes in the Son has eternal life” (cf. 5:24;6:47)
Rom. 6:23 - “free gift of God is eternal life”
Aionios applied to what is not divine, still conveys continuity, perpetuity of spiritual association.
Matt. 25:41 - “eternal fire”
II Thess 1:9 - “eternal destruction”

The eternality of God’s

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Place</th>
<th>Person</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Destination</td>
<td>Destiny</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Is heaven a place?</td>
<td>Consequential outcome</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John 14:2,3 - “go to prepare</td>
<td>of present reality.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>a place for you” (Gk. topos)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesus speaking of heaven?</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geographical? gold streets</td>
<td>Perpetuity, continuity,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tangible? Physical?</td>
<td>extension of spiritual and</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ps. 18:23 - “set me in high</td>
<td>eternal presence of Christ.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>places.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gk ouranos - “raised up”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Discontinuity of worldly</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>environ of experiencing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christ’s life in physical</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>body.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil. 1:21 - “to die is gain”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rev. 21:4 - “no sorrow,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pain, sickness, death”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>City of the living God -</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rev. 21:2, 10, 19</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Idealism
- clouds, harps, angels, pearly gates, mansions

Escapism -
- seeking avoidance of present-world situation.
- “can’t wait ‘til I get to heaven”

Mercenary
- biggest mansion
- stars in crown
- rewards

Self-oriented
- what I get
- what my body will be like
- I want more than I now have.

Mysticism

Etherealism
“pie in the sky, bye and bye”

For some there is a discontent with what they now have in Jesus Christ, and they may be disappointed that all God has to give is His Son, Jesus Christ – in this world and the next.
Hell

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

Judgmentalism
- Some Christians seem to delight that some who have not performed as well as them are “going to fry in hell.”

Vindictive
- Vengeful

Hell has been misrepresented by the imagery that Dante employed in the Inferno.

Place

- Is hell a place? Gk. topos
- “prepared for the devil and his angels”
- “place of torment”
- “dwelling of demons”
- Go into hell - Matt 5:22
- Cast into hell - Mk. 9:45, 47; II Pet. 2:4; Rev. 20:10
- Place of fire - Mk. 9:43-48;
- Jude 9; Rev. 14:10
- Place of destruction - Matt. 7:13; 10:28; Rom. 9:22;
- Phil. 3:19; I Thess. 4:3;
- I Tim. 6:19; I Pet. 2:3
- Discontinuity of present physical world context.
- “god/ruler of this world”
- John 12:31; 14:30; II Cor. 4:4

Person

- Destiny - consequential outcome of present reality
- Continuity, perpetuity, extension of spiritual condition, association, identification, union with Satan, the Evil One.
- participation in evil
- “one having power of death” - Heb. 2:14
- Is this forever, unending, everlasting? ...eternal?
- Jude 13 - “forever”
- Dan. 12:2 - “everlasting contempt”
- Is hell a retributory, condemnatory, sentence of guilt that incurs separation and wrath of God?
- Mt. 5:22 - “guilty .. to hell”
- Mt. 23:33 - “sentence of hell”

Extremism

Denial of hell
- “ain’t no such place, and ain’t nobody going there.”

Annihilationism.
- No after-life.
- After physical death, just termination and cessation of being.

Universalism -
- Every human will inevitably go to heaven.

Is hell a place of rehabilitation?
Judgment of God

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Already</th>
<th>Not Yet</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| God’s judgment is God’s critical determination (Greek krisis).
- God pre-determined that His judgment would be by Jesus Christ.
Jn. 5:27 - “Father gave the Son authority to execute judgment”
Jn. 8:16 - “My judgment is true; I do not do it alone”
Jn. 9:39 - “For judgment I came into the world”
Jn. 12:30 - “judgment is upon this world; ruler of this world cast out” (16:11) | Future final judgment of God based on His determination for all mankind in Jesus Christ.
- Christocentric judgment
Acts 10:42 - “the One appointed by God as Judge of the living and dead”
Acts 17:31 - He will judge the world in righteous through a Man…”
II Thess. 2:12 - all judged who did not believe in the Truth
Rom. 2:16 - “God will judge the secrets of men through Christ Jesus;
Rev. 20:12,13 - “everyone judged according to their deeds” |

Some have diminished or denied a future judgment of God - this to the detriment of advising other people that there will be consequences to their choices and actions.

Those selfishly content with their own relationship with God will be judged for their unloving unconcern for others.

Many fail to realize that God’s determination for mankind is Christocentric, and that individual, subjective determination is made by one’s reception or rejection of Jesus Christ.

There need be no fearful fretting about a future judgment except for those who reject Jesus.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Holy Spirit

Fruit of the Spirit

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Character of Christ</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gal. 5:22,23 - “the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, Godly control.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The provision by which the living Lord Jesus desires to express the character of His Being in Christian behavior.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matt. 7:16,20 - “you will know them by their fruit”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“They will know we are Christians by our love”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“fruit of righteousness” (Eph. 5:9; Phil. 1:11; James 3:18)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Gifts of the Spirit

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ministry of Christ</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rom. 12:6-8 - “gifts that differ, prophecy, service, teaching, exhortation, giving, leading, showing mercy…”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The provision by which the living Lord Jesus desires to express the “doing” of His ongoing ministry to others in the context of His Church.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our functionality in the local Body of Christ will be determined by our particular spiritual giftedness, and the needs of the local congregation.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Misunderstanding of the “fruit of the Spirit.”
- not plural “fruits”
- complete cluster of the character of Christ in every Christian by the indwelling of Jesus.

Some identify “fruit” as the productivity of evangelism, rather than the character expression of Christ in the Christian.

Misuse of spiritual gifts:
- regarded as personal possessions
- considered to be trophies of spirituality.

Emphasis on supernatural activity, rather than on the divine expression of Christ’s character.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Baptism

External Act
- To overwhelm with water (various modes)
  - visible, seen, tangible
- Divinely instituted action within context of Church (Matt. 28:19)

Internal Reality
- Person's human spirit overwhelmed by the Spirit of the Triune God.
  - (Rom. 8:9, 16; I Cor. 12:13)
- Invisible, not seen

Other Observations
- What is the effect of water baptism on one's spiritual relationship with Jesus?
- Does the act of baptism make a person a Christian?
- Is baptism essential for salvation?
  - “baptized for the forgiveness of your sins” (Acts 2:38)
  - “baptized into one Body” (I Cor. 12:13)

Extremism
- Ritualism
- Proceduralism
- Sacramentalism
- Sacerdotalism
- Pentecostalism
- “Wet passport”

Dialectic – Both/And

Metaphysical
- Mysticism
- Contact the blood of Jesus in the water?

Spiritualism
- Abstractionism
- Etherealism
- Magical

Perryism
- Quietism
- Pietism
- Quakers

Other Noted Concepts
- Pentecostalism
- Metaphysical
- Mysticism
- Contact the blood of Jesus in the water?

---

© 2014 by James A. Fowler
Lord’s Supper

Dialectic – Both/And

External Act
- Physical rite; seen, visible, tangible activity, outward expression
  - Divinely instituted/ordained activity the Church engages in repetitively.
  - “as oft as ye do it?” (I Cor. 11:25)
  - “first day of week” (Acts 20:7)
  - “take eat,” “drink this cup” (Matt. 26:26-27)
  - Physical elements of bread and fruit of the vine
  - Sacrament - visible expression of invisible reality.
    - Represents in visible form the common-union (communion) of Christ and Christian, koinonia, participation
    - Horizontal dimension

Internal Reality
- Spiritual significance, meaning &/or reality; not seen, invisible
  - “in remembrance” - (Lk. 22:19)
  - “proclaim the Lord’s death” (I Cor. 11:26)
  - “the new covenant in My blood” (I Cor. 11:25)
  - “real presence of Christ” “My body...My blood” (Mk. 14:21-23)
  - “eat My body, drink My blood” (Jn. 6:41-56: I Cor. 10:16)
  - “What you take takes you” Mystical Body of Church - “union with Christ” (I Cor. 6:17)
  - Vertical dimension of worship. Mystery of participatory worship.

Extremism
- Ritualism
- Proceduralism
- Sacramentalism - priestly confection of the sacrament.
- Sacerdotalism - means of grace - the act conveys, confers, creates, causes, grants, effects the spiritual significance.
- Representative
- Symbolism
  - “Memorial meal” “Theatre / show”
- Denial of real internal effect

- Mysticism
- Spiritualism
- Metaphysicalism
- Esoteric
- Magical
- Abstractionism
- Etherealism
- Internalism - quietism, Quakers - pietism
- Deny need of physical act

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Interactive

Both/And Dialectics

of

Christian Praxis
Faith

Dialectic – Both/And

Initial

The initial response of faith sometimes called “saving faith” is the choice of an individual to receive the redemptive sufficiency of Christ and regenerative life of Jesus Christ.

Acts 16:30 - “What must we do to be saved? Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ”

Jn. 3:15,36 - “whoever believes in Him has eternal life”

Acts 10:43 - “believes in Him... forgiveness of sins”

Gal. 3:2 - “receive the Spirit by hearing with faith.”

Gal. 3:6 - “sons of God through faith in Jesus”

Eph. 2:8 - “for by grace are you saved through faith”

Continual

The continuing “receptivity of Christ’s activity” within the Christian life, sometimes called “living faith,” is the response by which the dynamic of the living Lord Jesus’ life and ministry is expressed in Christian lives.

Col. 2:6 - “as you received Jesus so walk in Him”

Gal. 2:20 - “I live by faith in the Son of God.”

Gal. 3:11 - “the righteous man shall live by faith”

II Cor. 5:7 - “we walk by faith, not sight.”

Col. 1:23 - “continue in faith, firmly established”

Rom. 14:23 - “whatever is not from faith is sin”

Some religious groups are so focused on the “spiritual life,” “deeper life,” “higher life,” “exchanged life,” “union life,” “word of faith,” etc., that they neglect sharing Christ with the unregenerate.

Some have such an elitist pride in their faith that it becomes “faith in faith.”

- or Gnostic

Evangelical religion has often emphasized the evangelization of persons to “initial faith” in Jesus without any consequent emphasis on living by faith.

This creates churches that are filled with “babes in Christ,” who do not understand what it means to be “filled with the Spirit” (Eph.5:18) unto maturity.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
The receipt of Christ’s life in spiritual regeneration, when the divine life of the Triune God comes to dwell in the spirit of a receptive individual.

- Rom. 8:9 - “if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His”
- Jn. 5:24 - “passed out of death into life.”
- Rom. 6:24 - “walk in newness of life.”

Exchange spiritual condition

- Acts 26:18 - “to turn them from darkness to light…”
- Col. 1:13 - “transferred to the kingdom of His Son”

Receiving Christ’s life by faith.

Conscious awareness of the living Christ as my life in every facet of human life, and allowing Him to live as Lord of my life.

- Col. 3:4 - “Christ is our life”
- Phil. 1:21 - “for me to live is Christ.”
- Rom. 5:10 - “saved by His life”

What is your passion, focus, raison d’etre? ...music, money, sports, family? Or can you honestly state, “The living Lord Jesus Christ is my raison d’etre, my focus, my passion, my LIFE?”

Living by the life of the One who is LIFE.

Some advocate that Christians should have “constant consciousness” of Jesus - that the thought of Jesus should be on the forefront of our mind every moment.

It is possible to be “so heavenly-minded, that one is of no earthly good.”

Receiving divine life often viewed as a passport to heaven.

...as merely the deposit or down-payment for what is promised in the future...

...as an “end in itself,” without ongoing present ramifications.

It is possible to view the acquisition of Christ’s life in selfish and mercenary way.
Christian Life

"You cannot live the Christian life..."
- despite any social or religious conformity.
- despite our best efforts to self-generate and perform Christian character according to laws.

Performance - what we do, our "works," our rule-keeping in attempt to keep scriptural imperatives will not effect the Christian life.

John 15:5 - “apart from Me, you can do nothing”
I Thess. 5:24 - “He will bring it to pass”

Only the risen Lord Jesus can live the Christian life.
- He lived out the Christ-life perfectly once, and wants to do it again in us.

Person of living Christ
- We live the Christian life by the life of Another!
We derive Christian being, identity, doing, behavior from the dynamic of the living Lord Jesus via the receptivity of faith.

II Cor. 4:10 - “manifest the life of Jesus in our mortal bodies.”

Possible

Passivism
“It’s His job; let Him do it!”

“I am not responsible to live the Christian life, so why should I attempt to do so.”
- “Just going to sit back and twiddle my thumbs until God gets into action in me”

Acquiescence

Escapism
- attempt to escape from all responsibility in Christian life.

Perfectionism
- “everything Jesus is and does in me is perfect, despite how it may appear to you.”

Dialectic – Both/And

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Life

Prescriptive

What does the Christian life look like? It looks like Jesus!

It is prescribed (divinely determined) by the character of Christ.

The “how tos” of Christian living are found in the imperative requisites of the New Testament.

This does not mean, however, that Christians are capable by their own self-effort and performance to accomplish and maintain the living of the Christian life.

Spontaneous

When a Christian becomes a “new creature in Christ” (cf. II Cor. 5:17), that person is a unique Christ-one designed for spontaneous re-presentation of Jesus.

The indicative statements of the full provision of God’s grace in Christ are the basis for spontaneous Christ-expression.

Trust that you are who you are “in Christ,” and let Him BE all He wants to BE and DO in you.

Enjoy the Freedom. BE the unique YOU that Christ is in you.

Prescriptive parameters of what the Christian life should look like are often interpreted as behavioral conformity to external rules and regulations of an often authoritative “Christian law” imposed and enforced by local church leaders.

Legalism
Behaviorism

Some Christians interpret the freedom of being spontaneous to be a freedom to be self-serving and lawless. This can lead to a chaotic “free-for-all”

Antinomianism
Licentiousness
Libertinism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Life

Striving

Although “works” of human effort have no meritorious benefit to one’s salvation, the outworking of the life of Jesus requires personal discipline.

Lk. 13:24 - “strive to enter through the narrow door”
I Tim. 4:7 - “discipline yourself unto godliness”
I Tim. 4:10 - “for this we labor and strive”
Phil. 2:12 - “work out your own salvation”
Col. 1:29 - “I labor, striving according to His power, which mightily works within me.”
James 2:14,26 - “faith without works is dead”

Resting

Christians can “rest” from the performance of trying to please or appease God; ceasing from all works by which they might attempt to gain or enact what they already have in spirit-union with Jesus Christ, and can experience by the receptivity of faith.

Matt. 11:28 - “Come to Me, and I will give you rest.”
Heb. 4:1 - “a promise remains of entering His rest”
Heb. 4:3 - “we who have believed enter that rest”
Heb. 4:9 - “a Sabbath rest for the people of God”
Heb. 4:11 - “be diligent to enter that rest”

Passivism - some Christians have interpreted Christian rest to be a passive acquiescence that involves no responsibility or personal action. - such a stance fails to recognize that faith is the “receptivity of divine activity,” allowing Christ’s life to be lived out in us.

Mysticism

Quietism

Performance - Christian religion tends to approach the Christian life with constant inculcations to “measure up” to God’s expectations to be holy and do right.

This “do-right” religion is allegedly effected by the self-effort of “good works” in legalistic conformity to behavioral laws.
Christian Life

Re-presentation

Christians are identified as “Christ-ones,” who have received the living Christ as their life (Col. 3:4).

The purpose of the Christian life is NOT to be a representative of Jesus, doing our best to adequately be like Him. Rather, the living Lord Jesus in the Christian wants to re-present His life and character in the behavior of the Christian life.

- II Cor. 4:10 - “life of Jesus manifested in our bodies”
- Gal. 2:20 - “no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me”

Misrepresentation

The re-presentation of the life and character of Jesus Christ necessitates the Christian’s faithful receptivity of Christ’s activity in the Christian life.

No Christian has allowed for a perfect behavioral expression of Christ.

- I Jn. 1:8 - “if we say we have no sin, we are deceiving ourselves.”
- Sin in the life of the Christian is a misrepresentation of one’s spiritual identity; who we have become “in Christ.”

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Perfectionism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- “I am perfect in Christ”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- “the Christian life is what the living Jesus does in me, not what I do.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Sin-consciousness</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- to become too sin and Satan conscious is to fail to recognize the “finished work” and sufficiency of Jesus.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- where is our focus? on sin? or on Jesus?</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Passivism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Acquiescence</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Some have over emphasized identity in Christ to the point of declaring, “I am Christ.” - blasphemy

- Sin-consciousness - to become too sin and Satan conscious is to fail to recognize the “finished work” and sufficiency of Jesus. - where is our focus? on sin? or on Jesus? Those who focus on their failure to “measure up” are focused on their own performance rather than on Person of Jesus

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Propositions</th>
<th>Person</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Aristotle - “a proposition is a statement that affirms or denies a predicate of a subject.”</td>
<td>In the metaphysics of Christian thought, truth is perceptually and spiritually invested in the divine Person of Jesus Christ.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence Theory of Truth: “A proposition is true if it corresponds with reality.”</td>
<td>John 14:6 - “I am the way, the truth, and the life”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- It then becomes a truth-bearing statement.</td>
<td>- (the Greek word alethia can legitimately be translated both “truth” and/or “reality.”)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Epistemological-based philosophy, theology, science, etc.</td>
<td>John 8:32 - “you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The doctrine and dogma of the Church has often been cast only in the context of propositional truth.</td>
<td>John 8:36 - “the Son makes you free”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Truth of Jesus Christ affects people personally</td>
<td>“Truth is a Person, Jesus Christ” is itself a propositional truth.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Propositions alone are static, sterile, and stagnant. - their perceived accuracy and veracity soon devolve into arguments of orthodoxy, heterodoxy, and doctrinal purity.

The delimitation of reality to only naturalistic phenomenon necessarily delimits the parameters of accepted truth.

When detached from the corpus of historical and theological propositional Christian truth, it can degenerate into - subjectivism - experientialism - mysticism.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Thought

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Objectivity</th>
<th>Subjectivity</th>
<th>Extremism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Protestant emphasis: “as if…” righteous, mere legal fiction</td>
<td>Righteousness - juridical declaration of justification whereby righteous status/standing imputed.</td>
<td>Righteousness - Christian “made righteous” (Rom. 5:21; II Cor. 5:21) in spiritual condition in Christ.</td>
<td>Righteousness by correct opinion, attitudes, conformity.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Threshold factor of Christianity.</td>
<td>Grace - bestowed in incarnation and crucifixion</td>
<td>Grace - indwelling dynamic of Christ’s life</td>
<td>Grace as booster of “infusion”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Salvation as eternal commodity</td>
<td>Salvation - “made safe” from consequences of hell</td>
<td>Saving life of Christ overcoming sin inclinations.</td>
<td>Salvation as inner sense of wellbeing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Church as old-fashioned institution</td>
<td>Church - ecclesia, the called-out assembly in visible community.</td>
<td>Church - invisible reality of all Christ-indwelt persons in the “Body of Christ.”</td>
<td>“Whoever claims to be church is church.”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Human Knowledge of the Cosmos

Natural
- Science - from scientia - to know or perceive
  - observation of the physical evidence of earth origins & function.
  - “seeing is believing”

Supernatural
- Biblical record of God’s Self-revelation of Himself
  - cosmological argument of God’s intelligent design of the universe.
  - “do not see but believe”

Naturalism
- reason solely on natural processes
- deny supernatural processes of reasoning.
- matter is the only reality.

Supernaturalism
- deny natural processes of reasoning.
- Only accept what God says.
- Spirit is the only reality

Self-limited knowledge base.

Self-limited knowledge base.

Scientism
- Evolution
  - Lat. e = out; volve = to turn or roll.
  - observation of how things in universe “turned out” and became as they are.

Fideism
- Creation
  - the Genesis record is accurate and regarded as being authoritative in considering origins and purpose of the cosmos glorifying God

Rationalism
- Biblical record of God’s Self-revelation of Himself
  - cosmological argument of God’s intelligent design of the universe.
  - “do not see but believe”

Presuppositionalism
- Creation
  - the Genesis record is accurate and regarded as being authoritative in considering origins and purpose of the cosmos glorifying God

Empiricism
- Natural selection via the “survival of the fittest.”
  - HOW did it form?
  - HOW does it change?

Creationism
- Creation
  - the Genesis record is accurate and regarded as being authoritative in considering origins and purpose of the cosmos glorifying God

Evidentialism
- Natural selection via the “survival of the fittest.”
  - HOW did it form?
  - HOW does it change?

Evolutionism
- Evolution
  - Lat. e = out; volve = to turn or roll.
  - observation of how things in universe “turned out” and became as they are.

Fideism
- Creation
  - the Genesis record is accurate and regarded as being authoritative in considering origins and purpose of the cosmos glorifying God

Empiricism
- Natural selection via the “survival of the fittest.”
  - HOW did it form?
  - HOW does it change?

Evangelicalism
- Creation
  - the Genesis record is accurate and regarded as being authoritative in considering origins and purpose of the cosmos glorifying God

Dialectic – Both/And

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Informational</th>
<th>Relational</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Knowledge viewed from an epistemological perspective. - this is where I take my stand and assert my belief-system.</td>
<td>Knowledge formed by interactive discovery and interpersonal communion and intimacy. - Gen. 4:1 - “Adam knew Eve and she conceived...”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A mental, rational, logical, academic, analytical approach to knowledge.</td>
<td>Relational knowledge involves a person experientially and spiritually</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Focuses on the content of information - accuracy, veracity - figured out in minds - systematically organized - consistent explanation</td>
<td>Eph. 3:19 - “to know the love of Christ which surpasses knowledge.” Phil. 3:10 - “I might know Him, and the power of His resurrection” II Pet. 3:18 - “grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

I Cor. 8:1 - “knowledges puff people up with pride and makes them arrogant.”

Informational knowledge when not balanced with relational knowledge always drifts toward standardization, formalization and proceduralization. - techniques and definitive determination.

Relational knowledge when not balanced in the grounding of informational knowledge always drifts toward: - subjectivism - existentialism - elitism - individualism/communalism
God's Law

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Performance Requirements</th>
<th>Person of Christ</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Divine prescription of performance requirements</td>
<td>Rom. 10:4 – “Christ is the end of the law for righteousness.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- legal paradigm that conceives God as law-giver and Judge.</td>
<td>Rom. 13:10 – “love is the fulfillment of the law” (cf. Gal. 5:14).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- old covenant Mosaic Law expected obedient law-keeping with consequences of blessing or cursing.</td>
<td>Gal. 5:18 – “you are not under the Law”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prophecy - “I will put My law within them” (Jer 31:33)</td>
<td>Jesus Christ is the new covenant living Torah</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Are there new covenant performance requirements?</td>
<td>Heb. 8:10 – “God’s Law put in our minds, written in our hearts”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do these constitute a form of Christian law?</td>
<td>Gal. 6:2 – “law of Christ”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New covenant literature has over 1000 imperatives.</td>
<td>Rom. 8:2 – “law of Spirit”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Legalism
- natural tendency of mankind to seek parameters of performance.

Antinomianism
- without prescribed parameters of performance people tend to slide toward license and libertinism.

Romans 7 may refer to Christians operating as if moral and ecclesiastical “law” is “Christian Law.” - they will suffer the same inability and frustration as attempts to keep the Mosaic Law.

To live only by the inner dynamic and barometer of God’s grace requires the responsibility of faith.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Will of God

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Prescription</th>
<th>Person</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The “will of God” is viewed by many Christians as prescribed behaviors that God expects them to perform…</td>
<td>The ultimate “will of God,” predestined/prehorizoned in God’s intent for mankind, is each individual’s reception of the Son, Jesus Christ, and living by His life in all circumstances of life.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- or a particular personal course of action (ex. marriage, vocation, etc.)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Often viewed as:</td>
<td>The “will of God” is always the life of the living Lord Jesus lived out in our behavior.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- trying to hit bullseye</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- finding way thru maze</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- puzzle to be deciphered</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- pleading with God to reveal His specific will</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Thess. 4:3 - “will of God, your sanctification”</td>
<td>Mk. 4:9 - “he who has ears to hear, let him hear”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Pet. 4:6 - “live in the Spirit according to will of God”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

All kinds of contorted procedures have been prescribed for ascertaining the supposedly elusive “will of God”

Spiritual pride leads some Christians to think they can “play Holy Spirit” in others’ lives and advise them of God’s will for them

Essentialism

“I am the will of God - whatever I do is the will of God for me.”

Augustine

“love God and do what you want.”

Spiritual pride leads some to think that they know the perfect will of God for all things at all times.
Behavioral Acceptabilities

Liberty

| Gal. 5:1 - “It was for freedom that Christ set us free” |
| Jn. 8:32,36 - “the Son has set us free” |
| Freedom always has a context. |
| - Christians are free “in Christ,” contextualized by His character; empowered by His grace. |
| Free to serve others in Christ’s love. |
| Free to do all “unto the Lord” - Rom. 14:6-8 |
| Free to do all “to the glory of God” - I Cor. 10:31 |
| Free to enjoy what God has created - I Tim. 4:4 |

Limitations

| Respect for others |
| - cultural differences |
| - religious convictions |
| - moral weakness |
| - personal sensitivities |
| Temperance |
| Moderation |
| I Cor. 8:10-13 - “Give no offense to brother” |
| Rom. 14:20; I Cor. 8:12 - “If cause another to sin, we sin” |
| Rom. 14:23 - “whatever is not of faith is sin” |
| Rom. 14:13-23 - Attitudes of other Christians not infallible, but inviolable” |

Extremism

| Libertarianism |
| Libertinism |
| License |
| Pride of liberty |
| - flaunt, show off |
| - shame others for non-participation. |
| Rom. 14:13,21; I Cor. 8:9,13 |
| - Liberty can become stumbling-block. |
| I Pet. 2:16 - “Do not use freedom as covering for evil” |

| Legalism |
| - behavioral and morality codes |
| - prohibitions |
| - “thou shalt; thou shalt not” |

| Judgmentalism |
| - intolerance |
| - rejective |
| “Take offense” at others’ liberty. |

| “Impose guilt of participation and violation of what is deemed unacceptable.” |

---

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christ and the Christian

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>“in Christ”</th>
<th>“Christ in you”</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The Christian is incorporated into, and in union with, the living Lord Jesus</td>
<td>The Spirit of the living Lord Jesus enters into the spirit of receptive believer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Cor. 1:30-“in Christ Jesus”</td>
<td>Rom. 8:16 - “Spirit bears witness with our spirit”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Cor. 5:17 - “in Christ, ... new creature”</td>
<td>Gal. 2:20 - “no longer I, but Christ lives in me.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All that Christ IS attributed to those “in Christ”</td>
<td>Col. 1:27 - “Christ in you, the hope of glory”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- life (Rom. 6:23)</td>
<td>II Cor. 13:5 - “Jesus Christ is in you, unless you believed in vain”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- salvation (II Tim 3:15)</td>
<td>Eph. 3:17 - “Christ dwells in your hearts”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- righteous (Phil. 3:9)</td>
<td>Rom. 8:10,11 - “Christ in you ... dwells in you”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- sanctified (I Cor. 1:2)</td>
<td>Not just indwelling location for personal benefit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- grace (I Cor. 1:4)</td>
<td>- Christ in you as your life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- love (Rom. 8:29)</td>
<td>- Christ in you as love for others</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- liberty (Gal. 2:4)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- God’s will (I Thess 5:18)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- all needs (Phil. 4:19)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- complete (Col. 1:28)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- sp. blessing (Eph 1:3)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- triumph (II Cor. 2:14)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- heavenlies (Eph. 2:6)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Overly objectified detachment and separation of Christ and Christian.
- Legal and forensic attribution of benefits of Christ to believer.
- Such external transfer and legal imputation of Christ to the Christian diminishes the real actualization of Christ in us.

- Overly subjectified immanence and identification of Christ and Christian.
- Monism
- Pantheism
  - inordinate merging or mingling or absorption of Christ and the Christian that fails to preserve distinction.

“I am Jesus Christ in my form”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christ and the Christian - Ontological Union

Spirit-union of Being
- The Christian is joined in a one-spirit union with the Spirit of Christ.
  - I Cor. 6:17 - “he who is joined to the Lord is one spirit with Him.”
  - Gal. 2:20 - “no longer I live, but Christ lives in me”
  - II Pt. 1:4 - “partaker of the divine nature”
  - Col. 3:3,4 - “our life hid with Christ in God. Christ is our life”
  - Eph. 1:3 - “every spiritual blessing in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.”
  - Eph. 2:6 - “seated in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus”

Personal distinction
- Christ and the Christian individual remain distinct personages.
  - Rom. 8:16 - “Spirit bears witness with our spirit, that we’re children of God”
  - Gal. 2:20 - “Christ lives in me ... the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith...”
  - I Jn. 4:12-16 - “God in us”
  - Col. 1:27 - “Christ in you”
  - Rom. 8:11 - Holy Spirit indwells you”

Distinction of “yourself”
- We retain personal individuality and humanity.
  - Rom. 6:11,13; II Tim 2:15

---

Essential union of Christian & Christ
- absorbed, fused, equivalence, monistic merging.
- Christian one with Christ
- Christian deified

Union is lost in “oneness”
- Humanity is depersonalized.
- obliteration, annihilation, displacement, replacement
- “I am no longer human.”
- “I am not; only He is.”

Deistic detachment, separation from God.
- Transcendence; no immanence.
- “God’s up in heaven; I am here on earth.”

Self-deprecating, self-denigrating view of humanity
- “just a sinner saved by grace.”

Double-minded
- schizophrenic concept of dual natures.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Union of doing</th>
<th>Personal distinction</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Grace dynamic of divine activity.</td>
<td>Response-ability:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Jesus is the dynamic of all His demands.</td>
<td>Christians make faith choices of behavior.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Cor. 12:9 - “My grace is sufficient for you”</td>
<td>Jn. 15:5 - “Apart from Me, you can do nothing.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Cor. 9:8 - “God able to make all grace abound”</td>
<td>Phil. 4:13 - I can do all things through Christ.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil. 2:13 - “God is at work in us”</td>
<td>Faith - our receptivity of His activity.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Thess. 5:24 - “He will bring it to pass”</td>
<td>Rom. 1:5 - “obedience of faith”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Cor. 3:5 - “our adequacy is of God”</td>
<td>James 2:12-26 - “faith without works is useless”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Cor. 4:10,11 - “life of Jesus manifested in us”</td>
<td>Rom. 14:23 - “whatever is not of faith is sin”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gal. 5:16,25 - “live / walk by the Spirit”</td>
<td>Phil. 2:12 - “work out your own salvation; God is at work in you.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rom. 15:18 - “Christ accomplished through me”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Inevitable expression of Christ.
- “All that I do is Christ in action.”
- “Christ is the new man in me; Christ cannot sin; I can’t sin.”
- “Do what you will; for what you will is what He wills.”
- “God does not mean for man to have faith; just to be the God expreessor that he is”
- “just go with the flow”

False religious idea of self-generated righteous behavior.
- “God helps those who help themselves.”
- Do your best, and God will do the rest.”

Religious attempts at commitment and dedication to live Christian life
Trying to “be like Jesus.”
- imitation, following His example.
Christian

Perfect
- Spiritual condition
  - derived nature & identity

- Perfect
  - Heb. 10:14 - “perfected those sanctified”
  - Holy - “saints - holy ones”
  - Rom. 1:7 - “called saints”

- Righteous
  - M. Luther - “simul iustus et peccator” - simultaneously justified and sinful.
  - Not just “declared righteous,” but “made righteous”
  - I Cor. 1:30 - “Christ became to us righteousness”

- Spiritual
  - Gal. 6:1 - “you who are spiritual”
  - Godly - II Pt. 2:9

Sinful
- Behavioral patterning in soul and body.

- I John 1:8 - “if we say we have no sin, we are deceiving ourselves and the truth is not in us”

- “Flesh” patterns of selfishness and sinfulness in the desires of our soul.

- Gal. 5:16 - “desires of the flesh”
  - Gal. 5:17 - “flesh sets its desires against Spirit”
  - Eph. 2:3 - “desires of the flesh”
  - II Pt. 2:18 - “fleshly desires”
  - Rom. 7:17,20 - “sin dwells me”

Extremism

- Perfectionism
  - Holiness Movement
  - “Entire Sanctification”
  - Christian is not sinful; has no sin
  - redefine sin as mistakes.

- “Made righteous” thought to mean:
  - inherently and essentially righteous
  - “I am righteous” a se, in myself.

- Holiness
  - Movement

- Made righteous
  - thought to mean:
    - inherently and essentially righteous
    - “I am righteous” a se, in myself.

- Sinful
  - Perpetual sinful depravity of all human beings due to Fall of mankind in Adam.
  - humanity is inherently and essentially sinful
  - depraved, deficient, defective, damned.

- A Christian is just a “sinner saved by grace.”
  - saved by “alien righteousness” of Jesus.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Behavior

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Flesh</th>
<th>Spirit</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>New covenant understanding of “flesh” recognizes the patterning of the desires of the soul into selfish and sinful propensities</td>
<td>The Spirit of Christ dwells within the spirit of every Christian person.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eph. 2:3 - “desires of the flesh”</td>
<td>Rom. 8:9 - “if any one does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Pt. 2:10 - “the flesh with its corrupt desires.”</td>
<td>Rom. 8:16 - “the Spirit bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gal. 5:17 - “the flesh sets its desires against the Spirit”</td>
<td>Gal. 5:17 - “the Spirit sets its desires against the flesh”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

“Flesh” seeks to “act out” in expression of selfish character in our behavior.

- Gal. 5:19-21 - “the deeds of the flesh are immorality, impurity, sensuality, strife, jealousy, anger ...”
- Phil. 1:11 - “fruit of righteousness”

The Spirit desires to express its fruit-character in Christian behavior.

- Gal. 5:22,23 - “fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace ...”

Extremism

- Defeatism  - “Just a sinner, saved by grace”
  - “Just a carnal (fleshly) Christian”
  - “I can’t help but sin, I’m only human.”
  - “It’s just my human nature.”

- Activism  - Attempts to live the Christian life by self-effort.
  - trying to be “like Jesus.”
  - Flesh attempts to imitate Jesus.

- Triumphalism  - “Since the Spirit of Christ lives in me, and He does not sin, I don’t have to worry about sinning.”
  - “Whatever I do is Christ working in me.”

- Perfectionism  - “those of us who are ‘spiritual’ do not have to concern ourselves with the ‘deeds of the flesh.”

Dialectic – Both/And

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Work of Christ in Christian

Dealing with Sin

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Indwelling sinfulness</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- sin indwells - Rm 7:17-20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- not perfect - Phil. 3:12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- confess sins - I Jn. 1:8,9</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Christ as Savior

- Soul action
  - “good that I would, I do not” - Rom. 7:16,19
  - “flesh” patterned desires against Spirit - Gal. 5:17

Process negativa

- “be not conformed to this world” - Rom. 8:2
- Cross - (experiential)
- Repentance
  - “I can’t; only He can”

Victory in Christ

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Indwelling Christ</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- Christ in you - Col. 1:27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- More than conquerors in Christ - Rom. 8:27</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Christ as Lord

- Spirit action
  - “led by the Spirit”
  - Rom. 8:14; Gal. 5:18
  - “Spirit sets its desires against flesh” - Gal. 5:17

Process positiva

- conformed to the image of His Son - Rom. 8:29
- Resurrection life
- All sufficiency in God’s Grace - II Cor. 9:8

Extremism

- Activism
  - “Do your best”
- Moralism
  - “Do-right religion”
- Legalism
  - “Do this, do that”
- Confessionalism
  - “So sorry, Lord”
- Hypocrisy
  - “Carnal Christian”
  - “Two natures” fallacy
- Triumphalism
  - “What I do is what He does”
- Perfectionism
  - “We do not sin”
- Mysticism
  - spiritual knowers
  - “we have arrived”
- Antinomianism
  - freedom pushed to extreme.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
"Inner Man" of Christian

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Spirit</th>
<th>Soul</th>
<th>Extremism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sp. Perfectionism</td>
<td>Spiritual condition</td>
<td>Behavioral function</td>
<td>Sp. Positionalism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Full Sanctification</td>
<td>- Spiritual exchange</td>
<td>- Choosing creatures</td>
<td>- legal declaration of status w/ God</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinlessness</td>
<td>Acts 26:18</td>
<td>- Faith choice</td>
<td>- adjudicated righteousness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eradicationism</td>
<td>- Indwelling Trinity</td>
<td>- Response-ability</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- Indwelling function of</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Father, Son, Holy Spirit</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supersessionism</td>
<td>Spiritually new</td>
<td>Behavioral conflict</td>
<td>Two naturism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- II Cor. 5:17</td>
<td>- Flesh &amp; spirit</td>
<td>- schizophrenia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- New man - Eph. 4:24</td>
<td>- Desire to do good</td>
<td>- paranoid</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>- Sin indwells</td>
<td>- uncertainty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>- Rom. 7:17</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spiritual completeness</td>
<td>Behavioral imperfection</td>
<td>Behavioral inability</td>
<td>Suppressionism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- All sp. blessings - Eph 1:3</td>
<td>- no sufficiency</td>
<td>- trying to suppress sin in order to be righteous</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- All things - I Co. 2:21-23</td>
<td>- can do nothing</td>
<td>Legalism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spiritual union</td>
<td>Behavioral formation</td>
<td>- transformed</td>
<td>Moralism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- I Cor 6:17</td>
<td>- transformed - Rom. 12:2</td>
<td>- conformed - Rom. 8:29</td>
<td>Performance-oriented</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spiritual nature</td>
<td>- transformed</td>
<td>- Christ formed</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- II Pt 1:4</td>
<td>- Gal 4:19</td>
<td>- Gal 4:19</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spiritual sufficiency</td>
<td>Behavioral salvation</td>
<td>Behavioral salvation</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- Grace - II Cor. 9:8</td>
<td>- saved by His life</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- Strength - Eph. 3:16</td>
<td>- Rm. 5:10</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mysticism</td>
<td>Sp. perfection - Phil. 3:15</td>
<td>Renew mind</td>
<td>Supersessionism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mind of Christ - I Co. 2:16</td>
<td>- Rom. 12:2</td>
<td>- I am replaced by Christ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Everything I do is Christ in me&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Libertinism</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Church Growth

Evangelism is inordinately emphasized by some as they seek to:
- build empires
- megachurches
- political powerbases

Church growth techniques:
- programs
- publicity
- fundraising

Numerical, statistical success factors:
- buildings
- budgets
- baptisms

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Quantitative</th>
<th>Qualitative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The Church is always concerned that others are introduced to life and hope in Jesus Christ, and thus added to the community of faith, the Church.</td>
<td>Christian thought begins with the character of the Holy God and is directed toward the manifestation of divine character in the behavior of Christians.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acts 2:41 - “added about three thousand souls”</td>
<td>A major objective of the Church is to explain the dynamic of God’s grace to express the character-“fruit of the Spirit” (Gal. 5:22,23).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acts 5:14 - “multitudes of men and women added”</td>
<td>I Pet. 2:2 - “grow in respect to salvation”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Church is the assembly of Christ-indwelt persons that is difficult to identify and quantify.</td>
<td>II Pet. 3:18 - “grow in the grace and knowledge of Lord Jesus.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Those who profess faith and occupy a pew are not necessarily Christ-ones.</td>
<td>Eph. 1:4 - “be holy”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pietism
- an emphasis on external behavior that often leads people to become “fruit-inspectors” of one another’s behavior.

Some groups of Christians become in-grown, preoccupied with their own “spirituality”
- “faithful few”
- “Holy Club”
- remnant of the loyal
The discipleship process of bringing believers to maturity in Christ will inevitably involve the didactic instruction of doctrinal information.

The Didache, a late 1st or early 2nd century Christian document, was an early catechismal teaching or discipleship manual.

Knowledge, even Christian knowledge can foster arrogance (cf. I Cor. 8:1)

Christianity is not intended to be a mere “believe-right” religion.

The relationality of the Triune Father, Son and Holy Spirit necessitates that we introduce Christians to an intimate relationality with God and with other Christians in the Church.

It seems best to meet a fellow believer where they are in life, and allow their questions to direct the relation and conversation.

- introducing them to the personal relationality of prayer, worship, and devotional life.
- encouraging them in the “one another” emphases of scripture.

Relationality can become a fuzzy, feel-good comradery that fails to maintain any content or direction in building “disciple” of the living Lord Jesus.

It is possible to so emphasize the relationality of Christian “community” and fellowship that basic Christian instruction is neglected.

Some regard the Church to be primarily an educational institution for the transmission of Christian information.

Knowledge, even Christian knowledge can foster arrogance (cf. I Cor. 8:1)

Christianity is not intended to be a mere “believe-right” religion.

Discipleship

Instructional

Relational

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Mission of the Church

Truth

Christocentric Truth
Jn. 14:6 - “I AM ... Truth”

The “truth of the gospel”
- Gal. 2:5,14; Eph. 1:13; Col. 1:5
- gospel, euangellion, “good news”

Content of gospel

Love

Christocentric Love
I Jn. 4:8,16 - “God is love”

Loving relational fellowship of Christian people should be attractive to those in rejective fallen world.

Compassion for people

“They’ll know we are Christians by our love”

Jesus Christ is present in every Christian for the purpose of expressing His LOVE to OTHERS.

“Isn’t it nice to be nice to nice people?”

Evangelism
- popularly perceived as proceduralized techniques, formulas for sharing basic content of gospel.
- 4 spiritual laws

Ideological data transmission
- didacticism
- fundamentalism
- catechism

Conservatism
- believe-right religion.
- epistemology

Socialism
Communalism
- all-inclusive loving community
- “all are welcome
- “it doesn’t matter what you believe,”
- “we love all”

Relativism
- “everyone allowed to have their own truth”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Psychological</th>
<th>Spiritual</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Identity often based on physical criteria:</td>
<td>Internal and invisible sense of identity based on spiritual identification at the very core of our human being.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- photographs</td>
<td>- either God or Satan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- fingerprints</td>
<td>I Jn. 3:10 -“children of God, children of devil obvious”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- eye mapping</td>
<td>Spiritual identity is determined by our spiritual union with spirit-being, and thus a derived spiritual nature.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Personal sense of identity often based on:</td>
<td>Derived spiritual identity.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- physical characteristics and abilities;</td>
<td>The basis of who I am is who He is!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- beauty, intelligence,</td>
<td>Christian identity is not based on fleshly tendencies in one’s soul</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- personality, athletic</td>
<td>We are not just “sinners saved by grace.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- athletic prowess, sexual prowess,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- musical ability, vocational career</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materialism</td>
<td>Abstractionism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• physical possessions;</td>
<td>Spiritual pride</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- houses, cars, portfolios, clothing, furniture</td>
<td>Perfectionism.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Associationism</td>
<td>Blasphemy of claiming to be who He alone is.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• personal associations;</td>
<td>- “I am Jesus Christ...”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- sororities, fraternities, social organizations, church attended</td>
<td>- “I am the Holy Spirit...”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Religionism</td>
<td>Extremism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>©2014 by James A. Fowler</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Freedom FROM TO

FROM
- Freedom from sin  - Rom. 6:7,18,22; 8:2
- Freedom from “flesh”  - Gal. 5:17
- Freedom from Law  - Rom. 7:3; 8:2,3; Gal. 5:1-13
- Freedom from Death  - Rom. 8:2; Heb. 2:15
- Freedom from Religion  - Col. 2:20-23
- Free from guilt
- Free from fear
- Free from “trying to live the Christian life”
- Free from correctness
- Free from living by other’s expectation
- Free from habituated behavior patterns

TO
- Free to “live by the Spirit”  - Rom. 8:2
- Free to manifest “fruit of the Spirit”  - Gal. 5:22,23
- Free to live in context of eternity  - Phil. 3:20
- Free to live in hope  - Col. 1:27
- Free to glorify God  - I Cor. 10:20
- Free to doubt
- Free to rest/relax
- Free to live spontaneously
- Free to be your unique and different self
- Free to live without demanding any “rights”
- Free to be alone - with God
- Free to live for others

Extremism
- License
- Libertinism
- Libertarianism
- Antinomianism
- Sinlessness
- Anti-religionism

Spiritualism
- Spiritualism
- Futurism
- Escapism
- Skepticism
- Lethargy
- Individualism
- Monasticism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Holiness

Spiritual Condition

When the “Holy One,” Jesus Christ (Acts 3:14; 7:52; 13:35), by the Spirit, indwells the spirit of a receptive individual, that person has a spiritual condition of holiness and is identified as a “holy one,” saint.

Eph. 1:4 - “holy and blameless before Him”
Col. 3:12 - “holy and beloved”
Eph. 4:24 - “new self ... created in righteousness and holiness of the truth”
Eph. 5:27 - “church ... holy and blameless”
Heb. 3:1 - “holy brethren”
I Pet. 2:9 - “holy nation”

Behavioral Expression

The indwelling presence of the Holy One is intended to progressively manifest His holy character in the behavior of His holy people.

I Pet. 1:16 - “be holy,...for I am holy”
II Cor. 1:12 -”in holiness and godly sincerity we have conducted ourselves.
II Cor. 7:1 - “perfecting holiness in the fear of God”
II Pt. 3:11 - “holy conduct and godliness”
Heb. 12:10 - “that we might share in His holiness”
Heb. 12:14 -“holiness without which no man shall see the Lord”

Pietistic holiness - conformity to behavioral, clothing, worship patterns deemed to be “holy”

External holiness expressions do not create or constitute internal spiritual condition of holiness.

Christian holiness (condition and expression) is always derived holiness.

©2014 by James A. Fowler

Derived spiritual condition of saint or “holy one” does not imply essential holiness of character.

“God is holy” essentially holy a se, in Himself, but a Christian identified as a “holy one” is not essentially holy, but derives holy condition and expression from the holy character of God.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Many imperatives calling on Christians to “love” in new covenant.
- “love one another”
  (Jn. 13:34,35; 15:12,17; Rom. 13:8)
- “love neighbor”
  (Matt 22:39; Mk 12:31)
- “love enemies”
  (Matt. 5:44; Lk 6:27,35)
- “love wives”
  (Eph. 5:25,28; Col. 3:19)
- “love husbands”
  (Titus 2:4)
I Jn 4:12 - “if we love one another, God abides in us, and His love is perfected in us.”

I Jn. 4:8,16 - “God is love”
- this is the indicative on which all imperatives for personal love action is predicated.

Divine agape love can only be expressed in human behavior as it is spiritually derived from God.

Rom. 5:5 - “the love of God poured out in our hearts by Holy Spirit given to us.
I Jn. 4:8 - “the one who does not love does not know God.”
I Jn. 4:20 - “the one who does not love his brother whom he has seen, cannot love God whom he has not seen.”
Sexuality

External Act

- "Sex" from Lat. sexus - "to divide."
- Gen. 1:27 - "male & female He created them"
- Gen. 1:28 - "be fruitful and multiply"
- Gen. 2:25 - "naked and not ashamed"
- Gen. 2:24 - "be one flesh"

Internal Perspective

- Psychological –
  - mental thought life is important component of human sexuality.
  - emotional feelings are present in sexual acts
  - volitional choices of sexual involvement.
- Spiritual –
  - God created sexuality and sustains its beauty.
  - Gal. 3:28 - "male & female, one in Christ Jesus"
  - I Pt. 1:7 - "fellow heirs of grace of life"

Sexual Immorality

- fornication
- adultery
- promiscuity
- prostitution
- rape, incest
- voyeurism
- sadism
- sexual abuse
- polygamy
- persons used as sex objects

Extremism

- Perfunctory sex
- Mechanical sex
- Casual sex
- Focus on sexual performance or frequency.

Sexual Addiction, Obsession, Compulsion

- lust, fantasizing
- sexual fetishes

Pornography

- visual images used as substitute for physical act, or as virtual reality/vicarious experience.

Religious Deification of Sexual Actions

- Aphrodite
- Venus
Marriage

Union

Gen. 2:24 - “they become one flesh”
Mal. 2:15 - “God made one
Matt. 19:6 - “what God has joined, let no man part asunder”
Two become one in spirit, soul and body.
Spiritual union - I Cor. 7:39
I Pet. 3:7
Covenant union - Mal. 2:14
Prov. 2:17
Legal union - divinely ordained institution
Love union - seeks highest good of the other
Relational union - mutual interdependence
Physical, sexual union - Heb. 13:4 - marriage bed

Distinction

Unique personalities of husband and wife. They remain individuals, not lesser or superior to other.
Marriage designed for complementarity.
Love requires “other” to be love.
Interactive communication of ideas, values, interests.
- marital love involves enjoying the differences.
- working through situations in harmony and reconciliation.
Maintaining distinction requires respect of the other’s ideas and interests in transparency, honesty and integrity.

• Essential Union
  Union of partners pushed to point of fusion, absorption, or “couplism”
  - separate identity disallowed.
  Other partner regarded as “my life.”
  One regarded as extension of other.

• Authoritarianism
  Ownership or controlling of the other.
  Disallowing of differences.

Individualism
- selfish pursuits
Gender wars
- male chauvinism
- feminist agenda
Competition
Role-playing
Detachment
- co-habitants
- separation and divorce
Hidden secrets
- deceit, manipulation, addiction, false accusations, sexual liaisons
Selfishness
- narcissism
- self-gratification

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Divine Order
- Respect for God’s design
- Divine institution of marriage has order.
- Matt. 19:5,6 - “leave father and mother, joined to wife as one flesh”
- Eph. 5:22,25 - “wives be subject to husbands; husbands love your wives.
- Col. 3:18 - “wives be subject to your husbands.”
- I Pet. 3:1 - “wives be submissive to own husbands”
- Christ in you as husband.
- Christ in you as wife.

Mutual Deference
- Respect for spouse
- Love, honor, esteem allows one to trust & yield to other, not demanding our own agenda and interests.
- Eph. 5:21 - “have deference for one another”
- Phil. 2:3,4 - “Do nothing from selfishness ... regard the other as more important than yourselves; ..”
- Love seeks highest good of the other, willing to limit my freedom to grant freedom to the other. Free...
- ..from performance ..to have opinions, interests ..to develop personality ..to follow dreams

Hierarchialism
- Husband not to be a dictator, boss
- Wife not to be subservient slave.

Control issues
- in marriages.
- Demand for submission evidences inequality.
- No excuse for rudeness, selfishness, intimidation, fear
- Biblical statements regarded as rules or role-playing.

Mutual Deference
- Respect for spouse
- Love, honor, esteem allows one to trust & yield to other, not demanding our own agenda and interests.
- Eph. 5:21 - “have deference for one another”
- Phil. 2:3,4 - “Do nothing from selfishness ... regard the other as more important than yourselves; ..”
- Love seeks highest good of the other, willing to limit my freedom to grant freedom to the other. Free...
- ..from performance ..to have opinions, interests ..to develop personality ..to follow dreams

Egalitarianism
- Libertarianism
- Laissez faire - indifference - dispassionate - “whatever!” - ”who gives a damn?”

When a couple is overly deferential it produces disordered interpersonal relationship, with frustration and resentment.
Marriage

Work

Marriage takes more than love – it takes hard work!
Love is always active.
Marriage is responsibility.

Imperatives of marriage:
- “love your wives” - Eph. 5:25,28; Col. 3:19; I Pt 3:7
- love husbands” Tit. 2:4
- “wives submit to husbands” - Eph. 5:24; Col. 3:18,19; I Pet. 3:1
- respect hsb. Eph 5:33

Love is not something we can generate and enact.
Decision of faith to allow love to function in us

Role of husband - head
Role of wife - subservient

Grace

You cannot make your marriage work!
Marriage is impossible by our best self-effort.

Indicative of resource and provision for marriage:
- The grace-dynamic of the living Lord Jesus Christ
  Gal 5:22,23 - Fruit of the Spirit

Love is the character of the Triune God.
“God is love” - I Jn. 4:8,16
“love of Christ controls us”
- II Cor. 5:14
“faith thru love” - Gal 5:6

Christ in you as husband.
Christ in you as wife.

Legalism
- “God’s rules for a happy marriage”
- “live by the Book and you will please God.”

Absolutism of thinking that one has marriage all figured out.
- “Religion has destroyed more marriages than it has helped.”

Hypocrisy of thinking marriage is accomplishment
- “marriage is what you make it”

Defeatism
“If you can’t make it work, leave it and try another.

Abstractionism
- Can’t get a handle on grace”

Relativism
- Traffic on grace, by turning the provision of grace into narcissistic selfishness.

Passivism
- “Just go with the flow of grace”
Social Unit

- Family is a divinely instituted microcosm of social community.
- Relational function of family based on Triune inter-relations of love.
- Biblical model of family:
  - Husband, wife, children
  - Eph 5:24-33 - “husbands/wives (Col. 3:18,19)
  - Eph. 6:1-4 - “children/parents” (Col. 3:20,21)
  - Exod 20:12 - “honor your father and mother”

Individuals

- A family is comprised of individuals with differing ages, genders, and personalities.
- Each individual has unique “way he should go” (Prov. 22:6).
- Individuals must learn to relate to others in love and deference, with respect, honor and obedience for God-ordained authority.
- Such relations should not take advantage of others in ways that provoke, exasperate, or lead to “disputes, dissensions, or outbursts of anger” (Gal. 5:20).
- Relationship of individuals supersedes authority.

Deification of family relationships and loyalty.

- Authority structures often become the primary format and dynamic of family interactions.
- Often leads to abuse of authority

Individualism
- “I don’t need others to be who I am!”

Absence of any sense of family loyalty.

Excessive emphasis on personal independence.

Undue emphasis on personal “rights” or privileges.

---

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Counseling

Behavioral Advice

Instruction and suggestion for regulation of human behavior.

Such “counsel” includes:
- moral advice
- psychological principles
- biblical principles and imperatives (though often disconnected from indicatives of God's provision).
- “how-tos” - avoid temptation, pray, read bible, personal examples; sharing what has happened in one’s own life

Rom. 15:14 - “competent to counsel” (Jay Adams)
- nouthetic counseling
- cognitive counseling
- behavioral counseling

Spirit-counsel

The Spirit of Christ is the ultimate counselor:
Isa. 9:6 - “Counselor…”
I Cor. 3:18 - “the Lord, the Spirit.
I Cor. 15:45 - “last Adam, life-giving Spirit”

The pneumatic Christ is the Spirit-counselor.

Spirit-counsel is sharing Christ in a way that another person can personally relate the living indwelling Christ to their situations of life.

Eph. 1:11 - “the counsel of His will”

Psychologism
- unending stream of theories of how to live in one’s own strength
- psycho-therapy

Humanism
Behaviorism
- advocacy of self-effort techniques for self-regulation of one’s behavior.

Job’s counselors:
Job 26:3,4;
Job 38:2;
Job 42:9

Spiritualism
“spirituo-therapy”
- principles and procedures of how the Spirit allegedly works in various situations.

Some who think they have “gift of counseling,” are just trying to “play Holy Spirit” in the lives of others.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Forgiveness

Divine Source

Triune God is the relational source of all genuine forgiveness:
- Only God can forgive the wrongdoing that is contrary to His character
- His forgiveness based on His character of LOVE revealed in the incarnation and death of His Son

Divine forgiveness of sin is received by faith.
A Christ-one (Christian) has received Jesus, the eternal Forgiver to dwell within and be the Life-expression in him/her.
It is incongruous that a Christian should say, “I just can’t forgive myself.”

Human Conduit

The relational forgiveness of others who might have wronged us is predicated on receiving God’s forgiveness.
The indwelling presence of the Divine Forgiver provides the Christian with everything necessary to forgive others.
The Christian becomes the conduit of God’s divine forgiveness, allowing such forgiveness to flow to others despite how we might have been wronged, and without any residual resentment or bitterness.

Unforgiveness has consequences - Ps. 132:1-4

Non-acceptance of God’s forgiveness expressed by us places the onus on the one who has thus “taken offense.”

Failure to recognize the indwelling presence of the Divine Forgiver in the Christian casts the believer into increased religious self-effort to muster up a forgiving attitude

Claiming inability of natural forgiveness, saying, “Only God can forgive,” can be an avoidance of responsibility.
- unwilling to be the conduit of relational forgiveness.
The Church is the society of the forgiven, but must not be a cluster of “forgiven sinners” longing for heaven and failing to express forgiveness.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Giving

Proportional

Tangible assets are given:
I Cor 16:2 - “as God has prospered.”
II Cor 8:11,12 - “according to what we have”
God not interested in our tangible gifts until we first give ourselves to Him - II Cor 8:5
Then we respond to the overflow of God’s abundance:
Eph 2:7 - “riches of grace”
II Cor 8:7 - “abound in everything”
“If given much, much required” - Lk. 12:48
Purposed and planned calculation of tangible giving.

Personal

Divine Giver (Father, Son, and Holy Spirit) lives in the Christian.
Intangible assets of God’s grace via Jesus Christ.
- James 1:17 - “every good gift is from above.”
- Rom. 8:32 - “freely gives us all things”
God’s grace expressed in our givingness - II Cor 8:1
Freedom of choice to give
II Cor 8:3 - “our accord”
II Cor 9:7 - “as they purposed in their hearts”
“God loves a cheerful/satisfied giver” (II Cor 9:7)
By obedience we “listen under” God’s direction to determine what/to whom He would have us to give.

Legalism
II Cor. 9:7 - under comulsion
Legislated and mandated percentages - tithing
Ecclesiasticism
Hitting people up for contributions for projects.
Christian giving is NOT:
- guilt-motivated
- need-actuated
- manipulated
- to repay God
- giving beyond our means
- for prosperity
- for glory of man
- for tax purposes

Idealism
- many pragmatic realists cannot conceive that giving by the grace-prompting of God’s Spirit will ever adequately finance the Church and what God might want to do in today’s world.

“Just pie in the sky bye and bye”
Obedience

Keeping commands
Particularly in the old covenant (Old Testament) obedience was conceptualized in terms of keeping the rules and regulations of the Mosaic Law:
- Deut. 27:10 - “obey God and do His commands”
- Judges 3:4 - “obey the commandments…”

New Covenant advocates respect for authority:
I Pt. 2:13 - “submit to every human institution … one in authority.
Heb. 13:7 - “obey leaders”
I Pt. 3:6 - “Sarah obeyed Abraham”
Eph. 6:1 - “obey parents”

Listening to God
The new covenant (New Testament) concept of obedience is based on the Greek hupakouo meaning “to listen under.”
- relational koinonia with Triune God.
- listen under God’s voice to ascertain His direction of what He desires to do and be in our lives.

Obedience of faith (Rom. 1:5; 16:26)
- listening under God, the Christian responds with receptivity to His activity.
I Pt. 1:2 - “to obey Jesus Christ”
Acts 5:29 - “obey God rather than man”

Legalism
- when obedience is conceived only as command-ment-keeping, it will inevitably be performance-based self-effort to keep religious or social laws.

Unquestioned obedience to authority allows tyranny to thrive.

Passivism
- to listen with no intent to respond to what one is told is but an exercise in futility.

The familiar hymn advocates that we “Trust and Obey” - to affirm one’s trust in God’s love and faithfulness without consequent obedient listening is hypocrisy.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Cross of Christ

Historical Event

Heinous travesty of justice when Jewish religious leaders and the Roman authorities acted in concert to orchestrate the murderous execution of an innocent individual. (cf. Acts 4:27; Objective - external, outside of ourselves.

- I Cor. 15:3 - “Christ died for our sins”
- Rom. 5:8 - “while yet sinners, Christ died for us”
- I Cor. 1:23 - “we preach Christ crucified”
- I Cor. 1:28 - “crucified the Lord of glory”
- I Pt 3:18 - “Christ died for sins once for all”

Personal Implications

More than just a parochial execution, the death of Jesus on a Roman cross was God’s means to overcome spiritual death and effect the death of the “old man” in those individuals who receive Jesus’ life. Subjective - internal, inside of ourselves.

- Rom. 6:2 - “died to sin”
- Rom. 6:6 - “old man has been crucified with Christ”
- Gal. 2:20 - “I have been crucified with Christ...”
- Col. 2:20 - “you have died with Christ”
- II Tim. 2:11 - “if we died with Him, we also shall live with Him”

Dialectic – Both/And

- Historicism
  - Evangelical Christianity has often emphasize the objective historical event to the neglect of the subjective personal and experiential implications.
  - View Christianity - as historical society  - as theological society

- Experientialism
  - Although mortification of our sinful behaviors is part of Christian life, this is to be work of Spirit, not self-effort.

- Crucifixionism
  - Some Christians emphasize “dying to self” or self-crucifixion as a self-effort performance requirement of the Christian life.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Historicism</th>
<th>The Christian faith is more than just an historical society to remember the events of Jesus’ life.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Theologism</td>
<td>The Christian faith is more than just a theological society to provide accurate explanation of those events.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Event

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Information</th>
<th>Historical events are necessarily static.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Individual physical Christ Jesus was put to death on the cross, and on the third day was raised from the dead.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Transformation</th>
<th>Risen and living Lord Jesus is dynamic.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Risen Lord Jesus continues to live as the pneumatic Christ who raises spiritually dead individuals to newness of life.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Information</th>
<th>John 20:1 - “stone rolled away from the tomb.”</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Lk. 24:12 - “Peter saw the linen wrappings”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I Cor. 15:4 - “He was raised on the third day...”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I Cor. 15:14 - “If Christ not raised, preaching/faith is vain.”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Transformation</th>
<th>Rom. 6:4 - ”newness of life”</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Phil. 3:10 - “know the power of the resurrection”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Rom. 1:4 - “Son of God w/ power by resurrection.”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I Cor. 15:45 - “last Adam became life-giving Spirit”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I Pt 1:3 - “born again... through the resurrection”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Dynamic

- Risen and living Lord Jesus is dynamic.
- Risen Lord Jesus continues to live as the pneumatic Christ who raises spiritually dead individuals to newness of life.

Experientialism

The assertion of experiential and spiritual newness of life, apart from the historical grounding of Jesus’ physical resurrection becomes unproven experientialism.

Esotericism

Spiritualism

Mysticism
Prayer

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verbal</th>
<th>Nonverbal</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Communication</td>
<td>Communion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“when you pray, say ....” (Lk. 11:2)</td>
<td>“having ears to hear what the Spirit is saying...” (Rev. 2,3)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Ask, and you will receive” (Jn. 16:24)</td>
<td>“Spirit intercedes with groanings too deep for words” (Rom. 8:26)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Spirit gave utterance” (Acts 2:4)</td>
<td>In the Garden - “tells me I am His own”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>audible / inaudible</th>
<th>The heart’s true home</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>spoken / unspoken</td>
<td>- comfort in closeness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vocal / non-vocal</td>
<td>- personal connection</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>oral / silent</td>
<td>- the joy of union</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>public / private</td>
<td>- going with flow of God’s grace.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>planned / spontaneous</td>
<td>- inner affirmation</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Prayer that uses the conventions of grammar and the language the pray-er is familiar with.

| Ritualism | Internal, subjective praying can become individualized and detached from the community of the saints, the Church. |
| Legalism | Mysticism |
| Liturgism | Asceticism |

The language of prayer must not degenerate into just “words, words, words.”

Internal, subjective praying can become individualized and detached from the community of the saints, the Church.

Mysticism

- Asceticism
- Quietism
- Subjectivism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Prewritten</th>
<th>Conversational</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Reading of prewritten prayers, perhaps from Prayer Book or Book of Common Worship.</td>
<td>Spontaneity of unrehearsed conversational prayer with God - either private or public prayer.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mechanical - planned and organized recitation and repetition of prewritten prayers can be legitimate means to the end of communing with God, but must not be allowed to be an end in themselves.</td>
<td>Relational - prayer is the privilege of the Christian to commune and fellowship in koinonia with the Triune God - as “partakers (koinoioi) of the divine nature” (II Pt. 1:4), we share in the koinonia of the Triune God, and converse with Father, Son and Spirit.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meaningless repetition - Matt. 6:7 - “when you pray...do not use meaningless repetition”</td>
<td>Such spontaneous conversation may be in simple words or complex ideas.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Some people have become so dependent on prewritten prayers that they have not developed a personal relationship with the Triune God.

Meaningless repetition of repeating prescribed prayers can become as much a ritual as the Buddhist “prayer wheel.”

Spontaneity of conversation should not be interpreted as unorganized and thoughtless prayer.

Conversational prayer can also be repetitious, as some use the same words over and over.
Prayer

Is prayer of any benefit to the God who hears it?
- doesn’t need anything
- knows all in advance

As personal, relational Being does He take pleasure in relationship with human beings? Undoubtedly!

Phil. 4:6 - “in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God.”

How does prayer benefit the pray-er?

The mystery of conversing with the Infinite God seems to restructure our thinking to see from His perspective.

There is “something understood” in the depths of our being, even if we are unaware of what God is saying or doing in us.

This may involve awareness of fleshly tendencies and self-denial of such.

We are listening in the “obedience of faith”

©2014 by James A. Fowler

Some have suggested that there is a divine “law of prayer” that inevitably works when the proper procedures are utilized.

Such a mechanical process of prayer reduces relational factor of prayer.

Prayer does not push God’s buttons to get Him to act on our behalf.

It has been suggested that prayer is just a psychological process of auto-suggestion, whereby we hype ourselves into thinking that we know God and what He seeks to do in our lives.

- just wishful thinking that we are connecting with some One beyond ourselves.
Prayer

Purposeful

Jesus gave His disciples a basic model for purposed prayer.
Matt. 6:9 - “Our Father, who art in heaven...”
Purposed procedures can be beneficial
- time (Quiet Time)
- place (Prayer Chamber)
- written list (Prayer List)
of person, situations one wants to remember.
I Tim. 2:1 - “I urge enter- tainies and prayers...be made on behalf of all men”
Liturgical prayers of the Church
- Prayer Book
- Public worship services
- Prayer partners

Spontaneous

One’s heart is caught by surprise in act of prayer.
- driving, reading, working
Lk. 24:32 - “our hearts burned within us”
Times when our inner being senses a closeness and oneness with God.
- transcends intellectual and verbal communication.
- spontaneous pulse of awe, reverence, worship
- Our “spirit-union” (I Cor. 6:17) prompts communion with Triune God.
This can become “prayer without ceasing” (I Thess. 5:17)
This has been called “the prayer of the heart”

©2014 by James A. Fowler

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

Proceduralism
Techniquism
- standardizing prayer into preset formulas.
Legalism of scheduling a “time of prayer”
- guilt for not spending enough time in prayer.
Liturgism
Ritualism
- unthinking repetition of merely “saying prayers.”

Spontaneity of prayer must not become an excuse for neglecting purposeful individual prayer and church involvement in prayer.

Individuated spontaneity of prayer has been touted as a form of elitist spirituality.
Christian Security

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Psychological</th>
<th>Christological</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Subjectivity</td>
<td>Objectivity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Inner assurance</td>
<td>- Security of relationship based beyond oneself in the Divine Person of Jesus Christ.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Jn 5:12 - “you may know, and have confidence”</td>
<td>- based on the dynamic eternality and permanence of the very Being of the Triune God.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II Tim. 1:12 - “I know ... and am convinced”</td>
<td>Faithfulness of God in Christ by the Spirit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rom. 8:16 - Spirit bears witness with my spirit”</td>
<td>- Jn. 6:37 - “not cast out”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Procedural basis:</td>
<td>- Jn. 10:38 - “no one can snatch them out...”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- secure that I have engaged in the right actions:</td>
<td>- Heb. 13:5 - “I will never desert you or forsake you”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- walked the aisle</td>
<td>- I Cor. 1:8 - “confirm you to the end”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- repeated the creed</td>
<td>- I Pt. 1:5 - “protected by the power of God”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- signed church covenant</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Epistemological basis:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- secure that I have believed and assented to the right/correct tenets of Christian faith.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Mental and emotional criteria for awareness of secure relationship:
  - “burning bosom”
  - “inner tickle”
  - “know that I know”
  - “It’s in my pocket and it can’t get out”
  - “I believe in ‘once saved, always saved’.”

- Personal uncertainty of relationship with God.

- Denial that subjective feelings have anything to do with relationship with Christ.

- Assertion that personal faithfulness has nothing to do with relationship with Christ.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Worship

Public Worship

- Liturgical worship
  - in accord with the church calendar
  - in accord with the specified prayer book
- Regular and periodic scheduling of assembly for the worship of the saints.
- Collective, planned program of worship.

Jesus Christ is our High Priest and minister in the sanctuary - Heb. 8:1,2; 9:11

Risen and living Lord Jesus is the subject and the object of Christian worship.

Objective: “to the praise of the glory of His grace” (Eph. 1:6)

Private Worship

- Lifestyle worship
  - constant and spontaneous expression of worship by Christian individuals.
  - unique expression in individual Christians
- Expresses the worth-ship of the divine Being and character in the behavior of a Christian person.

Every act of the Christian life is to be an act of worship.

- actuated by God’s grace
- faithful receptivity of God’s activity.

Christian worship must be Christ in action in us.

“Worship Him in Spirit and in truth” (Jn. 4:24)

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Ritualism</th>
<th>Liturgism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- specified procedures performed by priests.</td>
<td>- Clericalism</td>
<td>- Programmed proceduralism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Worship occurs only at a specific time and place.</td>
<td>- church building</td>
<td>- 11 am Sunday morning.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collective experience of entertainment or excitement.</td>
<td>- Experientialism</td>
<td>- “Happy, clappy” worship services</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Asceticism</th>
<th>Monasticism</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- “do it yourself” worship.</td>
<td>Anthropocentric worship wherein the “blessing” of the worshipper is the objective.</td>
<td>Behaviorism - quality of worship determined by our outcomes.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Sharing Christ

Teaching

Instructing others about the “facts” of the history and meaning of the life of Jesus Christ.

The didactic teaching of the Church has historically been the recitation of the collectively accepted theological doctrine and dogma as expressed in the creeds.

The primary source of the Church’s teaching has been the Biblical record of “revealed truth.” This instruction has often been theoretical data.

Testimony

Sharing how God has worked the life of Jesus into one’s life.

- experiential
- personal

Allowing the indwelling life of Jesus to overflow into the lives of others.

Must allow every person who shares, testifies, witnesses of Jesus to proclaim what he/she has come to know experientially and subjectively.

Soren Kierkegaard - “Truth is subjectivity.”

---

Believing that the Christian faith is primarily an epistemological “belief-system,” the Church has viewed itself as an educational institution, requiring catechetical instruction in the creedal data.

Content of Christian doctrine without experience of the living Jesus is but sterile information.

Subjectivism
Experientialism

Some, like Rudolph Bultmann, have indicated that the historical events of Christianity and the creedal statements of Christian faith are secondary (even irrelevant), for one’s personal experience is the only “truth” that is important.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Ministry

Particular
- Christian ministry in the context of the Church requires ministerial leadership.
  - “Jesus appointed twelve” (Mk. 3:14,16)
  - “Lord appointed seventy others” (Lk. 10:1)
  - “appointed elders in every church” (Acts 14:23)
  - “I was appointed preacher, teacher, ...” (II Tim 1:11)
  - “fulfill your ministry” (II Tim. 4:5)
- Leaders need to be theologically educated, and vocationally trained.
  - “Ministry of the word” (Acts 6:4)

Inclusive
- Christian ministry in the context of the Church involves participation of every believer.
  - Priesthood of all believers - (I Peter 2:5,9)
  - Ministry of all believers - (Eph. 4:12 - “equipping of the saints for the work of ministry”)
  - “God appointed in the church, apostles, prophets, teachers, ...” (I Cor. 12:28)
- Every Christian has been spiritually gifted to function in the church in the ministry of Jesus.
  - Ministry is the overflow of the life of Jesus to others.
    - “Serve one another” (Gal. 5:13)

---

Ecclesiasticism
- attempt to operate the Church like an organization with a “business model.”

Professionalism
- Pride of position and power.
  - Attempting to operate the Church like an organization with a “business model.”
  - Pride of position and power.

---

Extremism

Dialectic – Both/And

Individualism
- Temperamentalism
  - Pride of position and power.

---

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Some have claimed a self-determined spiritual giftedness of pastoring. Determination of such giftedness should be made in the collective of the church.

Claims to pastoral giftedness without ancillary of pastoral training has led to much confusion and misrepresentation.

Pastor

Spiritual Giftedness

The word “pastor” in the New Testament is Greek word for “shepherd” (poimen)

Eph. 4:11 - “God gave some as pastors and teachers”

God gifts some individuals with spiritual wisdom and ability to shepherd the flock of God’s people, the Church.

A pastor is but an under-shepherd of the “Great Shepherd,” Jesus Christ (cf. Heb. 13:20)

I Pet. 2:25 - “Shepherd and Guardian of our souls”

Jn. 10:2-16-Good Shepherd

Responsibility to “equip the saints” (Eph. 4:12) and “care for saints” (Acts 20)

Position in Church

As the church developed organizationally into a hierarchical institution, pastoral position became prominent in local church

- identified as parson, preacher, padre, priest, minister, reverend, clergy

Questions of:

- pastoral responsibility?
- preach, counsel, administrate, worship leader
- pastoral accountability?
- local church (employee?) denomination, God
- pastoral authority?

Is pastor authority over local church?

I Pet. 5:3 - “not lording it over those allotted to your charge ....”

Contemporary pastoral position has often become

- ecclesiastical office
- professional career
- vocational aspiration

Clericalism and distinct clergy/lay separation. Required theological and administrative training, often with little or no emphasis on spiritual maturity.
Healing

God created our physical bodies and can certainly heal the ailments of the human body if He so wills. Supernatural physical healing was a sign that God was working in Jesus and His followers.

Matt. 9:35 - “Jesus healing every kind of disease ... sickness”

God is a healing and restoring God, and continues to heal in every age.

- “gifts of healing” (I Cor. 12:9,28,30)

Such divine healing does not preclude natural medical processes of healing.

Mk. 2:7 - “the sick have need of a physician.”

Christians expect the eventual total, eternal well-being of the entire person in the heavenly realm.

Rev. 21:4 - “He will wipe away every tear from their eyes; and there will no longer be any death; there will no longer be any mourning, or crying, or pain...”

In this sense it can be said that physical death can be viewed as the ultimate healing of an individual.

- avoidance of physical death is not a Christian aspiration.

Phil. 1:23 - “desire to depart and be with Christ, for that is far better”

Some Christians believe that the supernatural sign gifts were only for the apostolic period, and that after the New Testament period supernatural physical healing is not to be expected.

Some have argued that the whole person is healed in regeneration, and all physical ailments are just an illusion.
The Church has often been elevated by the faithful to a place of being beyond criticism. Basing their opinions on I Sam. 26:9-23, church leaders have often avoided critique for being “the Lord’s anointed.”

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Perfection</th>
<th>Perversion</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

The Christian Church is not essentially and intrinsically perfect in character, as only God is.

The Church has, however, evidenced perfection in the Greek sense of teleiosis, i.e. functioning in accord with the end and objective for which it was instituted by God.

Such “perfection” is evidenced when the “Body of Christ,” the Church allows for the individual and collective expression of the life and character of the living Lord Jesus.

The history of the Christian Church reveals that the Church has often failed to function as intended by God, and has often misrepresented Christ in sinful perversion and corruption.

Ecclesiastical perversions include, but not limited to:
- inquisitions, crusades
- witch hunts
- financial extortion
- indulgences
- pastoral immorality
- pedophilia
- excommunication abuse
- papal power-plays
- child/elder abuse

Ecclesiastical perversion often goes unchecked when a policy of “separation of church and state” forestalls legal accountability for otherwise illegal activities.

Also when ecclesiastical authorities protect their own and do not hold them accountable for moral turpitude.
The Christian and the World

In the world

Jn. 17:11 - “they themselves are in the world”
Jn. 17:18 - “As You sent Me into the world, I also have sent them into the world.
Jn. 17:17 - “I do not ask You to take them out of the world, but to keep them from the evil one.”

Matt. 5:13 - “you are the salt of the earth”
Matt. 5:14 - “you are the light of the world”
Matt. 13:33 - “the kingdom of heaven is like leaven”
(\textit{cf. Lk. 13:21})
Acts 1:8 - “you shall be My witnesses to the remotest part of the earth”

Not of the world

Jn. 17:14 - “they (disciples of Jesus) are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.
Jn. 17:16 - They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.
Jn. 18:36 - “my kingdom is not of this world”

II Cor. 6:14 - “Do not be bound together with unbelievers; ...”
II Cor. 6:17 - “come out from their midst and be separate”
I Pet. 2:11 - “strangers and aliens”
Heb. 11:13 - “citizens of heaven”
\textit{Ecclesia} - “called out”

Extremism

Accommodationism
Adaptationism
Capitulation
Compromise
Acquiescence
 Appeasement
Synthesize
Submergionism

Adopting the methods and techniques of the world.
Attempts to change, reform, improve or “save the world.”
Reconstructionism

Escapism
Separationism
Withdrawal
Detachment
Asceticism
Monasticism
Disengagement
Uninvolved
Avoidance

Ghetto mentality
Bombshelter mentality
Christian sub-culture
Become “Holy Huddle”
Repudiation of the world
Make war with the world

Accommodationism

Ecclesia - “called out”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Interactive

Both/And Dialectics

dealing with

Social Issues
Conflict

- Primary theory of secular sociology
  - disagreement, animosity, opposition, discord, contention, rivalry, competition, rancor, fight
- Opposing opinions: nationality, race, religion, gender, age, ideology, preferences.
- Fallen world system
  - “my way” - selfishness
  - Judg. 17:6 - “Every man did what was right in his own eyes”
- “In this world you will have tribulation” (Jn 16:33)

Peace

- Amicable fellowship
- Loving community
- - agreement, harmony, conciliation, accord, civility, mutuality
- Matt. 5:9 - “blessed are the peacemakers”
- Jn. 20:19 - “Peace be with you.”
- Rom. 12:18 - be at peace with all men”
- Rodney King - “why can’t we all get along”

Agree to disagree

NOT merely absence of conflict

---

Extremism

- Crusaderism
  - war-mongers
  - “might makes right”
  - “may the best one win”
  - “In it to win it!”
- Fight to the death
  - decimation of enemy.
- Fundamentalism
  - tends to fight over correct belief system

- Utopianism
  - Idealism of “heaven on earth”
  - Ambivalence
  - “who gives a damn?”
- Peaceful coexistence despite beliefs or conduct
- Pluralism - believe what you will; peace at any cost

---

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Institutions

Divine

God-ordained institutions:

• Human volition
  Gen. 2:7-17 - God Self-limited Himself to create response-able choosing derivative creatures.

• Marriage
  Gen. 2:18-25 - God instituted the relational union of one man and one woman in marriage.

• Government
  Rom. 13:1-7 - “no governing authority except from God.” to provide order, rule, control...

• Church - ecclesia
  Matt. 16:18 - “I will build My church.”
  Jesus is Head of Church
  cf. Eph. 1:22,23; Col. 1:18

Human

Human institutions and organizations necessary for implementing form & structure of divine institutions.

Such institutions may be:

- ideological
- legal
- social
- cultural
- national
- community, public
- political
- moral
- economic
- educational
- athletic
- religious
- business
- benevolent
- medical

Extremism

Institutionalism
Structuralism
Formalism
Authoritarianism
Humanism

Making human institutions sacrosanct.
- deifying one’s ideology, political persuasions, nationalism, patriotism, religionism.

Humanism
Absolutism
Fundamentalism
Idealism
Proceduralism
Techniquism

Governmental totalitarianism
- abuse of power

Ecclesiastical imposition

Dialectic – Both/And

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Individualism
- “every man for himself”
- “stand up for your rights”

“our personal rights are what constitute and define our nation

“Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety.”
- Ben Franklin

Personal Privacy Rights
Uniqueness of our government with defined and amplified “Bill of Rights,” expressing individual rights and freedoms.
- right to personal safety and protection
- right to freedom of speech and press within context.
- right to freedom of religion and worship practice
- right to privacy of person (modesty) and personal information.
- right to earn money and spend as desired.
- right to protect property
- right to protect reputation against defamation
- right to pursuit of personal happiness

National Security
Individuals must recognize they are part of a greater whole, and that nation is responsible for the safety and protection of all.

When the safety and preservation of the nation is at jeopardy, individual rights and liberties may have to be restricted or sacrificed to preserve existence and security of nation.

Where will the individual rights and freedoms be if there is no nation to guarantee those rights?

Democratic government must eschew despotism.

Collectivism
The safety of the whole is more important than the rights of individuals.

“Only the idiots would ‘save their own butts,’ while watching the national ship sink.”

“Those who would give up national security for the exercise of personal rights, deserve neither security or liberty.”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Politics – Social Governance

Preservation
- Need to preserve the heritage of our cultural values and traditions.
- Need to respect and preserve what our forefathers have constructed.
- Past orientation - realization of what is most important and what is worth keeping.
- Conservative traditions, conformity of common values
- Institutional thinking - “we’re in this together”

Progression
- Need to look ahead to see how we can progress and improve and advance.
- Need to change, move on, make progress to stay at the forefront.
- Future orientation - onward and upward to innovation and advancement
- Liberal non-conformity - “time to try something new and different”
- Individuated thinking - personal potential

Dialectic – Both/And
- Extremism
- Preservation
  - Conservatism
  - Preservationism
  - Traditionalism
  - Historicism
  - Absolutism
  - Moralism
  - Obstructionism - stuck in the rut of the past.
  - “we’ve never done it that way before!”
  - retrograde mind-set
  - Status-quo stagnation
  - Republican party
- Progression
  - Liberalism
  - Progressivism
  - Utilitarianism
  - Pluralism
  - Multi-culturalism
  - Relativism
  - Pragmatism
  - Materialism
  - Activism
  - Social deconstruction
  - Anti-institutionalism
  - Cynicism
  - Utopianism - keep getting better and better.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Social Governance

Individual Freedom

Individual human beings have an intrinsic right for freedom to pursue their own happiness and objectives.

Personal freedom to seek meaning and purpose require personal character and responsibility.

American Constitutional “Bill of rights”

I Pet. 2:16 - “act as free men”

Social Order

Societal laws are required to maintain order and safety for all in the social unit.

Social participation involves social responsibilities, duties, and contribution to the welfare of the whole.

I Pet. 2:13 - “submit to human institutions”

Heb. 13:14 - “obey your leaders and submit”

“Society cannot exist unless a controlling power upon will and appetite be placed somewhere, and the less of it there is within, the more there will be without.” - Edward Burke
Immigration

Government Protection of Citizenry
- Government has right of national sovereignty and obligation to protect its borders and citizenry.
- Government has jurisdiction to establish bases of citizenship.
- Right to mandate all immigrants obey all laws.
- Must protect citizens from accommodation to customs of foreigners (Deut. 28:43,44)

Human Concern for Asylum-seekers
- Responsible, God-fearing citizens have obligation to protect displaced, asylum-seekers, refugees, and immigrants.
- Lev. 19:34 - “The stranger who resides with you shall be to you as the native among you, and you shall love him as yourself”
- Deut. 10:18 - “show love for the alien by giving him food and clothing.”
- Matt. 25:40 - “to the extent that you did it to the least of these you did it to Me”
- Heb. 13:2 - “do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers...”

---

Nationalism
- Protectionism
- Isolationism
- Utopianism
- Self-preservation
- Excuses:
  - social burden
  - economic threat
  - security threat

Fear-based reactions
- ambivalence,
- “full; no vacancy; go home”
- dehumanization of “others,” the “outsiders”
- no tolerance for “illegals”

Humanitarianism
- “human rights”
- Sentimentalism
- “bleeding heart” sym/empathy
- presented as selfless altruism
- based on secularistic pluralism and multi-culturalism.

Advocacy of “open borders” and amnesty for all.
Premise of abject victim-objects is terrible victimization and dehumanization.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Citizenship and War

Earthly Nation

- Rom. 13:1 - “Let every person be in subjection to the governing authorities”
- I Pet. 2:13 - “Submit yourselves to every human institution.”

Spiritual Kingdom

- Phil. 3:20 - “our citizenship is in heaven.”
- Matt. 5:9 - “blessed are the peacemakers”
- Matt. 26:52 - “those who take up the sword shall perish by the sword.”
- Jn. 18:36 - “If My kingdom was of this world, then My servants would fight”

Right of nation to protect itself and citizens
- armed defense
- retributive justice
- preserve human rights

Responsibility of citizens to obey government, but not unreservedly or slavishly.

Concept of “just war”
- Augustine and Aquinas

Dialectic – Both/And

Aversion & resistance to
- world’s power-struggles
- conflict and war

Right of individual Christian to act on basis of conviction (Rom. 14:5) and conscience (Heb. 13:18; I Pet. 2:19)

Nationalism

Patriotism
- “our country, right or wrong”

Militarism
- aggression
- invasion
- occupation
- domination
- Crusades
- jihad

Pacifism
- avoidance
- non-involvement

Idealism

Passivism
- avoidance
- non-involvement

Passivism

Isolationism
- Escapism

Self-preservation

Cowardice

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Conflict and War

Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Extremism</th>
<th>Confrontational</th>
<th>Non-confrontational</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>War-mongers</td>
<td>• Warrior God</td>
<td>• Messiah - God’s deliverer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Ps. 68:30 - those who delight in war</td>
<td>• Exod. 15:3 - Lord is warrior</td>
<td>• Isa. 9:6 - “Prince of Peace”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Time for war</td>
<td>• Ps. 24:8 - “Lord strong in battle”</td>
<td>• Micah 4:3-5 - “beat swords into plowshares”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Militarism</td>
<td>• Offensive war</td>
<td>• Peacemakers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nationalism</td>
<td>• “Time for war”</td>
<td>• Matt. 5:9-11 - “blessed are the peacemakers”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• “a time for war”</td>
<td>• Defensive war</td>
<td>• New covenant love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Ps. 82:1-4 - “do just to the afflicted; deliver from the wicked”</td>
<td>• “Num. 31:7 - “they made war, as Lord commanded”</td>
<td>• Matt. 5:44 “love enemies”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crusades</td>
<td>• Do justice</td>
<td>• Non-resistance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- “God is on our side”</td>
<td>- Ps. 82:1-4 - “do just to the afflicted; deliver from the wicked”</td>
<td>• Matt. 5:39 - “do not resist him who is evil”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- “Holy war” against infidels</td>
<td>• II Kgs 20:6 - “I will defend this city, for My sake”</td>
<td>• Non-retaliatory</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Governmental authority</td>
<td>• Do justice</td>
<td>- Rom. 12:17-19 - “Never pay back evil for evil”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Power and force are the only solution</td>
<td>• I Pt 2:13-17 - “governors sent by God to punish...”</td>
<td>• Non-hostile</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>- Matt. 5:21 - “everyone who is angry is guilty”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>• Positive action</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>- Rom. 12:20 - “if enemy is hungry, feed him....”</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Ideological
- Legalism
  - “All war is wrong, immoral, unjust”

Passivism
- Acquiescence

Non-involvement
- Isolationism

Idealism
- “visualize peace, eliminate hate”
- “make love, not war”
- essential good of mankind will avoid war

Power and force are the only solution

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Social Progress

Institutional
- Collective activity of social institutions to be concerned for the whole.
- Church, government, benevolence agencies.
- Preserve equal rights - concern for less-fortunate, poor, disadvantaged, handicapped, hungry - social action, reform, stand against injustice via institutional improvement
- Promotes giving, sharing, providing for others
- Takes into account basic collective concern for fairness and equity.

Individual
- Individual person freedom and incentive to “be all I can be.”
- Human responsibility for moral propriety.
- Promote equal opportunity - personal success, prosperity, economic efficiency, innovation - internal change of spiritual character, respect for others, self-sacrifice and personal improvement
- Promotes acquisition
- Selfish aspirations can be spiritually exchanged for loving character of Christ.

---

Socialism
Communalism
Statism
Egalitarianism
Wealth redistribution
Entitlement
- “I have a right to have what you have.”
Big government social programs
“Bleeding heart” altruism

Individualism
- narcissism
- selfishness
- “each person must do his best”
Capitalism
Plutocracy
Aversion to taxation
Conservatism
- “We’ve never done it that way before.”
Materialism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Human Existence - Life/Death

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Divine Determination</th>
<th>Human Determination</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Life and death are determined by and derived from spiritual source.</td>
<td>Human beings designed to live and die by the consequences of their choices.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- “time to be born, time to die” - Eccl. 3:2</td>
<td>- freedom of choice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Heb. 2:14 - “one having the power of death”</td>
<td>- choosing creatures</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Job 33:4 - “the Almighty gives me life”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Jn 5:21 - “Father gives life ... Son gives life”</td>
<td>Human beings can, and do, make choices to allow for</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Jn 6:63 - “Spirit gives life”</td>
<td>• physical life or death</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divine determination of the dignity of human life and death.</td>
<td>- abortion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- euthanasia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- suicide, murder</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• spiritual life or death</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- rejection of life offer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- regeneration unto life in Christ Jesus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>- apostasy</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

“Right to Life” movement opposes abortion and euthanasia on the grounds that human determination should not override Divine determination.

Divine Determinism
- “dignity of human life” can become a way of deifying human life.

“Right to Choose” movement often denies any legitimacy to divine determination in the realm of physical life or death.

Humanism
- deification of human volition and the choice to make ultimate determinations of life and death.
Determinations of Life and Death

Dignity of Life
- Intrinsic worth, value, sanctity of human life.
- Determined by God's order and structure.
- Mankind created as highest order of life.

Quality of Life
- Human choices difficult in real-world situations.
- Determined by man's evaluation of acceptability.
- God created humans as choosing creatures.

Conservatism
- God has determined absolutes.
- Civil laws legislate such.
- Vitalism - "right to life" preserved with no "right to choose quality."

Ideological Absolutism
- Inordinate respect for human life may become bio-idolatry.
- Fearful of medical technology manipulating life.

Liberalism
- Individual right to determination of quality of life and death.
- Basic "right to death" by self-chosen means.
- No "right to kill"

Dialectic – Both/And

Extremism

Medical field honors dignity of life.
- Hippocratic oath

Spectrum of acceptability between "life lived to the fullest" - "mere existence"

Created "right to choose" in human responsibility.

Tolerance of choices may become deification of reason.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Human Reasoning

!Dialectic – Both/And

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Deductive</th>
<th>Inductive</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Top-down logic</td>
<td>Bottom-up logic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- a priori</td>
<td>- a posteriori</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- prior determination</td>
<td>- reasoning back to source</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- archetypal origin and source</td>
<td>- ectypal observation of the type</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Human Reasoning Methods</th>
<th>Human Reasoning Methods</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Projection of ideas</td>
<td>Evaluation of things</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- noumenal</td>
<td>- phenomenal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- conceptual</td>
<td>- perceptual</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- suppositional</td>
<td>- evidentiary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- ideological categories</td>
<td>- observed manifestations</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Human Reasoning Methods</th>
<th>Human Reasoning Methods</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Being a se - in itself</td>
<td>Doing - examination</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- objective reality is inferred as self-evident and self-existent</td>
<td>- subjective involvement of the do-er analyzing observed data</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Human Reasoning Methods</th>
<th>Human Reasoning Methods</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Abstract and intangible generalization</td>
<td>Concrete and tangible particularization</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- “In the beginning God..”</td>
<td>- Arguments for God’s existence</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Extreme Views
- Platonism
  - Projectionism
  - Idealism
    - the “really real” is intangible and cannot be seen”
  - Supernaturalism
  - Metaphysical
  - Creationism
- Universal
- Objectivism
- Augustinianism

Extreme Views
- Aristotelianism
- Empiricism
- Realism
  - the “really real” is what you see and touch”
- Naturalism
- Physical
- Scientism
- Cosmological
- Subjectivism
- Thomism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Rationality

Human Logic
- Finite human reasoning
  - noumenal; nous = mind
  - mental consideration
  - propositional truths
  - transferrable knowledge
- Enlightenment elevated
- empirical knowledge of physical world.
- I Cor. 3:19 - “wisdom of this world is foolishness
- I Cor. 1:21 - “wisdom of world does not know God
- I Cor. 2:14 - things of God are foolishness”
- I Cor. 2:14 - “does not understand spiritual things”
- “Learned ignorance” - Nicolas of Cusa
- Either/or dichotomies
  - “law of non-contradiction
  - “excluded middle?

TheoLogic
- Infinite divine wisdom is made known by revelation
- “knowing” beyond human explication
- open-ended mystery
- apophatic theology
- faith supersedes reason
- I Cor. 1:21 - “wisdom of God in a mystery”
- I Cor 2:7 - “Gods wisdom
- Isa. 55:8,9 - “My thoughts are not your thoughts…”
- I Cor. 2:13 - “taught by Spirit, combining spiritual thoughts with spiritual words”
- Spiritual discernment
- “Coincidence of opposites”
- - Nicolas of Cusa
- Both/and dialectics
- - cf. Kierkegaard

Extremism
- Intellectual pride
  - I Cor 8:1-“knowledge makes arrogant”
  - “It can’t be true if it doesn’t make sense to me”
  - Human mind is the final arbiter of truth

Fideism
- Mysticism
- Spiritualism
- Irrationalism
- Anti-intellectualism

Aporia - doesn’t compute
- incomprehensible
- perplexity
- befuddlement

“Don’t try to understand; just trust God”

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Prophecy

Foretell

Gk. prophetes - to speak before in terms of time.

Prediction

God knows the end from the beginning, but His primary intent is not the implementation of a prescribed agenda in time.

Old Covenant prophecy (cf. II Peter 1:21) often had double entendre:
- short term & long term
- Israel and Messiah

New covenant “gift of prophecy” - cf. Rom. 12:6; I Cor. 12:10; 13:2,8; 14:1,6

Forthtell

Gk. prophetes - to speak before personal hearers.

Proclamation

The relational Triune God is concerned about having relationality with humans, by speaking into their hearts.

New covenant obedience, hupakouo, is “to listen under” His speaking.

Kerygma - to proclaim or herald in Christocentric evangelistic preaching

Didache - to teach or train via Christocentric exposition and catechesis.

Gnosticism

- human beings preoccupied with wanting to know.

Often becomes an informational priority with content of teaching, rather than personal relational priority of hearing what God desires to speak to our hearts.

Futurism

- human beings preoccupied with space/time calculations.

- perverse desire of fallen mankind to know what will come
- often precludes faith.
- often results in wild spectulations

Proceduralism

- attempting to get God and His ways figured out.
- want Divine Plan and agenda to self-determine.
The symbolic imagery employed in the Apocalypse is consistent with that of apocalyptic literature from post-exilic Judaic history. Cryptic imagery from mythological and cosmological traditions were used to illustrate and reveal hidden realities. Diverse hermeneutic methods utilized to interpret these cryptic images throughout Christian history.

Important to approach the Apocalypse from a Christ-centered perspective. Conflict is the setting of the Apocalypse. There is a war going on! There is no doubt that the victor of the conflict is Jesus Christ.

- Preterists (Roman emperors)
- Historicists (Roman church or world leaders)
- Futurists (speculate on future nations or leader)

Cryptic Vision

Christus Victor

Some have overgeneralized and “spiritualized” the cryptic images in resigned obscurantism: “It doesn’t matter what the symbols mean; we know who wins in the end!”

Triumphalism

- Some so confident of Christ’s ultimate victory they become passive & apathetic.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Dialectics

Objective
- External - outside of how we think, feel and choose.
- Truth-tenets should be accurately based on legitimate data regardless of our acceptance or belief in such.

Subjective
- Internal - inside of our spiritual and psychic being
- It is important that our mental assent, emotional feelings, and volitional acceptance align with the objective data.

- Doctrinal
- Theological
- Philosophical
- Some personalities are more objective-oriented.

- Practical - practicum
- Experiential
- Behavioral
- Some personalities are more subjective-oriented.

God calls some teachers to emphasize one leg or one rail of a dialectic more than the other. Primary emphasis does not necessarily mean that a dialectic balance is not being maintained. And some listeners prefer to hear instruction emphasizing one side or the other.

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Christian Understanding

Dialectics

- Dialecticism
  - everything can be understood when put into a chart showing the contrasting perspectives of every category.

  “An individual who cannot see both sides of an issue is destined to extremism.”

- Objectivism

  Expanded horizons of thought allow for greater understanding and communicative interaction in the Christian community.

Single Focus

- The “single-eye” of Faith, focused on relationality with the living Lord Jesus.
  (cf. Matt. 6:22; Lk. 11:32)

  - Sola Christos was the Reformation motto.

  Lk. 10:42 - “one thing is necessary” (faith that listens to Jesus)

  The singularity of Jesus Christ and the singularity of the Christian’s focused participation in Christ as their life.

Extremism

- Fideism
  - one shouldn’t attempt to use their mind to see the broader perspective of Christian thinking.
  - Just faith it!

- Subjectivism

  “dialectics is a form of relativism”

  “A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways”
  (James 1:8)

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Conclusion
CONCLUSION

The foregoing dialectic charts are but a few of the ever-growing, seemingly never-ending development of both/and dialectic charts that keep my mind going back and forth day after day. They keep waking me up early in the morning, and keep my wife shaking her head in disbelief at my bobble-head brain!

The foregoing sequence of charts is a formatting for Christian thought that attempts to keep a balanced perspective of various themes, while avoiding the extremes that have so often become either/or conflicts that have long dominated Christian thinking and interaction. This study could be developed into a unique form of balanced systematic theology, if someone had the time and inclination to flesh out these skeletal charts (others of their own making) with elaborated explanation and commentary.

In the midst of this study on “the dialectic formatting of Christian thought,” you may have discovered that there were categories where you have tended to take a “one-sided perspective” that may have failed to take into consideration both sides of God’s revealed truths. It is sometimes difficult for our minds and ego-pride to allow for a readjustment of our thinking, to recognize and admit that there may be areas where we have slid off into an “....ism” ditch, rather than taking into account the “full counsel of God” (Acts 20:27 – KJB). It is always healthy to expand our horizons, and to become more accepting and appreciative of other perspectives and the people who hold those opinions. Part of the value of this study is that it can stretch our thinking, and cause us to realize that many of these subjects are broader than we may have realized.

Perhaps a caution is also in order concerning these dialectic charts. As we have shared these dialectic charts, one after another in category after category, it may appear that this creates clean, clear-cut diagrams, providing precise explanations of the contrasts of human and Christian thought, and the corresponding extremes of over-emphasis.
It is only fair that I caution you to beware. Dialectics can be a messy business! There are some slippery slopes, some melding crossovers that can cause your brain to get fuzzy and go mushy! One form of dialectic can be embedded inside of another dialectic. One side of a dialectic can be subdivided into numerous other dialectics. It is quite understandable why some people mistakenly regard dialectic thought as a form of “relativism” that refuses to construct any absolutes. And they even quote James’ statement, “A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways” (James 1:8). In dialectic theological thinking there is no doubt that the definitiveness and precision that theologians like to think they have figured out and can then assert as the “truth” is diminished; and Christian thinkers consequently have to be more honest about the finitude of their reasoning processes.

We certainly do not want to give the impression that by the use of these charts, or that by the dialectic thinking process one can get everything “figured out,” “cut-and-dried,” “nailed down,” or that this dialectic formatting should necessarily become a required exercise in the analysis and systematization of human or Christian belief. We must beware that such a study as this might lead to an undue elevation or even a deification of the dialectic process. Yes, we must even give a warning against excessive dialecticizing!!

Perhaps this study of dialectics has stretched the parameters of your belief-system, provided there is enough elasticity and flexibility in your thinking, and your mind is not set in concrete. The reader may discover they have to do a re-think of some tenets they thought were valid. On the other hand, if this study fails to lead people into a deeper trusting faith in a personal relationship with the risen and living Lord Jesus, then it could conceivably be a detriment to some people’s faith. Feel free to question and reject this formatting tool of dialectics.

There is no correct way to construct these diagrams of dialectic. Everyone will construct them differently. I have drawn hundreds of charts, and many of them incorporate elements of other charts. This is just a formatting procedure for “seeing two sides” of various themes. What we have proposed is just a stereoscopic lens for looking at various Christian categories.

I have found that the dialectic formatting of Christian thought and practice gives me a sense of mental balance and helps me to avoid the extremes in the avoidance of fundamentalism, Gnosticism, fideism and several thousand other man-made ...isms of human formulation. For over two decades now, the dialectic perspective has become the infrastructure of my theological thinking. But, on the other hand, neither do I want to fall into an extremist ditch of dialecticism as a procedural necessity of Christian thinking.

It is possible, as you can see in the final dialectic chart (#130), to place the concept of “dialectic” within a dialectic diagram. The objective process of the dialectic formatting of Christian thought and practice is juxtaposed with the subjective process of viewing God and His ways with the “single eye” of faith. Aberrant extremisms exist when either approach is emphasized to the denial, diminishment, or neglect of the other. It is possible to so focus on objective dialectic formatting to the neglect of a personal faith-focus, that one falls into the ditch of dialecticism. On the other hand, some have so emphasized the subjective focus of faith that they have fallen into the ditch of fideism. Only when the objective and subjective elements of Christian faith are maintained in balanced equilibrium do we present the gospel honestly and with integrity.

By all means we want to avoid disparaging the “single eye” focus of faith on the singularity of the Savior, Jesus Christ, that allows individuals to participate personally and subjectively in Christ by receptivity in the divine life, love and reality of God in Christ by the Spirit. That is where all our ponderings should lead us, to a deep and intimate personal relationship with the living Lord Jesus Christ.
Addenda
Dichotomous Polarities

Either / Or

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>God</th>
<th>Satan</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>God</td>
<td>Humanity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Creator</td>
<td>Creature</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Independent</td>
<td>Dependent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Good</td>
<td>Evil</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spirit of truth</td>
<td>Spirit of error</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holiness</td>
<td>Sin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Righteousness</td>
<td>Iniquity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christ</td>
<td>Adam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christian</td>
<td>Natural man</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grace</td>
<td>Performance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spirit</td>
<td>Flesh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heaven</td>
<td>Hell</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NOT Dialectics – i.e. Both / And

NOT Dualisms – like Yin / Yang

© 2014 by James A. Fowler. All rights reserved.
Addendum B

Terminology

Binary – “twofold” – base-two digital computing

Polarity – Divergent poles of contrasting ideas or actions; bipolar

Paradox – two idea or statements that “appear alongside” of one another and appear to be contradictory or incongruous.

Antinomy – diverse concepts that are “against the law of reason;” they are mutually incompatible or involve an irresolvable contradiction.

Dichotomy – “cut in two” – dissection or bifurcation into two Parts

Dualism – demarcation of two opposites. Classical definition of two mutually exclusive and absolute equal forces in perpetual stalemate or stand-off

Dialectic – (dia=through; lecto=talk) “To speak or converse through” various contrasting issues or ideas. Divergent history:

Socrates – dialogue, discussion and cross-examination of ideas
Plato – “theory of ideas” allowing for mutual consensus
Aristotle – formal logic of syllogistic argumentation
Abelard – Sic et Non (So & No); pseudo and anti dialecticians
Nicolas of Cusa – “coincidentia oppositorum” – contrasting thoughts must be viewed from God’s perspective.
Hegel – triadic integration of thesis, antithesis into synthesis
Marx – “dialectical materialism” – progressively liberate oppressed peoples to produce materialistic egalitarianism.
Kierkegaard – experiential (existential) dialectic. “Absolute Paradox” of the incarnation and crucifixion of Jesus Christ.
Jean-Paul Sartre – secular existentialist dialectic philosophy.
Karl Barth – “Dialectic Theology” – knowability of God through His Self-revelation in Jesus Christ.
Jacques Ellul – dialectic of complementarity and reciprocity
Addendum C

Dialectic Diversity

Hegel’s Synthetic Reductionism

Kierkegaard’s Inverted Existentialism

Interactive Both/And Dialectics

© 2014 by James A. Fowler
Hegel’s Synthetic Reductionism

Objective thought categories.
Hegel - “logical science”
Torrance - “theological science”

Ultimate synthesis thought to be:
- Ultimate Reality
- Mind of God
- Absolute Being

“Law of diminishing returns.”

Progressive thought compression:
Boiled down to the lowest common denominator.
Kierkegaard’s Inverted Existentialism

Soren Kierkegaard referred to his thinking as an “inverted dialectic”
Inverted • from objective to subjective categories
• from mental ideology to personal & experiential
• from static particulars to dynamic processes

Within the experiential circumstances of life one’s subjective attitudes can be transformed by means of Christ’s character.

“Truth is Subjectivity”
Addendum F

Interactive Dialectics

God’s Self-revelation
Divine Pivot Point

G △ D

BOTH / AND
Tensioned Balance
Dynamic Reciprocity
Continual Conversation
“Talk Through”

One-sided interpretation
Extremism
Aberration
Human -isms
Religion

Complementary – NOT competition of themes, topics, tenets, theses

NOT
Thesis – Antithesis
Contradictory Paradox
Irrational Antinomy

©2014 James A. Fowler. All rights reserved.
Addendum G

BOTH / AND

Dialectic Charts

... the diminishment, denial of one, or undue dominance of one over the other.

Failure to maintain tensioned-balance of dialectic complementarity results in:

EITHER / OR

Dichotomy

Polarity

Conflict
Taking sides
One right – One wrong
“Both cannot be right”
Antilectic - talk against one another

©2014 James A. Fowler. All rights reserved.
AVOIDING THE DITCHES

Ditch of Extremism or Aberration

Illustration by Carrie McDaniels
©2014 by James A. Fowler
Philosophical Foundations of Dialectic Thought

Plato
428–328 B.C.

- Approach to knowledge: a priori
- Prior to observation
- Speculation - postulation
- Noumena
- Conceptual / Mental
- Objectivity
- External - detachment
- Ideological dialectics
- Rhetorical, forensic

BEING
- Essence

Aristotle
384–322 B.C.

- Approach to knowledge: a posteriori
- After observation
- Observation - evaluation
- Phenomena
- Perceptual / Experiential
- Subjectivity
- Internal - involvement
- Syllogistic dialectics
- If...then...therefore

DOING
- Function

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Philosophical Foundations

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Being</th>
<th>Doing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Essentialism</td>
<td>Function</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Realism</td>
<td>Activity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Idealism</td>
<td>Operational</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conceptualism</td>
<td>Perceptual</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rationalism</td>
<td>Expression</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gnosticism</td>
<td>Phenomena</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rationalism</td>
<td>Experiential</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Objectivism</td>
<td>Subjective</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Absolutism</td>
<td>Relative</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deism</td>
<td>Immanent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Universalism</td>
<td>Particular</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Functionalism
- Activism
- Dynamism
- Visualism
- Expressionism
- Phenomenalism
- Existentialism
- Subjectivism
- Relativism
- Immanentism

©2014 by James A. Fowler
Bibliography
BIBLIOGRAPHY

Venning, Ralph, Orthodox Paradoxes Theoretical and Experimental. London: Printed for John Hancock, at the three Bibles in Popes Head Alley in Cornhill, 1677.

